JAIL SENTENCES

For Boston Men Found Picking Pockets Here

Several Other Cases Disposed of—Larceny Case Tried and Put Over Pending Investigation

Martin McDonough and John McGlinchey, two young men who claim Boston as their home, were arraigned before Judge Hadley in police court this morning on complaints charging them with the larceny of a pocketbook containing $2 and some small change, the property of Stewart C. Gulline. Through their counsel, J. Joseph Hennessy, pleas of not guilty were entered.

During the course of the testimony Israel Warshawsky, a junk dealer and peddler, who was a witness for the government testified that yesterday while he was out peddling a man who claimed to belong in Boston approached him and offered to give him $2 if he would not appear in court this morning to testify against the young men.

The alleged larceny was committed about four o'clock on the afternoon of Labor Day in School street near the Pawtucket bridge while thousands of people were retreating from the automobile races.

The first witness called for the government was the complainant, Mr. Gulline, who testified that he and his family had been witnessing the races from a private house in Varnum avenue during the day and after the races were over he walked through Varnum avenue and over the Pawtucket bridge in order to get an electric car. There were several cars near the bridge and people were rushing for them.

As he boarded one of the cars, McDonough got on his left and McGlinchey got on the right side of him. After he had been sitting in the car for a few moments he put his hand into the pocket where he carries his watch to learn if it were there. The watch was all right. He then placed his hand in his trouser pocket and found that his pocketbook was missing. He then grew suspicious of the young men who had been sitting on either side of him and who had left the car for no apparent reason.

He saw the two men walking through School street towards Pawtucket street and noticed that one was showing something to the other, but what it was that they were looking at he could not make out.

Mr. Gulline jumped off the car and grabbing McDonough accused the latter and McGlinchey of robbing him. They denied the allegation and McDonough, breaking away from Mr. Gulline, started to go. McGlinchey followed. The two young men cut through a spare lot near the Spaulding house, crossed through Pawtucket street, ran up Warrum street to West Bowers where McDonough was caught. McGlinchey was captured in Lombard street.

Israel Warshawsky testified that he saw McDonough place his hand in Mr. Gulline's pocket and saw him take a pocketbook. The witness was positive that McDonough was the man and knew that McGlinchey was also present. It was during the cross examination of this witness that he stated he had been offered $5 not to come into court and testify in the case.

Harry W. J. Howe, member of the board of charities, was driving through School street when he saw Mr. Gulline and the two young men in earnest conversation and later saw the young men run away. As a result of what Mr. Gulline told him he invited Mr. Gulline to enter his carriage and he gave chase to the two men. McDonough stopped in West Powers street and Mr. Howe jumping from his carriage grabbed him and turned him over to Mr. Gulline and another man while he continued through School street into Lombard street where he caught McGlinchey.

No defense was offered. The defendants were found guilty and sentenced to six months in the house of correction. They appealed and each was held under $400 bonds.

Fell Down Stairs

John Paul was charged with assault and battery on Catherine Dow, it having been alleged that he pushed her down a flight of stairs in a boarding house on the Hamilton corporation several weeks ago. The complainant, the Dow woman, was charged with being drunk. Judge Hadley, after hearing the testimony in the case, was of the opinion that drink was the cause of all the trouble.

According to the testimony offered, Paul and a young lady in the house were conversing when the Dow woman interfered and Paul told her to mind her own business. She had been drinking and becoming provoked at what Paul said, grew abusive. Paul went to pass her in the hallway and she blocked his way. He pushed her one side and she reeled and struck her head against the side of the wall, inflicting a slight gash.

She then claims that she went down stairs to wash the blood from her head when Paul grabbed her and threw her down the flight of stairs. She struck on her head and receiving a bad gash in her head was taken to the hospital where she received treatment.

Dow testified that the woman was drunk and when he went to go down the stairs she got in his way and he pushed her aside, that she staggered and fell down the flight of stairs.

Paul was placed on probation while the complaint of drunkenness against the woman was dismissed.

POPULAR UPRISING

Against Continuance of Old Tannery in Howe St.

UNLESS THE TANNERY NUISANCE IS ABATED ON HOWE STREET, CONDITIONS IN THE VICINITY MAY SOON BE AS REPRESENTED ABOVE

Property Owners Loud in Their Protests Against the Foul Odors—Petitions in Circulation to the Board of Health Which Has Jurisdiction in the Matter—Property Owners Tell of the Damage to Their Property

The American Hide and Leather company is removing the hides from the ruins of its Howe street building preparatory to tearing down the old building and constructing a new one for the purpose of continuing its tanning at that place.

But before the company continues its tanning in Howe street the public will have something to say in the matter, while the proper health authorities, either local or state, will have previously gone on record as deciding that the place is not a nuisance, a decision which none believes they will ever make.

A meeting of the board of health to which Dr. Simpson, the state health inspector of factories of this district, has been invited, has been called for tomorrow afternoon when the tannery matter will be discussed.

Before that meeting is held there will be filed with the board of health two or more formidable petitions from property owners and tenants in lower Belvidere, praying that they be heard in remonstrance to the construction of the nuisance and in the event of a failure to receive satisfaction at the hands of the local authorities the aid of the state board of health will be sought through a petition.

Early this morning Mr. Harry W. Ordway, a heavy taxpayer in the vicinity, residing in Nesmith street, started through the locality with a petition to the board of health for a discontinuance of the nuisance and in an hour he has 12 signatures to his petition representing nearly $100,000 in tenement property in the immediate vicinity. Mr.

Ordway will file his petition with the board of health today in order that it may come before the meeting tomorrow afternoon. Another petition was also started and was rapidly filled with names of the property owners and tenants in the vicinity.

Here are the petitions:

Petitions Being Signed

One of the several petitions in circulation and being freely signed by property owners and business men in the locality is as follows:

To the Lowell Board of Health: Gentlemen: We, the undersigned, owners or occupants of tenements and other real estate in the vicinity of the Howe street tannery of the American Hide and Leather company, hereby certify that the odors from the tannery have made our residence in the vicinity almost unendurable, that it has injured real estate by rendering it undesirable for tenement or business purposes, and that it has also prevented property owners from improving old buildings or erecting new. We further assert that the foul odors from this tannery are injurious to the health of the people who reside in the vicinity. Therefore, we appeal to your honorable body to remove us from this intolerable air that is our right and that as owners we may be permitted to improve our property or as tenants we may be obliged to move to another locality. And your petitioners would further represent that if this nuisance be removed real estate owners will at once begin to build new houses and improve the old so that the town's real estate in that locality will soon bring an increase in revenue to the city far greater than the amount of taxes paid by the American Hide and Leather company on its Howe street plant. Therefore, your petitioners in the interests of the property owners, tenants and business men, schools, the hospital and the churches in the vicinity, appeal to your honorable body for protection against this evil through the condemnation of the Howe street tannery as a nuisance detrimental to the public health and destructive of real estate in the vicinity. And your petitioners will ever pray.

Another petition reads: To the Board of Health, Lowell: Gentlemen: The American Hide and Leather company, a body corporate doing business in Lowell, is engaged in the burning and preparing of hides and skins preparatory to leather manufacturing in Howe street, this city. Said corporation conducts its business in wooden buildings in a manner that is detrimental to public health.

We hereby ask that the sanitary condition of said plant be investigated by your board and that the company shall be compelled to remove its plant to a location not so thickly settled.

We believe as taxpayers and citizens of Lowell that said plant is detrimental to public safety and health as conducted.

Odor Still Exists

While work in the burned building has ceased and the hides are being moved, it is interesting to note that the odor still exists. The petitioners in all cases have been disappointed in their efforts to have the tannery removed or to have the company compelled to remove its plant to a location not so thickly settled.

pany, while it might modify the nuisance slightly will not eliminate it for it is not the building but the nature of the business itself that causes the nuisance. The hides and the ingredients used in their preparation is what causes the trouble and hence it would appear that the only way to rid the locality of the nuisance is to remove the business itself. It is common report in the vicinity that in the past the company has paid property owners rental for empty tenements which could not be rented on account of the odors in the vicinity.

Property Over-Valued

Property owners in the vicinity claim that as a result of the existence of the tannery in Howe street and the subsequent depreciation of their real estate that their property is overvalued and in the event of the board of health failing to remove the existing conditions they are prepared to proceed in a body before the assessors for a general abatement of taxes in that vicinity. Several individual property owners have already approached the assessors for relief as the result of the nuisance, but have met with no success. Now if the health department does not provide the proper relief they will put the matter before the assessors and put them on record in the matter.

Effect on Paint

Mr. Charles P. Smith, the well known real estate man, who owns considerable property in the vicinity, in addition to the evil effect upon the rental value of property in the neighborhood, reports another evil evidently the result of the tannery. Mr. Smith, in conversation with a reporter of The Sun today, said: "Within the past few years I have noticed another condition in regard to the exterior of buildings in the neighborhood, which in my opinion is a result of the gases and smoke from the tannery. Two years ago I painted all the property in my charge in the vicinity of the tannery, using the best of stock and labor. In a surprisingly short time I noticed that the paint had withered its usefulness and the buildings looked as if they hadn't been painted for many years. From my own experience and that of the painters with whom I consulted it was very evident that some outside influence had brought about the change rather than any fault of the paint itself. I am of the opinion that the odors and smoke from the tannery caused this point to change."

In regard to the effect upon the rental market value of property in the vicinity, Mr. Smith said: "I have signed the petition circulated by Mr. Ordway, and will appear before the board of health tomorrow morning to voice my protest. It is difficult to rent property in that vicinity at anywhere near its real rental value, and hence we are not getting and cannot get while the tannery continues, the revenue from our property that it would demand under proper conditions. On a basis of the valuation placed upon it by our assessors we should get much more rent than we do."

Stung for $2,000

"I will gladly second any movement to rid the neighborhood of the tannery, although at present I have no property there. But I was once stung for $2,000 as a result of its odors and I can appreciate what other property owners must be up against."

The speaker was Anthony A. Conway, who once owned a building in Howe street near the tannery.

"Not being familiar with the locality," said Mr. Conway, "I did not realize what a nuisance existed there and I bought a building for about $500. It had deteriorated before I got it but once it became mine I saw that it was continuing to deteriorate and rapidly at that. In a short time I found it impossible to get anything like the rental that I should get for it and I went to the assessors to have the valuation reduced. The assessors didn't give me any satisfaction and I was forced to sell the property at $2,000 less than I would have taken for it if the tannery was not there."

One of the local banks got bitten on a mortgage on a piece of property near the tannery. It was eventually closed up and was practically a total loss. It might as well have been burned down.

Up to Health Board

While there has been much difference of opinion as to whether the tannery matter comes properly before the local board of health or before Dr. Simpson, state health inspector of factories for this district, Dr. Simpson when seen by a reporter of The Sun this morning said: "My jurisdiction in such matters is relative to the conditions afforded the help only. This matter would appear to be up to the board of health. Outside of a general advisory power with the board of health I have no executive power."

If the local board of health declines to pass upon the tannery business as a nuisance then the state board will be appealed to.

The Building Ordinance

Section 16 of the new building ordinance, giving the inspector of lands and buildings power to act when conditions in buildings are unsafe, is as follows:

"Whenever any wall or other part of a burned or otherwise injured building is unsafe, or when any building or any part thereof shall be unsafe for the purpose for which it is intended or used, or whenever any machinery, material or structure used in or about the construction of any building is unsafe for the purpose for which it is intended or used, the inspector of buildings shall notify the owner, agent or occupant of said building, in writing, specifying wherein such danger consists, and ordering such dangerous building or any part thereof, or any such machinery, material or structure removed, taken down, repaired or altered as the inspector of buildings shall require."

"And thereupon the owner, agent or occupant, so as aforesaid, notified by the inspector of buildings, shall forthwith cause such dangerous building, machinery, material or structure in such condition, or taken down and remove the same, and clear the highway of all debris within such time as may be specified in said notice, and said inspector of buildings shall also forthwith give the tenant or occupant notice to vacate within such time as may be specified in said notice."

In a case of the owner or owners or agent of said building or other structure to comply with such order, said inspector of buildings shall cause said building or other structure, or so much thereof as may have been condemned to be taken down and the expense of all work removed, all at the expense of the owner or owners, and the owner or owners shall be liable to the city for all expenses incurred by said inspector in taking down such building or structure, and the removal of the same and the debris therefrom.

"Whenever the inspector of buildings has knowledge of any unsafe building, structure or part thereof, the conditions being such as to endanger the public or the occupants of said building or structure, it shall be his duty to affix a notice of the dangerous character of the building or structure in a conspicuous place on the exterior thereof, and any person removing such notice so affixed shall be subject upon conviction thereof, to a fine of not less than $20 nor more than $50, or to imprisonment until such fine is paid, not exceeding thirty (30) days."

The last building condemned in Lowell was that owned by A. C. Wheeler in Merrimack street at a point opposite Race street.

RETURN TO WORK

Strike at Borden's Mills in Fall River is Ended

FALL RIVER, Sept. 16.—The first general strike in the history of the Fall River works cotton mills owned by M. C. D. Borden of New York was ended when the seven mills of the plant resumed operations after a shutdown of three days. The strike was inaugurated Monday morning when the 1600 weavers of the mills did not report for work in accordance with their vote of the previous Friday. Two hours later the entire 5000 operatives were thrown out of work when the seven mills were closed down.

The strikers return to work on a compromise. They went out to enforce their demand for a ten per cent. increase in wages, but at a mass meeting yesterday half this amount was accepted. While the other 4000 operatives of the mills asked for no advance it was generally believed here today that the five per cent. increase allowed by Mr. Borden would be given them as well as the strikers, but this will not be known until the operatives are paid off the last of the week.

GOLF TOURNAMENT

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—A field which included practically all of the best professionals in the west and several eastern stars started in the western open golf championship tournament over the Skokie club course today.

The tournament is 72 holes medal play and will last today and tomorrow, 36 holes being played each day. The work of George Sargent, the national champion, in the team match yesterday, has led local enthusiasts to believe he has an excellent chance of annexing the title of western champion.

PRES. TAFT

PLAY TODAY

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—With President Taft as non-official umpire the New York and Chicago baseball clubs of the National League will play ball at the West 85th park today with Christy Mathewson and "Jack" Pfeister pitching. With the nation's executive as the added attraction, everything indicates a record attendance when the struggle is set in motion at 3 o'clock.

Federal and baseball chiefs, clubmen, bankers and plain everyday "fans" will gather round to assist the president in celebrating the occasion. Announcement was made yesterday that every reserved seat had been taken but arrangements have been made for the accommodation of thousands of spectators in other parts of the immense park. Five hundred uniformed police, to say nothing of plainclothes men, will be on hand to maintain order and keep the ground clear for the combatants.

President Hedges of the National League, President Johnson of the American League, August Herrmann, chairman of the national commission, and other baseball notables will lend their presence to the occasion. Then there will be the musicians, forty-five leather-lunged artists, rounding out the general scheme.

The schedule completed by officers of the Hamilton club, which is to act as escort for the president, provides for a parade about the city following the arrival of Mr. Taft and at 3 o'clock the travelers will drive into the park. Three thousand seats in that portion of the stand back of the Chicago bench have been reserved for the club members and the president.

WM. ROCKEFELLER

On Union Pacific Executive Committee

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—One of the surprises of the Union Pacific election following the death of Edward H. Harriman was the placing of William Rockefeller on the executive committee.

tee. Jacob H. Schiff's election to this board also was something of a surprise. The Union Pacific's executive committee is composed of R. S. Lovett, William Rockefeller, Jacob H. Schiff, Marvin Huggitt, Frank Vanderlip, and Henry C. Frick.

A NEW DISEASE

Pellagra Troubles the Doctors in Tenn.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—So widespread has interest in the strange malady, pellagra, become among the medical authorities and others throughout the country, that Surg. Gen. Wyman of the public health and marine hospital service has decided to issue a weekly bulletin dealing exclusively with the developments of this disease.

This step has been decided upon as a result of requests from practically all the state boards of health, which are watching the progress of the disease, particularly in the south, with much concern.

The proposed report will show not only the prevalence of pellagra, but will indicate the distribution of the disease. The statistical data for the publication will be furnished by the medical authorities of the various states and territories. This information, it is believed, will be of great aid in determining the cause of pellagra and help materially in the efforts of the government to check its progress.

Dr. Wyman was greatly interested to learn of the action of the Tennessee state board of health in quarantining against the disease, it being held that the malady is communicable. While declining to go on record that pellagra is not communicable, Surg. Gen. Wyman declared that he had observed nothing in the disease that it is a contagious one.

The consensus of opinion among the medical authorities in Italy, where the disease has existed for a long time, Dr. Wyman said, is that it is non-contagious. This view also is entertained by C. H. Lavender, past assistant surgeon of the public health and marine hospital service, who is devoting his entire time to a study of the disease.

WORLD'S SERIES

Planned by the National Commission

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—The National commission met here today in the office of President Dan Johnson of the American League to discuss tentative schedules and plans for the world's championship series between the winners of the playoffs in the National and American leagues. In making up the tentative schedules for the series four clubs were considered—Pittsburgh and Chicago in the National League and Detroit and Philadelphia in the American League. The schedule was drawn up and the only one which will be announced and that of the winner in each league is determined.

The creation of a successor to President John A. Hovey of the National League in handling the world's series was also considered. When Harry Hovey was president of the National League and Robert M. McCoy, secretary of the American League, took charge of the business details of the series, Secretary Charles F. Williams of the Chicago National club will probably succeed Hovey in that capacity.

LARGE SUGAR CROP

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Cuba will harvest 1,000,000 tons of sugar this year, the largest crop in the history of the island, according to the predictions of Marcelino Diaz, de Villegas, Cuban minister of finance. In an interview yesterday in Las Novelas, a Spanish newspaper of this city, last year's crop amounted to 600,000 tons.

COMMANDER PEARY

Planted Delta Kappa Epsilon Flag at the Pole

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity congratulates the discoverer of the pole, thanking him for the honor to its flag and offers "welcoming banquet any date you may select."

This message sent by cable and wireless to Robert E. Peary at Battle Harbor, Lab., resulted from Commander Peary's recent announcement that the origin of his college fraternity was one of the flags he raised at the North pole.

James A. Hawes, secretary of the half of the fraternity, said that shortly before Mr. Peary left for his last trip north he was tendered a banquet here by the New York association. At that occasion a small silk flag of the fraternity was presented to him and he promised to carry it on his expedition and nail it to the pole, just below the national standards if his quest proved successful. Mr. Hawes says that he discovered on all his expeditions carried the Delta Kappa Epsilon badge which he received when he joined the fraternity at Bowdoin college, Me.

GERMAN PRESS

LEANS TO COOK IN THE POLAR CONTROVERSY

HAMBURG, Sept. 16.—Commenting on the latest interview by Commander Peary sent out from Battle Harbor, Lab., the Hamburger Nachrichten says: "The high sounding words have made an extremely unpleasant impression and they will severely draw new friends to Commander Peary."

This exemplifies the general tone of the North German press which leans in this polar controversy strongly to Dr. Cook who is supported by the Hamburg Geographical society.

EXPLORED PEARY

PLANS TO MAKE TRIP TO SOUTH POLE

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Sept. 16.—The mail boat from Labrador, which arrived at St. Johns last night reported that Commander Peary and Captain Bartlett have already settled on an expedition to the South pole. On board the Roosevelt they have furs, sledges and other equipment necessary for such an expedition.

COST $200,000

TO MAKE THE TRIP TO THE POLE

LONDON, Sept. 16.—The report which has reached here that Commander Peary and Capt. Bartlett have decided on a South pole expedition, will create a great stir in geographical circles. Although Captain Robert E. Scott's expedition was decided upon before the arrival of the news of the Cook and Peary exploits it is admitted they were pressed forward with the intention to forestall a possible American expedition and because of quickened interest in polar exploration, evidenced by the projected German and Belgian expeditions to the Antarctic.

Lieut. Ernest H. Shackleton was approached to join Captain Scott, but his engagements preclude any immediate action in that direction.

Capt. Scott's expedition still depends upon the raising of the funds, at least $200,000 being required. A considerable portion of this already has been promised and there is little doubt that the report that Commander Peary is likely to start for the South pole will stimulate the public and hasten the subscription of the remainder. The government has not as yet announced its intention of assisting the enterprise financially but it may be taken for granted that this will be done.

TO BAR NEGROES

MARYLAND AMENDMENT WILL DISFRANCHISE MANY

BALTIMORE, Sept. 16.—An act was passed by a democratic legislature last year providing for the submission to the voters at the election next November of an amendment to the state constitution which it is admitted by leaders of the democratic party will have the effect of disfranchising a large number of negro voters.

It provides for ownership of property valued at not less than $500, or having certain powers to questions in citizenship examination. The amendment contains the so-called "grandfather clause" which will keep off the registration laws the many of any negro who cannot certify with the property ownership of his grandfather.

PRES. SEELEE

TO RETIRE FROM HEAD OF SMITH COLLEGE

NORTHAMPTON, Sept. 16.—President L. Clarke Seelee in welcoming to Smith college for the opening of the new college year the largest number of students in the history of the institution alluded to the fact that this was the last time he would officiate at this ceremony. On July 1 next President Seelee will retire from his service of 34 years and the president-elect, Rev. Dr. Marion L. Burton, will assume his duties. The enrollment of the four classes this year is about 1700, the freshman class numbering 490. President Seelee, in his address, said that the growth of the college had been so great that it had become necessary to limit the number in the entering class to 500 and an effort would be made to keep it down to 450.

During the summer a new library building costing $140,000 has been practically completed and work has been begun on a new assembly hall which will be erected at a cost of over $150,000 and which will be completed by the next commencement. Two of the college buildings have been moved to new sites and extensive grading has been done on the campus.

DIAMOND

THIEF

MANAGERS OF LEADING BASEBALL TEAMS
AND THE GAME'S GREATEST BATTERSWas Arrested in Boston at the Point of Gun

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—A daring daylight attempt at a wholesale diamond robbery followed by a sensational chase through the banking district yesterday afternoon resulted in the arrest at the point of a gun of George E. Ryan, 38, of 415 North Thirtieth street, Philadelphia, Pa., who is charged with the theft of two rings valued at $2000 from Hodgson, Kennard & Co., of 25 State street.

When arrested Ryan threw the rings into the street in Congress square, and a diamond ring valued at $1700 has not yet been recovered.

Ryan entered the diamond store shortly before 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and his well-groomed appearance removed all suspicions of the clerk when he asked to be shown some diamond rings. Not satisfied with those shown he asked for larger carat diamonds, and as the clerk left him to speak with Mr. Hodgson of the firm, Ryan was seen to reach over the counter and open the catch lock of the show case, and before he could be prevented he had grabbed two rings, one an opal valued at $350 and the other a three-stone diamond, valued at $1700. With these in his grasp he made a dash for the door and out onto State street with Mr. Hodgson and the clerk in hot pursuit.

Tall of stature and an excellent runner, he was fast distancing his pursuers when Inspector Robinson of the banking squad, who was standing near the Worthington building noticed the proprietor of one of the richest diamond houses in the city running helter and skelter down Devonshire street, and at once surmised that something was wrong.

Drawing his revolver he started in pursuit also but found that the trio was fast leaving him behind. He resorted to a strategic move and dashed into Congress square, from the State street side just as Ryan, who had doubled on his tracks, dashed in from Devonshire street side.

Levelling his gun on the fugitive he called on him to halt, and Ryan, seeing capture inevitable, tossed into the air the two rings after which he submitted to arrest.

At once the square was crowded by those who had followed in the chase, and after placing the handcuffs on his prisoner, Inspector Robinson made a short search for the missing rings. The opal ring, valued at $350, was found by an honest person, who at once returned it to Mr. Hodgson, but a careful and diligent search of the square by the crowd failed to reveal the missing diamond ring, valued at $1700.

When taken to headquarters by Robinson and Inspector Harris Ryan refused to make any statement about himself or of the attempted robbery. The police are of the belief that he is a member of some well-to-do family, and that this was his first attempt at crookdom for in every way he acted the part of the novice criminal.

WHIST PARTY

Refreshments were served in the dining-room, where the table was tastefully decorated with cut flowers and trailing vines. A large corps of young ladies assisted Miss Schiller with the score cards and in the dining-room.

WANTS HER
PUBLISHED

For Benefit of Women who Suffer from Female Ills

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I was a great sufferer from female troubles which caused a weakness and broken down condition of the system. I read so much of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other suffering women I felt sure it would help me, and I must say it did help me wonderfully. My pains all left me. I grew stronger, and within three months I was a perfectly well woman."

"I want this letter made public to show the benefit women may derive from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. JOHN G. MORDAN, 2115 Second St., North, Minneapolis, Minn.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials like the above prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made exclusively from roots and herbs.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

We never publish a testimonial letter without the special permission of the writer, and then only when we are sure it is genuine. Surely such valuable testimony, therefore, should create confidence in the minds of suffering women.

STUD POKER
PLAYED IN COURT FOR BENEFIT OF JURY

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 16.—That he had lost $1000 by gambling in the Central saloon, originally owned by the republican boss, George B. Cox, between April, 1908, and April, 1909, was the testimony of Isaac M. Asher, a prominent lumber dealer, who testified yesterday in the trial of Charles Hudson and Joseph Bauer on indictments charging that they had played a game of chance on their premises.

Asher testified that in his schedule in bankruptcy he had stated that he had at different times lost in the aggregate from $3000 to $10,000 in the saloon, and said that the game he had played was a stud poker. He was asked to describe the game. Prosecutors Attorney Hunt, making the request, "I guess you know how it is played," answered the witness.

"But probably there may be some fine points that these other gentlemen—the jury, the judge, and the attorney for the defendants—may not quite understand," responded the witness, who then gave a description of the game and told how bets were registered as the dealer distributed the cards.

BOXING GOSSIP.

For the first time in more than a year Sam Langford is training in a dead earnest for the ten round bout with Stanley Ketchel at the Fairmont A. C., New York tonight. Langford has been hard at work for six weeks in a quiet little New England town, and has shown more activity than ever before.

Langford is a better state Las Vegas confidence in himself and who has tackled numerous opponents in times past when half fit. For such non-assurance, Ferguson, Barry, Flynn, Kiblak and Klondike he did not over-exert himself in preparation, while for Langford the English heavyweight, Langford did not train more than ten days or two weeks. When he tackled Morris Harris in Brooklyn last spring less something unforeseen occurs they surely will walk off with the banner. From now on until the season closes Pittsburgh will tackle the eastern teams, which are at present very weak. The Pirates should come pretty near capturing the series from Brooklyn, Boston, Philadelphia and New York. The latter team will probably give the Pittsburgh the hardest tussle. In the American league Detroit will have to fight every inch of the way. The race in San Johnson's district is much closer than that in the older organization. The Tigers will finish the season on the road and will have to play their closest rivals, Philadelphia and Boston, both of which are playing first class ball. Manager Clarke is anxious to have Detroit capture the banner in the American league, so that the bawdy public will be given a chance to see Tyrus Cobb and the only Honus Wagner oppose each other on the diamond. It will give the fans a long looked for chance to size up these two great batters and Detroit recently said that his team was better fitted to stand the strain of a grueling finish than were the Philadelphia and Boston teams and expects little difficulty in winning the banner.

it is a fact that he was not in good fighting trim, and though he scored a knockout in seven rounds he was severely injured himself before he turned the trick. On that occasion, Harris weighed more than 200 pounds, and being a six-footer he towered over Langford like a giant. Ketchel occupied a seat within a few feet of the ropes and watched Langford closely. It was the first time that Ketchel had ever seen the Boston negro in action, and after the bout the Michigan man quickly reached the conclusion that he could beat Langford under any conditions.

But Langford will be in far better condition when he enters the ring Friday night. Long road runs have perked his wind, while strenuous boxing with several lanky partners has enabled him to increase his speed. He will weigh a trifle more than 150 pounds and his trainers say he will put up the fight of his life. Langford is a quiet, unassuming sort of a fellow who says very little about himself. When it comes to decorum he has Jack Johnson easily beaten. He is not a high roller, is sensible enough to refrain from obnoxious methods in arranging matches, and in spite of his color, is a favorite with Eastern fight fans. From the moment that Ketchel laid claim to the middleweight title after knocking out Pape, Langford began asking for a match, having finally secured one with the Boston negro leaving no stone unturned to be at his best, for he knows enough about Ketchel to realize that the latter is the most dangerous man he has ever met. Lack of condition, therefore, cannot be offered as an excuse if Langford is defeated, while in the event of a victory by the colored boxer Ketchel can attribute the same to the wonderful improvement in the Bostonian's trim.

Ketchel was inspected by many sporting men at his Woodlawn quarters Tuesday. He weighed 155 pounds to an ounce, and worked both morning and afternoon. Road runs seemed to do him much good, while his boxing showed plenty of speed and hitting power. He used up several big fellows who wore pneumatic armor breastplates, his blows being as hard at times that the matmen having secured the more aggressive bandages on his hands and wrists so that he might avoid all possible chance of injuries. Ketchel's even disposition and total lack of nervousness impressed the visitors who went away saying that if confidence means anything, he would not begin the fight until he would not take off weight again. As a result this will be Ketchel's first battle as a heavyweight, and he says he will be much stronger than when he beat O'Brien. Both men are somewhat overworked by the report that they will meet at the level. They say they have too much at stake. Each man is anxious to win because of a chance to fight Johnson, for a defeat means a hard tumble down the pugilistic ladder. Referee William J. Fox will enforce the boxing rules in the fight, says that he will prevent any brutal features and will stop the bout the moment it is apparent to him that one or the other is overmatched. Before tonight the club officials say every reserved seat will have been allotted and that no extra accommodations can be provided.

Sam Berger announces that Jeffries' log indictments

THE WORD "MINOR"

Has Special Meaning When Applied to Labor

A matter of great importance, especially in a city like Lowell, where so many foreigners seek work in the mills, constitutes the gist of communications that have passed between A. K. Whitcomb, superintendent of schools, and City solicitor Duncan.

The matter has to do entirely with the word "minor." A minor is one under 21 years of age. That is the common meaning of the word and the legal meaning of it, too, but it seems that in section 17 of chapter 511 of the acts of 1909, a different construction has been put upon it so far as the word applies to labor.

Supt. Whitcomb addressed a communication to the city solicitor relative to the matter, and the city solicitor replied as follows:

Lowell, Mass., Sept. 14, 1909.
Mr. A. K. Whitcomb, Supt. of Schools, Lowell, Mass.
Dear Sir:—In reply to your letter regarding the word "minor" as defined in section 17 of chapter 511 of the acts of 1909 and its application under section 56 of said chapter, I am of the opinion that the word as used in said section 56 means a person under the age of eighteen years and not under the age of twenty-one as contemplated by the revised laws. Very truly yours,

W. W. Duncan, City Solicitor.

Heretofore the illiterate man under 21 years of age, the fellow who could not read and write, was not allowed to work in the mills unless he attended the evening school. When he went to the mill looking for a job he had to go armed with a certificate from the superintendent of schools, and now, if City Solicitor Duncan's opinion is the law, the illiterate over 18 years of age may work in the mills without attending the evening schools. This looks like a step in the wrong direction—a step backwards.

GONE FOR PAPERS

To Bring Feron Back to This City

CAMBRIDGE, Sept. 16.—The announcement that a secret indictment charging murder in the first degree had been returned against Henri Feron of Lowell by the September term of the Middlesex county grand jury for the alleged killing of Mrs. Flora Rivers at Lowell on Aug. 26 last, was made by Dist. Atty. John J. Higgins yesterday.

Mrs. Rivers died from the effects of blows apparently inflicted with an axe. After her death Feron, who was suspected of being implicated, fled to Nashua, N. H., and thence to the province of Quebec. He was arrested several days ago at Megantic, Que., and taken to a jail at Quebec. He refused to return to the United States without extradition papers, and a representative of the district attorney's office has gone to Washington to secure the necessary papers.

PRICE OF BEEF

Has Reached its Highest Point

That the price of meat in Lowell is at its highest cost for the year at the present time, is the declaration of leading meat men in this city who have followed the course of supply and demand with a keen sight for the future.

This is the season when all corn-fed cattle are bringing the highest prices in the markets, and the advance in the sale of prices announced in the past few weeks is believed to be the extreme high point of the year.

Talk of a shortage of cattle and the necessity of importing is not taken seriously, for it is known that the Argentine Republic and other large cattle raising countries in South America are casting covetous glances in the direction of North America for an output of the product of their immense and fertile grazing lands. Should the prices in meat, controlled by the western packers and ranchmen, continue to soar, there is every reason to believe that the eastern wholesalers would sever their ties with the large packers and turn to the new field for the supply.

In the customary course of events, fatted cattle will begin to come into the markets by the first of October with a rush, and the reign of high prices will be over for another year. Should the prices remain at their high point after this time, it will be because, according to the meat dealers, of a shortage of cattle, which will mean a continuous rise in price until foreign shipments could be received. The likelihood, however, of this extreme course is considered improbable in local circles.

TAYLOR'S GRAVE

Located in an East Baltimore Cemetery

The grave of Charles A. Taylor, the first to fall at Baltimore, has been located by General Edward F. Jones of Binghamton, N. Y., who in announcing his intention of attending the reunion of the old 26th Mass. regiment writes as follows:

I expect to attend the reunion of the 26th Massachusetts at Lowell on Saturday, the 15th, and am desirous of meeting as many of my old comrades and friends as possible.

It will be very gratifying to every old soldier of the Union army to learn that the grave of Charles A. Taylor, the first martyr who gave his life in defense of the Union, has been found in an old cemetery at East Baltimore, and that measures will be taken at an early date to transfer whatever remains there may be to Massachusetts. While it is very desirable that all information possible be gathered relating to his death, which possibly might be found in letters written by his comrades at about the time of his death, and respectfully ask survivors and families to look over their old letters to see if some notice of his death may not be contained therein.

This is really very desirable that the history of his death may be correctly written. Thanking you for the many courtesies extended to myself and surviving comrades, I am,
Very truly,
Edward F. Jones.

THE REBATE CHARGES

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—While the usual gray jury secrecy prevailed, and the federal authorities persist in their refusal to discuss the case, it is understood that one of the important matters before the federal grand jury, which convened yesterday, was the investigation of charges of rebating between several trunk line railroads and the Holland-American Steamship Company.

Charges that certain trans-Atlantic steamship companies have conspired to control rates were also under consideration.

From what can be learned, one witness from the Holland-American line was examined, and others have been subpoenaed to appear. The investigation will go on until it is determined whether the evidence warrants returning indictments.

WOMEN FOUGHT DUEL

Both of Them Are Dead as Result of the Quarrel

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—Mrs. Julia Tripp Silvers was in her underclothing. Mrs. and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Louis Silvers, were in the room when the two women fought a duel between the two women in Mrs. Tripp's apartment in 36th street and Erie avenue, of household duties. They had gone out a fashionable residence district of this city. It is said Mrs. Silvers' husband returned shortly after. It had been Mrs. left her about three months ago because of her peculiar actions. Mrs. Silvers was the wife of a superintendent of a manufacturing firm of this city. There were ten bullet wounds and one on the body of Mrs. Tripp. Mrs. Silvers was suffering from a bullet wound in the chest and several knife slashes. Only one revolver was found in the apartments but eight empty shells and two cartridges were found, indicating that the revolver was emptied and reloaded during the struggle. The furnishings of the apartments were in disorder and in every room there was evidence of a desperate struggle. Mrs. Tripp was fully dressed but Mrs. lie in jail suffering and bleeding for more than an hour without medical attention. Panama already has paid the indemnity of $8000 to the relatives of Rand and has agreed to dismiss all the police who were present at the time of the disturbances in the Buffalo case.

GRAY ARRESTED

Charged With Murder in First Degree

KINGSTON, N. Y., Sept. 15.—Aaron Cashdollar is dead, his brother James is in the hospital at Kingston with bullet wounds in his abdomen, which may prove fatal, and Harry Gray is in jail here, charged with murder in the first degree, as the result of a shooting affray Tuesday night which marked the culmination of an old feud between the Cashdollar and Gray families. The families occupy adjoining properties along the Hudson river, and the feud started over the ownership of a plank. When Gray came home Tuesday night the Cashdollars set their dog on him, it is alleged, and when he kicked the animal off a fight ensued. He shot to protect himself, he says, and then surrendered to the police.

KILLED BY GAS

While on His Honeymoon Trip

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 16.—Married but a few days, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tetrault, registered from Boston, enjoyed a brief honeymoon. The young husband being dead and Mrs. Tetrault dying as a result of gas asphyxiation in their room at a local hotel. Medical Examiner Jay Perkins stated his belief that the case was one of accident. A bellboy smelt gas coming from the couple's room yesterday. The door was forced and the two found in bed, the husband dead and the wife unconscious. One gas cock was wide open. It is supposed that the gas was turned on accidentally when the electric lights, on the same fixture, were being turned off.

On Tuesday evening the young husband shyly asked the hotel clerk for a room. He stated that he and his wife had just been married. It is believed the ceremony took place in Boston, as the time of arrival here followed closely that of the arrival of the Boston train. Among the effects of Mr. and Mrs. Tetrault was a birth certificate which showed the husband to be but 19 years old, and papers indicating that the couple had come originally from Milton, Que. Mrs. Tetrault appears to be a few years older than her deceased husband.

At the Rhode Island hospital where the unconscious young woman was taken, it was said last night that her condition was serious.

WOMAN MAY DIE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 16.—Mrs. Arthur Tetrault, the young bride who is believed to be dying at the Rhode Island hospital from the effects of inhaling illuminating gas which caused the death of her husband yesterday, showed no signs of returning consciousness at a late hour this morning and her death was expected. Tetrault and his young wife came here on their honeymoon and yesterday morning the odor of gas led to the discovery of the husband dead with Mrs. Tetrault in an unconscious condition. The couple are believed to have been married in Boston.

KITTREDGE, LAKEVIEW, THURSDAY AND SATURDAY.

WU TING FANG

HAS RETURNED FROM TRIP TO PERU

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Wu Ting Fang who has been recalled as the Chinese minister to this country reached New York last night on the Royal Mail packet liner Oraba from Colon. He returns after a three months' visit in Peru, to which he was accredited as minister as well as to this country, Cuba and Mexico. This, however, is the first time of a Chinese minister to Peru in ten years. Mr. Wu summed up his opinion of the Panama canal which he inspected on his trip, in the one word "wonderful."

"Colonel Goethals took over the ground," he said, "and I had a splendid opportunity to see what is being done. The canal will be a great boon to the world. It will change trade conditions, so far as relations with the East are concerned, in a wonderful manner."

Concerning the North pole controversy, Mr. Wu made a particularly happy remark. When given some of the details of the Peary-Cook dispute, he listened very seriously and then, with a look of bewilderment on his face, said:

"But each man is an American, isn't he?"

"Ah, with a shrug of the shoulders, 'then why should they quarrel?'"

PATHETIC STORY

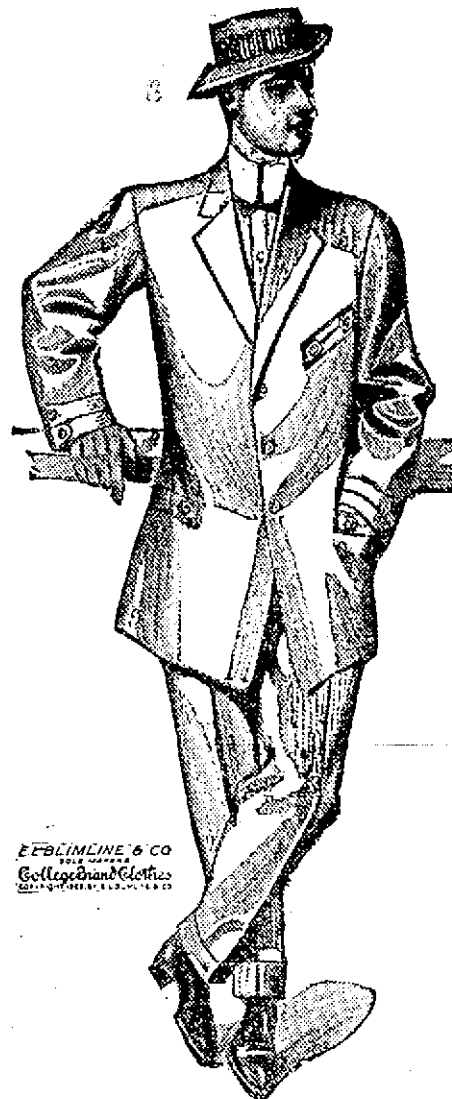

WOMAN STOLE BREAD FOR HER CHILDREN

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—When Mrs. Polly Lasden appeared before Judge Ely in the municipal court yesterday on the charge of stealing bread, she told such a pathetic story of want that her case was promptly dismissed. It was learned that Mrs. Lasden with her husband and five children live at 14 Poplar street. The husband and father, who is a tailor, has been ill for some time and with no income the mother has found it impossible to supply food for the crying children.

She was finally tempted to steal some loaves of bread from the store of Philip Swartz, but was caught in the act. The policeman who made the arrest spoke for the woman in court and Mrs. Tattle, the probation officer, also asked for leniency.

The FALL MODELS

College Brand Clothes

As shown at the Clothes Show,
are in town this week

Did you read or hear of the International Wearing Apparel Show held last month in Madison Square Garden, New York City?

It was a big show of men's wear—and the first of the kind ever held in the country.

Well, one of the greatest features of the show was the exhibit of College Brand Clothes, made by E. L. Blimline & Co., New York City. Among the many clever exhibits the College Brand outfit stood out like a North Pole discoverer.

And not for any freakishness of fabric or design—the best tendencies are toward sauer lines in men's clothes—frills and furbelows are past history with the good makers—but for richness of fabrics and smartness of tailoring, College Brand Clothes stopped them all.

The Smart Clothes Shop was represented at the Clothes Show, and we thought the style lovers among the men of Lowell would like to see what we saw. We couldn't show them all we saw, but we arranged to give them the cream.

And so, this week is COLLEGE CLOTHES week at the SMART CLOTHES SHOP. Four models of Suits and six models of Winter Overcoats are displayed, and many different fabrics are shown in each model.

A few are shown in the windows, but don't hesitate to come inside if you're a clothes lover. There'll be no urging to buy, though with a couple of exceptions we will sell anything we show.

Take the College Brand course this week.

Spoke on the Firemen's Relief Fund a Shoemaker

PLYMOUTH, Sept. 16.—The 30th annual convention of the Massachusetts State Firemen's association opened its three days session here yesterday. Visiting firemen came from all over the state by special train and automobiles and the town was decorated in gay attire.

At the opening meeting, held at 2:30 in Standish hall, the address of welcome was made by Chief Ephraim D. Bartlett of Plymouth and was responded to by Chief Burton Steere of Springfield and Capt. McKissock of Lowell. Then followed President Steere's introductory address.

At the evening session, which assembled at 7:30, Chief E. S. Hosmer of Lowell spoke interestingly on the firemen's $15,000 relief fund.

The address of the evening was given by Charles H. Donohue of Boston. The Hon. Walter S. Watson of Lowell spoke on the benefits of the modern sprinkling system in manufacturing plants. Chief E. F. Cahill of New Bedford made an address on "Summer months' drill in fire departments composed of call and permanent men." Chief George L. Johnson of Waltham spoke on the best methods of exercising fire horses.

THE POLICE

LOOKING FOR GIRL WHO MET FLORENCE WEBER

CANAL DOVER, O., Sept. 16.—Police are searching for an unidentified girl who met Miss Florence Weber, 20 years old, whose body was found in the Tuscarawas river yesterday, shortly after she left the home of her uncle, Samuel Weber, Monday night in response to a mysterious telephone message. Relatives say the message came from a woman. Miss Weber is supposed to have met her death Monday night.

Until last night, relatives of the girl believed she left the vicinity of her uncle's home alone. Mrs. Catherine Keuerleber, however, informed the police that she saw the girl meet soon after Miss Weber left the house. Mrs. Keuerleber who is well acquainted here, says the girl Miss Weber met, was a stranger. She gave the police a good description of her.

Mrs. Keuerleber told the police that she believes the Weber girl has been morose for many days.

The theory that Miss Weber committed suicide was strengthened last night when Coroner Remig reported that there were no bruises on the girl's body.

Miss Weber was employed here as a telephone operator.

ULTIMATUM TO BOLIVIA

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Sept. 16.—The rumor was current here yesterday that Peru had sent an ultimatum to Bolivia, demanding that the latter country should either accept or reject the recent arbitral award by Argentina with reference to the frontier dispute. This could not be confirmed but it is known that there are serious complications between the two countries. Peru has rejected Bolivia's latest propositions and the Peruvian minister has recommended the Peruvian merchants here to place their business interests in the hands of persons of another nationality and prepare for any emergency.

HEROISM OF A WIRELESS OPERATOR.

Telegraph operators have been proverbially heroic in emergencies that required the exercise of courage, in cases of fire or accident, but seldom has greater heroism been shown by any operator than by George E. Eccles of Seattle who went down with the Alaskan steamer, Ohio, after she struck a rock. His calls for help by the wireless appeal "C Q D" brought the steamers Kingfisher, Rupert City and Humboldt to the rock of Steep Point Hishik Narrows, British Columbia, and all but himself and four others were saved.

The Ohio went down in thirteen minutes after it struck, but all the passengers were taken off in boats, and it is said that Eccles remained at his post hammering away at the call for help, the name of the vessel and the location of the ship until the water was pouring in upon him. His last message indicates that he stuck to his instrument after everybody else had gone. As related by a wireless operator who was in communication with him at the last moment it read thus:—

"Passengers all off and adrift in small boats, captain and crew going off in the last boat; waiting for me now—Good bye."

The operator who received that message tried in vain after that to get any answer from Eccles. He had gone down with the steamer as a result of staying too long at his post. His act of heroism was even greater than that of Jack Binns who by remaining at his post saved the Republic and her passengers without, however, sacrificing his own life. This was another instance in which the great value of the wireless as a life saver at sea was illustrated. It shows that the company that allows its vessels to go unequipped with the wireless is neglecting one of the greatest safeguards of human life that is known to science.

DRIVE OUT THE OLD TANNERY.

For many years past the people residing in the vicinity of the Howe street tannery of the American Hide and Leather Co. have been wishing that something would come to bring about its removal. They cared not whether it was a fire, an earthquake or some other calamity that would rid them of a nuisance which had become intolerable.

The property owners in the vicinity have protested that the foul odors emanating from the tannery had greatly reduced the value of their property, had affected the health of their families and made it almost impossible to get tenants to remain for any considerable length of time. Thus it has entailed a heavy financial loss to the owners of property in the vicinity.

Indeed, so intolerable are the conditions in the neighborhood of the tannery, especially in the summer time, that nobody can be found to occupy some of the tenements, while those that are occupied are let at a reduced rental far below what they would bring but for the foul odors from the tannery.

We understand that it is in the Howe street building that the hides are put through the first process of tanning preparatory to being converted into leather. It is the most malodorous part of the business and one that should not be tolerated in any thickly settled district.

The fact that the front part of the old building fell into the street late Tuesday afternoon has brought more forcibly to public attention the conditions that existed there. Fortunately nobody was killed, but the question now arises as to whether the American Hide and Leather Co. will be allowed to repair or rebuild the part of the structure that has fallen. Under the new building laws it is forbidden to build or rebuild any structure of wood within what is known as the fire district. No doubt the American Hide and Leather Co. will want to rebuild the part that has fallen and the company may ask the permission to rebuild and rebuild the whole structure.

No such permission should be granted. This seems to be a favorable time to move the business outward where it will injure nobody either in his property or his health.

The sentiment of the people in that locality is strongly opposed to the continuance of the business that has been carried on there. They believe it should be taken to the outskirts of the city where it would not annoy any great number of people. They believe the business should long ago have been condemned as a public nuisance by the board of health, and in this we agree with them. Hence we are opposed to rebuilding any part of the structure and on the contrary we favor having the business driven out of that district and out of the city in the interests of public health to which it has been for years such a menace and detriment.

The board of health in our opinion has not done its duty to the public in having failed to condemn the Howe street tannery as a nuisance and a menace to public health. The nauseating odors emanating from the tannery have been the cause of complaint for many years. Even the people who have passed along East Merrimack street on the electric cars have often got such a strong whiff of the odor that they had to hold their noses. The odors have been particularly offensive in the hot weather; but even in cold weather they are too strong for the neighbors. How could it be otherwise where $250,000 worth of fresh hides are being treated?

The people in the vicinity have been patiently with the evil for years in spite of its serious character; but now they intend to make a combined effort to have it either abolished entirely or so mitigated that it will not damage property or injure the health of those who reside in the vicinity.

The best remedy is to have the factory vacated and the business done where it will not be a public nuisance. It will not do to transfer the work done in Howe street to the Perry street factory. The residents in that section will not stand it. They have had occasion to complain of odors that seemed to come from the smoke of leather shavings, but that has been stopped of late and there has been little or no cause for complaint on account of bad odors from the Perry street tannery. If the people refuse to tolerate the smoke from leather shavings or floor sweepings, they are not likely to tolerate a nuisance manifestly worse. The work must be done somewhere and there are plenty of suitable places but a short distance outward where houses are few and land is cheap.

The interests of the public, it seems to us, are paramount in this matter and should be so considered by the health board, the building department, the state inspectors and even by the American Hide and Leather Co.

SEEN AND HEARD

Yes, the fall is the sad season if you want to make it so.

Wasn't you told that at about this time you would begin to wonder what you had done with your summer's wages?

The dog that stands by his master through the storming process of a Turkish bath is a faithful brute.

I met a pair of big gray horses on the sidewalk in Merrimack street, yesterday. The horses were being used in the street work going on there and as the sign of the street they were on was all torn up it was necessary for them to take to the sidewalk. They looked a bit out of place just this season.

Soon we will be commenting on the temporary passing of the open car.

Little Johnnie—"I know what I would have done if I was Dr. Cook."

His Mother—"What would you have done?"

Little Johnnie—"I have a hunch that he discovered the pole, and if I'd been him I would have brought a piece of the pole home with me. I guess that would make Peary look like 30 cents."

Perry and Cook will both bring up on the picture platform.

A SUMMER EXPERIMENT

They rented a cottage together, the Joneses and Skaggses and said: "Well, shall we in the work and each one shall make his own bed."

"I'll be easy to do, and I'm sure we will find that housework will seem just like play."

So with this understanding they packed up their trunks and to another they journeyed away.

At first things went smoothly, a week or two passed, then, clouds in the distance appeared.

Mrs. Jones told her hubby, that mean Mrs. Skaggs used to sneak when the table was cleared.

Though it wasn't her right to wipe dishes of course, she might have helped put them away.

As she always did when 'twas Mrs. Skaggs' turn, a fact she could truthfully say.

Then Mrs. Skaggs said she was sick of her job, because Mrs. Jones seemed to think

She had nothing to do but look pretty while she slaved the summer away at the sink;

And Jones disliked Skaggs because he wouldn't clean his share of the fish that they caught.

And Skaggs had a notion that Jones wouldn't go for water the times that he ought.

Ere a month had gone by Mrs. Jones started in to tell Mrs. Skaggs a few things.

And Mrs. Skaggs straightaway unbundled her trunk of a few disagreeable things.

Now the Joneses and Skaggses are home once again, their vacation was from a treat.

And good Mrs. Skaggs doesn't see Mrs. Jones whenever they pass on the street.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Professor Percival Lowell has discovered oxygen in the atmosphere of Mars. This announcement comes at almost on the moment of the confirmation of Dr. Lowell's declaration of last year of water vapor in the atmosphere of Mars. The original announcement was made a year ago, in consequence of observations made some time before, while the confirmation is in consequence of a special expedition to the summit of Mt. Whitney made by Dr.

William J. Dawson, D. D., recently returned to this country from a three months' mission tour through England, Scotland and Wales, will on Sept. 25 occupy the pulpit of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church in New York.

W. W. Campbell, director of Lick observatory. The first step in Dr. Lowell's process was to secure a site for his observatory of exceptional atmospheric conditions, and how successful the choice has been may be judged in part from the fact that it required observations from the summit of Mount Whitney, above the perpetual snow line, to corroborate the observatory results. The second point of attack was the good fortune of splendid manipulators of photographic plates, so that by the combination of skill on the part of the optician and of the photographer, the measurable spectrum has been greatly extended. Thus the water vapor lines, which are at the extreme of the ordinary spectrum, or a little beyond, are brought into convenient view. Especial credit is given to Assistants Lampland and Sylpher for their portion of the work.

Dr. Lowell has been greatly pleased by the acquisition of professor F. A. Very to the force of the observatory. Dr. Very, who was for a long time at Allegheny observatory and who, with Langley, made the famous investigations and extensions of the spectrum on which Langley's fame was based, has in the past year or two done work on the difficult problems affected by the new conditions of spectrum. There is probably no one in the country more skilled in this particular kind of work, and Dr. Very by means of new and ingenious comparators devised by himself, has been able to certify from the complex of lines a portion of their story. A year ago it was water vapor that the lines gave for their most extended word; just now the word has been extended by new and more delicate devices to include oxygen. It marks another and distinct step in advance in the knowledge of the planet.

By the will of Col. Stephen M. Crosby of Boston several public bequests are made. The testator left $50,000 to the trustees of Dartmouth college to be expended in the erection of the memorial building, the cornerstone of which was laid at the time of the Webster centennial, or, if the building is abandoned then to such general uses as shall in their opinion best express the satisfaction of Dartmouth college. He gives $10,000 to the John H. H. Home for the aged, $25,000, and the German Theological school, $20,000. Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis are now traveling abroad.

It has just become known that James N. Jarvis of Montreal, N. J., on the occasion of his marriage recently to Miss Helen Newton, celebrated the event by giving $100,000 to educational interests and charities. He gave as a wedding gift to the Westminster Presbyterian church of Bloomfield, N. J., $25,000; to the Mountain Side hospital at Montclair, $25,000; to the John H. H. Home for the aged, $25,000, and the German Theological school, $20,000. Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis are now traveling abroad.

William J. Dawson, D. D., recently returned to this country from a three months' mission tour through England, Scotland and Wales, will on Sept. 25 occupy the pulpit of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church in New York.

EXPORT TRADE

SHOWED A GREAT INCREASE IN RECENT YEARS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Twelve billion dollars' worth of manufactures have been exported from the United States in the last 120 years, 8 billions, or two-thirds, of this enormous total within the last 20 years, and 6 billions, or one-half, in the last 11 years.

This is the summary of a statement just prepared by the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor. The first year's record of the foreign commerce of the United States under the present form of government covers, of course, the fiscal year 1909 completed 120 years of commerce. The bureau of statistics has just completed its record of the commerce of the fiscal year 1909, and combining it with the accumulated records of foreign commerce from 1789 down to date, finds that the total exports of domestic manufactures all kinds during the 120 years have aggregated 12 billion dollars, of which 12 billions, or 95 per cent., were manufactures; that more than one-half of this enormous total of 12 billion dollars went out of the country during the 11 years ending with 1909; and that two-thirds of this total went out during the 20 years ending with 1909. In other words, the value of the manufactures exported since 1898 is as great as all that exported in the 109 years prior to that date, while the total for the last 20 years is twice as great as the total of the immediately preceding 100 years.

The share which manufactures form of our exports has steadily advanced as the years have passed. In the decade 1790-1800 manufactures formed 6.5 per cent. of the domestic merchandise exported; in the decade ended with 1819, 6.5 per cent.; in the decade ended with 1829, 9.4 per cent.; in the decade ended with 1839, 16.5 per cent.; in the decade ended with 1849, 20.3 per cent.; in the decade ended with 1859, 25.3 per cent.; in the decade ended with 1869, 37.6 per cent. The share which manufactures form of the total exports thus steadily advanced.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

In David Belasco's "Girl of the Golden West," which comes to the Opera House tonight, Mr. Belasco is said to have succeeded in shaping a beautiful artistic picture from a rough story of life in California in the days of '49. This girl is the proprietor of the Polka saloon. Here the rough crowd gathers to dance, drink and gamble. But all respect the girl. The stranger, a road agent, comes to the saloon to rob it. He had met the girl on the road to Monterey and both had fallen in love. Their second meeting is at the saloon and the spark flies into a flame.

Tom Barry in the travesty on "Nick Carter" of dime novel fame, purveys a first class sketch and one replete with amusing lines, characteristic of the thousand and one hot stories which have excited messenger boys and others for many years past. Mr. Barry is well supported. Other good acts on the bill are: Parsley, instrumentalist; Three Judges, in acrobatic display; Hilda Hawthorne, singer and ventriloquist; Hashimoto, water juggler and rockaway; and Conway, singers and repertists. Motion pictures close the performance.

The afore listed galaxy of acts will be given every afternoon and evening during the remainder of the week, with special seats for women at the matinees.

STAR THEATRE

The most eminent playwrights and the world's best actors are rapidly forming the big theatrical productions to command large salaries from moving picture film manufacturers to stage and enact the classic dramas and refined comedies. Film manufacturers can afford to pay the world's best actors to present a piece because from one presentation several films can be made.

At the Star theatre, the admission to see these high class acts in motion pictures is five cents and includes a seat. A new talking picture and two new illustrated songs were the features of today's offering. New pictures tomorrow.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

Some claim that "Amateur show" was the verdict of the audience at the Academy of Music last night. The acts were all so far above the average that it was almost impossible to pick the winners. The first prize was won by a little girl, Evelyn Sawyer, with a sweet voice, that charmed her audience. Geo. Martin took second with a difficult buck dance. Ralph Daughnault was an interesting feature for third prize, in a recitation. Today, Thursday, brings the entire change of vaudeville and moving pictures. Heading the program are "Musical Dairy." This act alone is worth the price of admission. Roach and Hart appear in a character sketch, "Absurdity," and Miss Claudia Bessette in a recitation. Tomorrow, Friday, the City of Lawrence and three reels of the latest moving pictures are shown.

KITTREDGE, LAKEVIEW, THURSDAY AND SATURDAY.

THEATRE VOYONS

The Theatre Voyons is always on the lookout for novelties, and today it shows one that is very timely and interesting. The first picture shows a water-jugger with Leonard, Lawson, struts hunting in the Arctic, the same region in which Cook and Peary had many adventures and about which there is so much talk. Following it in way of a contrast, leopard hunting in Java will be shown. This jump from the frozen north to the Indian ocean is a long one, and the contrast is most remarkable. There are several other subjects, dramatic and comedy, on the bill, and the usual novel and up-to-date illustrated songs.

NOT KILLED BY BLOWS

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 16.—Dilation of the heart, and not blows, was the cause of the death of Frank Leonard of Scarborough, according to the report of the coroner's jury late yesterday. Leonard died at a suburban casino Friday night and his companion, Robert Lawson of South Portland, was later arrested, charged with manslaughter, it being alleged that during the course of a quarrel with Leonard, Lawson struck the blow that caused Leonard's death. Lawson is now being held for the grand jury which will report for the regular term of the court today.

TO INSPECT CANAL WORK

NEW BEDFORD, Sept. 15.—The U. S. engineer, George Cora, arrived here from Newport yesterday afternoon to await the arrival of a party of United States senators and congressmen from Washington. The Cora will take the party under direction of Lieut. Col. Sanford, chief engineer of this district, to inspect the work being done at the Buzzards bay end of the Cape Cod canal.

Gus Edwards, who has turned out many song hits which have netted him much good cash in the past few years, is author of the abbreviated comic opera called "School Boys and Girls," which is headlined at Hathaway's theatre this week. NIGHT EDITION

FARMERS' DINNER

Was Big Feature of the Fair at Chelmsford Today

This, the second day of the Middlesex North Agricultural fair, in conjunction with the Chelmsford fair, at Chelmsford Centre, opened auspiciously so far as weather conditions were concerned, and while the early morning crowd was hardly big enough to spell success, it swelled considerably before the noon hour, and when dinner was announced it was a case of set the tables for the day. Just for that some extra way with a good impression of the "farmers' dinner," while others will allow that it wasn't quite up to the standard. The first table "set" will say that it was all right, but the tail-enders are liable to spring the "never again" sign.

The dinner, however, was a small fraction of the pleasures for those who were looking for a change and good country air. The greater part of the forenoon was given up to a display of the prowess of draught horses and it's a cliché that if the horses had a voice in the matter they would have voted to "cut it." The tests were pretty severe ones and all of the horses were not equal to the occasion. It was a good pulling exhibition, however, and probably served the purpose all right.

The live stock display wasn't anything to rave about and the accommodations for showing the stock were not the best ever. The exhibition included about 40 head of cattle, half a dozen pigs, and a little black sheep that "never done nobody no harm" and couldn't understand why it should be tied up beside a lot of rough cattle in the rear of a village church.

A mare and her two colts, one 15 months and the other 4 months old, attracted most attention. They were the property of John O'Brien of North Chelmsford. The older of the two colts was hitched beside its mother to a light buggy, and they made a pretty pair. The four-month-old was a privileged character and wandered at will. It was the people's pet and made friends wherever it went. Although but four months old, it was a bridle and seemed to take kindly to the bit. The children played with it and the women patted it.

Besides the pulling matches there were other exhibitions, including a slow race, and it was good fun. Tom had to drive Dick's horse and the horse that came in last captured the prize. At first glance it would seem that this would be a very slow race, but such was not the case. As has already been stated, the last horse in was the winner, and it's a cliché that if you were driving my horse you would try to make him go faster than the horse I was driving which would be your horse. The course lay around the common and the race was the real sport of the day.

There was music by the Chelmsford band and at 2 o'clock the baby show opened in the town hall. This to the women, but four months old, it was a "just ought to" have seen those babies and you also ought to have heard the questions that the poor tired mothers were called upon to answer. If any of the men connected with the fair were to be pitied the pity belonged to the men who were chosen judges at the baby show.

Property Owners Loud in Their Protests Against the Foul Odors—Petitions in Circulation to the Board of Health Which Has Jurisdiction in the Matter—Property Owners Tell of the Damage to Their Property

The American Hide and Leather company is removing the hides from the ruins of its Howe street building preparatory to tearing down the old building and constructing a new one for the purpose of continuing its tanning at that place.

But before the company continues its tanning in Howe street the public will have something to say in the matter, while the proper health authorities, either local or state, will have previously gone on record as deciding that the place is not a nuisance, a decision which none believes they will ever make.

A meeting of the board of health to which Dr. Simpson, the state health inspector of factories of this district, has been invited, has been called for tomorrow afternoon when the tannery matter will be discussed.

Before that meeting is held there will be a meeting of the board of health two or more formidable petitions from property owners and tenants in lower Belvidere, praying that they be heard in remonstrance to the continuation of the nuisance and in the event of a failure to receive satisfaction at the hands of the local authorities the aid of the state board of health will be sought through a petition.

Early this morning Mr. Harry W. Ordway, a heavy taxpayer in the vicinity, residing in NeSmith street, started through the locality with a petition to the board of health for a discontinuance of the nuisance, and in an hour he had 12 signatures to his petition representing nearly $100,000 in tenement property in the immediate vicinity. GREAT EXCITEMENT

When Children Set Fire to a Gasolene Wagon

WORCESTER, Sept. 16.—A combination of two or three of the children were burned, though not seriously. Some one rang in a fire alarm and in responding two pieces of apparatus collided, one of the horses being so badly injured that it had to be killed. Meanwhile the blazing gasolene ran into the gutter and thence through a catch basin into the sewer. Igniting the sewer gas it caused an explosion which threw into the air several children who were standing on or near the cover of a manhole. None of them, however, was badly hurt.

MORE VIOLENCE

In Connection With the Strike at McKees Rocks

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 16.—Violence in connection with the strike at McKees Rocks had its inception yesterday when the foreign workmen last took to the streets, alleging that men imported during the last strike were being retained as bosses. The strikers, however, claim the company agreed to discharge the men.

Since the settlement of the strike a week ago, a majority of the foreigners have allied themselves with the Industrial Workers of the World. Leaders of this opposition say that the men will return to work when assured that they will be given fair treatment.

BACK FROM QUEBEC

Lowell Police Officers Had to Return Without Feron

Deputy Supt. Redmond Welch and Inspector Charles LaFamme of the local police department, who went to the Province of Quebec to arrest Henri Feron, the alleged murderer of Mrs. Flora Rivers, in this city several weeks ago, have returned to Lowell, and though they did not bring their prisoner back with them they know that the man they want is now locked up in jail in Quebec, and that it will be a question of but a few weeks before he will be lodged in either the Lowell jail or the house of correction at Cambridge.

Deputy Welch is not very enthusiastic over the good time that he had, for he says that if a person calls it fun to ride hour after hour on a train, take 30 mile cross country rides in the middle of the night and other similar things, he cannot agree with him.

When Deputy Welch and Inspector LaFamme left Lowell they headed for St. Sebastian, P. Q., instead of Megantic, for they had a positive clue that their man was in St. Sebastian. After they had left Lowell, Supt. Brown received a telegram from Megantic that Feron was located there and Patrolman Groulx was then detailed to go to Megantic and get the man and then report to the other officers.

When Deputy Welch reached St. Sebastian he was told that the warrant which had been sworn out in the United States was no good and that if he dared take Feron out of the province his action might lead to strained relations between the United States and Great Britain. Inasmuch as the deputy was not anxious to start any international trouble he decided to try to get Feron in another manner.

He tried to get a warrant which would entitle him to take Feron back to the states but he was informed that the only place where he could get such a paper was in Quebec, which was 95 miles away. A long and tiresome ride in a train followed by a 25 mile ride in a carriage through a dreary and desolate stretch of woodland, was one of the little experiences that the Lowell officers met with before getting the necessary paper from Quebec and then accompanied by a provincial officer they started for St. Sebastian, where Feron was located at the home of an uncle.

At first Feron decided that he would accompany the officers back to this city, but he suddenly changed his mind and refused to go back unless extra-remanded to jail for 15 days and that it would do the Lowell officers little good to remain there, they returned to Lowell.

MANY ADDITIONS GERRY SOCIETY KILLED HIMSELF

To be Made to Harbor Is Accused by New York Woman New York Man Took a Dose of Poison

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—Maj. Robert F. Rolfe, U. S. A., constructing army quartermaster in Boston, yesterday received orders from Washington to make ready for the erection of 18 new buildings to cost $160,000 at Fort Andrews and seven new buildings at Fort Strong, the estimated cost to be $75,000.

While nothing more definite was received from Washington the orders are considered indicative of a plan to change the headquarters of the artillery district of Boston from Fort Banks at Winthrop to Fort Andrews on Peddocks Island.

The new structures at Fort Andrews will include one company barracks, one band barracks, four captains' quarters, two lieutenants' quarters, four non-commissioned officers' quarters, one quartermaster's storehouse, one subordinate storehouse, one ordnance repair shop and one fire apparatus house. The officers' houses will be of brick and practically fireproof, while the storehouses, which will be of large size, will be built of wood. They now are building at Fort Andrews a company barracks, a gunhouse, four non-commissioned officers' quarters and one set of four officers' quarters. These improvements, including those about to be advertised for bids and which will be started this fall, will afford accommodations for two more companies, and another company barracks probably will be authorized later, so as to bring the total number of companies at the future headquarters up to six.

At Fort Strong, which is near Fort Andrews, and which undoubtedly is being strengthened because of the fact the new buildings ordered are to be two non-commissioned officers' quarters, one quartermaster's storehouse, one ordnance storehouse, one signal corps storehouse, one commissary storehouse and one coal pocket. The guardhouse is to be enlarged also. They are now building at this fortification one double barracks, two non-commissioned officers' quarters, one fire quarters and one set of four officers' quarters. The improvements at Fort Strong will make it possible to double the strength of the two companies now stationed there.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Mrs. Mary Dugard, backed by references from Mrs. I. Townsend Burden, Mrs. Rene La Montagne, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Mrs. C. S. Cook and Mrs. W. P. Ketcham, says she has been trying in vain for 20 months to get the Gerry society to return to her care two boys taken from her on a charge that they were begging. The mother says the boys were selling newspapers.

Mrs. Dugard says the joint income of herself, her husband, George, and her two grown sons amounts to more than $35 a week. She shows receipts for $125 she has paid to the Gerry society under protest. She gives publicity to the case because she fears her children are going to be kept prisoners for years. She declares there is no reason why they should not be at home.

Mrs. Dugard pays $25 a month for her rooms at 809 Sixth avenue, and has receipts for her rent in advance. She shows the following letter from her family physician, Dr. John W. Joyce, of 112 West 34th street:

To Whom It May Concern: This is to certify that I have known Mr. and Mrs. Dugard for the last six months and have attended the family professionally. I can truthfully say that they are thoroughly respectable and honest, hardworking people, and take the proper care of their family. The children are well brought up and cared for, and I feel glad to place them in the hands of other children do. Dr. J. W. Joyce.

Mrs. Dugard has appealed to Judge Olmstead, who has promised to make an investigation of the case. She proposes to have habeas corpus proceedings brought to find out why she must continue to pay the Gerry society for her children when a good home is awaiting them.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—A rollicking party of young men and women, just in from Coney Island, left their automobile at the door of the Prince George hotel on E. Twenty-eighth street yesterday and rushed, laughing, into the restaurant. When the girls were seated the men went into the cafe.

A man of about sixty years sat at one of the tables, with glasses of whiskey and seltzer before him. The young fellows danced easily about him, showering him with confetti. He took it in good part and smiled faintly.

"They're happy, but I'm not," he said to George McKeever, the bartender, who stood near.

Then he drank the whiskey, and, taking a small bottle from his pocket, poured part of its contents into the glass of seltzer.

As he placed it to his lips, the merry-makers again swooped down upon him, throwing confetti and binding colored paper ribbons all about him. He drained the glass, still smiling, and suddenly the revellers drew back. They hurried out, called the young women, and sped away in the automobiles.

The man in the cafe was dead. He was David W. Clark, until a few years ago a man of wealth and a prosperous business man, and also a failure of health. Please notify my brother, Dr. A. M. Clark, Alder Creek, Oneida County, New York. If he is not at home, please address, he can be found at his home in Youngstown, Ohio.

Please have my body prepared for cremation. David W. Clark.

P. S.—Reference, Second National bank, Fifth avenue and Twenty-eighth street.

Mr. Clark had been living for the last four months in a suite at No. 117 East Twenty-sixth street. He was well known at the Prince George.

NEW FIRE HOUSE BOARD OF HEALTH

Residents of West Centralville are Kicking May Appoint an Inspector of Milk

The residents of West Centralville are finding fault with the delay over the equipping and opening of the fire house in that locality and the fire department committee on its tour of inspection this afternoon made its first stop at the new firehouse where it had a heart to heart talk with Inspector Dow relative to getting the place in shape to turn over to the fire department. The members of the committee claim that the inspector was to have the building ready for use by this time but has not done so. The building itself is finished and the approach to it needs paving and other attention which has not been given it.

In regard to the equipment of the building the members of the committee state that the responsibility lies not with them but with the mayor purchasing agent, and the chief of the fire department, who have been holding back on the work of equipping the place. The committee on fire department intended to have the building in operation by November 1 but claim that this cannot be done as the new status to be provided was not ordered in time.

Meanwhile the residents of West Centralville are strenuously finding fault.

City Solicitor William W. Duncan, in an opinion given to the agent of the board of health, states that the board has the right to appoint a milk inspector, but that it has no power to remove the present incumbent until his term expires.

WENT TO MONTREAL

"TOM" HOBAN AND GEORGE W. CASEY HAD FINE TRIP

Thomas F. Hoban, proprietor of the Lowell Inn, and George W. Casey, manager of that hostelry, returned to Lowell this morning after having spent a few days at Montreal, taking in the old home work celebration in that city.

Mr. Hoban went to North Troy, Vt., for the purpose of inspecting some speedy horses, and after he had transacted his business made a little trip to Montreal.

Mr. Hoban says that the city is ablaze with hunting, flags and electrical decorations and that there is something going on every minute of the day.

Among the attractions visited Tuesday was the parade of the fire brigade. Inspection of the harbor, the races at the Belmont, shooting matches, baseball games, while in the evening a grand fireworks display was taken in.

Yesterday was the civil holiday and the observance started off with a parade in the morning, followed by sight trips in different points of interest. In the afternoon there was a big canoe and swimming regatta at Dominion park and there was a fine list of sports carried out.

6 O'CLOCK JAIL SENTENCES

For Boston Men Found Picking Pockets Here

Several Other Cases Disposed of—Larceny Case Tried and Put Over Pending Investigation

Martin McDonough and John McGlinchey, two young men who claim Boston as their home, were arraigned before Judge Hadley in police court this morning on complaints charging them with the larceny of a pocketbook containing $2 and some small change, the property of Stewart C. Gulline. Through their counsel, J. Joseph Hennessy, pleas of not guilty were entered.

During the course of the testimony Israel Warshawsky, a junk dealer and peddler, who was a witness for the government testified that yesterday while he was out peddling a man who claimed to belong in Boston approached him and offered to give him $5 if he would not appear in court this morning to testify against the young men.

The alleged larceny was committed about four o'clock on the afternoon of Labor Day in School street near the Pawtucket bridge while thousands of people were returning from the automobile races.

The first witness called for the government was the complainant, Mr. Gulline, who testified that he and his family had been witnessing the races from a private house in Varnum avenue during the day and after the races were over he walked through Varnum avenue and over the Pawtucket bridge in order to get an electric car. There were several cars near the bridge and people were rushing for them.

As he boarded one of the cars McDonough got on his left and McGlinchey got on the right side of him. After he had been sitting in the car for a few moments he put his hand into the pocket where he carries his watch to learn if it were there. The watch was all right. He then placed his hand in his trouser pocket and found that his pocketbook was missing. He then grew suspicious of the young men who had been sitting on either side of him and who had left the car for no apparent reason.

He saw the two men walking through School street towards Pawtucket street and noticed that one was showing something to the other, but what it was that they were looking at he could not make out.

Mr. Gulline jumped off the car and grabbed McDonough and McGlinchey and the latter and McGlinchey of robbing him. They denied the allegation and McDonough, breaking away from Mr. Gulline, started to run, McGlinchey following. The two young men cut through a spare lot near the Spalding house, creased through Pawtucket street, ran up Wamsutt street to West Bowens street, where McDonough was caught, McGlinchey was captured in Lombard street.

Israel Warshawsky testified that he saw McDonough place his hand in Mr. Gulline's pocket and saw him take a pocketbook. The witness was positive that McDonough was the man and knew that McGlinchey was also present. It was during the cross examination of this witness that he stated he had been offered $5 not to come into court and testify in the case.

Harry W. J. Howe, member of the board of charities, was driving through School street when he saw Mr. Gulline and the two young men in earnest conversation and later saw the young men run away. As a result of what Mr. Gulline told him he invited Mr. Gulline to enter his carriage and gave chase to the two men. McDonough stopped in West Bowens street and Mr. Howe jumping from his carriage grabbed him and turned him over to Mr. Gulline and another man while he continued through School street into Lombard street where he caught McGlinchey.

No defense was offered. The defendants were found guilty and sentenced to six months in the house of correction. They appeared and each was held under $400 bonds.

Fell Down Stairs
John Paul was charged with assault and battery on Catherine Dow, it having been alleged that he pushed her down a flight of stairs in a boarding house on the Hamilton corporation several weeks ago. The complainant, the Dow woman, was charged with being drunk. Judge Hadley, after hearing the testimony in the case, was of the opinion that drink was the cause of all the trouble.

According to the testimony offered, Paul and a young lady in the house were conversing when the Dow woman interfered and Paul told her to mind her own business. She had been drinking and becoming provoked at what Paul said, grew abusive, Paul went to pass her in the hallway and she blocked his way. He pushed her one side and the other and struck her head against the side of the wall, inflicting a slight laceration.

She then claims that she went down stairs to wash the blood from her head when Paul grabbed her and threw her down the flight of stairs. She struck on her head and reeling a head pain in her head was taken to the hospital where she received treatment.

Dow testified that the woman was drunk and when he went to go down the stairs she got in his way and he pushed her aside, that she staggered and fell down the flight of stairs.

Paul was placed on probation while the complaint of drunkenness against the woman was dismissed.

Drunkard Offenders
Martin Richardson of Pelham, who has a rather unenviable record, was before the court this morning for drunkenness and was sentenced to six months in jail. She appeared but later withdrew the appeal.

Samuel Barry was under a suspended sentence of four months in jail, but he got drunk and when arraigned in court this morning the suspension was revoked and he was committed to jail.

Alleged Larceny
Albert H. Morrill pleaded not guilty to a complaint charging him with the larceny of a horse blanket, the property of Russell MacDonald.

Mr. MacDonald testified that he had a booth on the boulevard last week and that the blanket was stolen from him last Thursday.

George W. Morrison of the Cross Aving Co. said that Morrill offered him the blanket for a quarter and that while he was inspecting it Mr. MacDonald came along and claimed that he was the owner of the blanket.

Albert H. Morrill, the defendant, testified that he lives in Haverhill, but spent Carnival week in this city selling souvenir post cards for J. Newcomb Lake. Witness spent Thursday night on the boulevard and during the night he felt cold and while walking around to keep warm saw the blanket thrown over a fence and taking it he denied that he had offered to sell the blanket to Mr. Morrison or any other person.

The case was continued till Monday morning, in order that the defendant's reputation may be looked into.

Continued

Ordway will file his petition with the board of health today in order that it may come before the meeting tomorrow afternoon. Another petition was also started and was rapidly filled with names of the property owners and tenants in the vicinity.

Here are the petitions:

Petitions Being Signed

One of the several petitions in circulation and being freely signed by property owners and business men in the locality is as follows:—
To the Board of Health:

Gentlemen: We, the undersigned, owners or occupants of tenements and other real estate in the vicinity of the Howe street tannery of the American that their property is overvalued and in the event of the board of health failing to relieve the existing conditions they are prepared to proceed in a body before the assessors for a general abatement of taxes in that vicinity. Several individual property owners have already approached the assessors for relief as the result of the nuisance, but have met with no success. Now if the health department does not provide the proper relief they will put the matter before the assessors and put them on record in the matter.

Effect on Point

Mr. Charles P. Smith, the well known real estate man, who owns considerable property in Fayette street, in addition to the evil effect upon the renting value of the property in the neighborhood reports another evil evidently the result of the tannery. Mr. Smith, in conversation with a reporter of The Sun today, said: "Within the past few years I have no any part thereof shall be unsafe for the purpose for which it is intended or used, or whenever any machinery, material or staging used in or about the construction of any building is unsafe for the purpose for which it is intended or used, the inspector of buildings shall notify the owner, agent or occupant of said building, in writing, specifying wherein such dangerous building or any part thereof, or any such machinery, material or staging, removed, taken down, repaired or altered as the inspector of buildings shall require.

And thereupon the owner, agent or occupant, or, as aforesaid, notified by the inspector of buildings, shall forthwith put such wall, building, machinery, material or staging in a safe condition, or take down and remove the same, and clear the highway of all debris within such time as may be specified.

UNLESS THE TANNERY NUISANCE IS ABATED ON HOWE STREET, CONDITIONS IN THE VICINITY MAY SOON BE AS REPRESENTED ABOVE

Hide and Leather company, hereby certify that the odors from the tannery have made residence in the vicinity almost unendurable, that it has injured real estate by rendering it undesirable either for tenement or business purposes, and that it has also prevented proprietors from improving old buildings or erecting new. We further assert that the foul odors from this tannery are injurious to the health of the people who reside in the vicinity. Therefore, we appeal to your honorability to relieve us from this intolerable nuisance, that we may enjoy the pure air that is our right and that as owners we may be permitted to improve our property or as tenants we may not be obliged to move to another locality.

And your petitioners would further represent that if this nuisance be removed real estate owners will at once begin to build new blocks and improve the old so that the taxable real estate in that locality will soon bring an increase in revenue to the city far greater than the amount of taxes paid by the American Hide and Leather company, your petitioners in the interests of the property owners, tenants and business men, schools, the hospital and the churches in the vicinity, appeal to your honorability to take prompt action against the evil through the condemnation of the Howe street tannery as a nuisance detrimental to the public health and destruction of real estate in the vicinity. And your petitioners will ever pray.

The other petition reads: To the Board of Health, Lowell: Gentlemen: The American Hide and Leather company, a body corporate doing business in Lowell, is engaged in the tanning and preparing of hides and skins preparatory to leather manufacturing in Howe street, this city. Said corporation conducts its business in wooden buildings in a manner that is detrimental to public health.

We hereby ask that the sanitary condition of said plant be investigated by your board and that the company shall be compelled to remove its plant to a location not so thickly settled. We believe as tax-payers and citizens of Lowell that said plant is detrimental to public safety and health as conducted.

Odor Still Exists
While work in the doomed building has ceased and the hides are being removed, the nauseating odor like "the case in which there have once been distilled" clings tenaciously to the neighborhood even as the scent of a skunk clings to the unfortunate dog that mistook in for a rabbit. This morning was in evidence to the passer-by in East Merrimack street. The prevalence of this foul condition of the atmosphere has made it difficult for property owners to rent their tenements on a paying basis.

The fact that a new and modern building will be erected by the company, while it might modify the nuisance slightly will not eliminate it for it is not the building but the nature of the business itself that causes the nuisance. The hides and the ingredients used in their preparation, what causes the trouble and hence it would appear that the only way to rid the locality of the nuisance is to remove the business itself. It is common report in the vicinity that in the past the company has paid property owners rental for empty tenements which could not be rented on account of the odors in the vicinity.

Property Over-Valued
Property owners in the vicinity claim that as a result of the existence of the tannery in Howe street and the subsequent depreciation of their real estate valued another condition in regard to the exterior of buildings in the neighborhood, which in my opinion is a result of the gases and smoke from the tannery. Two years ago I owned all the property in my charge in the vicinity of the tannery, using the best of stock and labor. In a surprisingly short time I noticed that the paint had outlived its usefulness and the buildings looked as if they had not been painted for many years. From my own experience and that of the painters with whom I consulted it was very evident that some outside influence had brought about the change rather than any fault of the paint itself. I believe that the gases and smoke from the tannery caused this "paint to change."

In regard to the effect upon the rental value of property in the vicinity, Mr. Smith said: "I have signed the petition circulated by Mr. Ordway, and will appear before the board of health whenever a hearing is held. It is difficult to rent property in that vicinity at anywhere near its rental value, and hence we are not getting the revenue from our property that it would demand under proper conditions. On a basis of the valuation placed upon it by our assessors we should get much more rent than we do."

Stung for $2,000
"I will gladly second any movement to rid the neighborhood of the tannery, although at present I have no property there. But I was once stung for $2,000 as the result of its odors, and I can appreciate what other property owners must be up against."

Speaker was Anthony A. Conway, who once owned a building in Howe street near the tannery.

"Not being familiar with the locality," said Mr. Conway, "I didn't realize what a nuisance existed there. I bought a building for about $500. It had deteriorated before I got it, but once it became mine I saw that it was going to deteriorate and rapidly at that. In a short time I found it impossible to get anything like the rent that I should get for it and I went to the assessors to have the valuation reduced. The assessors didn't give me any satisfaction and $2,000 forced to sell the property at $2,000. I wish I would have taken for it if the tannery was not there."

One of the local banks got bitten on a mortgage on a piece of property near the tannery. It was eventually closed up and was practically a total loss. It might as well have been burned down.

Up to Health Board
While there has been much difference of opinion as to whether the tannery matter comes properly before the local board of health or before Dr. Stimpson, state health inspector of factories for this district, Dr. Stimpson has taken a report of The Sun this morning and said: "My jurisdiction in such matters is relative to the conditions afforded the help only. This matter would appear to be up to the board of health. One of a general advisory power with the board of health I have no executive power."

If the local board of health declines to pass upon the tannery business as a nuisance then this state board will be appealed to.

The Building Ordinance
Section 18 of the new building ordinance, giving the inspector of lands and buildings power to act when conditions in buildings are unsafe, is as follows:

"Whenever any wall or other part of a building or otherwise injured building is unsafe, or when any building or part thereof shall be unsafe for the purpose for which it is intended or used, or whenever any machinery, material or staging used in or about the construction of any building is unsafe for the purpose for which it is intended or used, the inspector of buildings shall notify the owner, agent or occupant of said building, in writing, specifying wherein such dangerous building or any part thereof, or any such machinery, material or staging, removed, taken down, repaired or altered as the inspector of buildings shall require.

And thereupon the owner, agent or occupant, or, as aforesaid, notified by the inspector of buildings, shall forthwith put such wall, building, machinery, material or staging in a safe condition, or take down and remove the same, and clear the highway of all debris within such time as may be specified.

Whenever the inspector of buildings has knowledge of any unsafe building, structure or part thereof, the conditions being such as to endanger the public, or the occupants of such building or structure, it shall be his duty to affix a notice of the dangerous character of the building or structure in a conspicuous place on the exterior thereof, and any person removing such notice so affixed shall be subject upon conviction thereof, to a fine of not less than ten ($10.00) dollars, nor more than twenty ($20.00) dollars, or to imprisonment until such fine is paid, not exceeding thirty (30) days."

CRACKED A SAFE HUNG BY HEELS

Yeggmen Gave People From Window of Elevated Train Quite a Scare

SAVING Conn. Sept. 16.—A party of yeggmen made a dash down the west bank of the Connecticut river last night, cracking a safe in W. L. Frank's store at Centerback where the proprietor was sleeping at three times and breaking into railroad stations at Hadley, Hadam, Goodspeeds, Deep River, Essex and Chester. They averaged about $3 at each place, taking 1000 ticket offices, the telephone pay booth and slot machines. The safe blowing gave them nothing as Mr. Frank having had many visits of the kind does not leave valuables in the safe over night.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—High above the heads of pedestrians scurrying toward home at 5 o'clock last evening, Henry Tabbs, hotless, shirt sleeved, swung from a window of a third avenue "L" car, his head flaming scarves two inches above the ties, his hands beating against the wooden beams and his feet held almost on a level with the window sill by two detectives, while the train whizzed north three blocks.

Not a person in the street knew of the scene above, where women huddled together in fright, and men, powerless to help the detectives, stood or sat like stone images awaiting what they were certain would be a tragedy.

But, although death overshadowed Tabbs, he "beat the game," as he expressed it, and is very much alive today, although somewhat battered about the head and hands.

He was arrested for stealing magazines, and after a desperate fight was taken to the station.

The officers took the man to the John street station, where Policeman Alfred Joseph was assigned to go with the private detectives and the prisoner to police headquarters. They boarded a "third avenue" "L" train at Fulton street.

Tabbs was taken, but Detective Bont held one sleeve, and Detective McLean the other. Joseph sat quietly by.

Just as the train gathered speed, 50 feet beyond the Canal street station Tabbs arms went out again and Bont and McLean went down. Tabbs leaped backward and half way out the window. They caught his feet and held him so until the train stopped. Then they learned that he was still alive and not dead as they supposed.

As the body was borne from the church "De Profundis" was rendered by the choir. The burial was in the Catholic cemetery where Fr. Fletcher, O. M. I., read the committal prayers. RETURN TO WORK

Strike at Borden's Mills in Fall River is Ended

FALL RIVER, Sept. 16.—The first general strike in the history of the Fall River Iron works cotton mills owned by M. C. D. Borden of New York was ended when the seven mills of the plant resumed operations after a shutdown of three days. The strike was inaugurated Monday morning when the 1000 weavers of the mills with their vote of the previous Friday. Two hours later the entire 3000 operatives were thrown out of work when the seven mills were closed down.

The strikers return to work on a compromise. They went out to enforce their demand for a ten per cent. increase in wages, but at a mass meeting yesterday said this amount was accepted. While the other 4000 operatives of the mills asked for an advance it was generally believed here today that the five per cent. increase allowed by Mr. Borden would be given them as well as the strikers, but this will not be known until the operatives are paid off the last of the week.

GOLF TOURNAMENT

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—A field which included practically all of the best professionals in the west and several eastern stars started in the western open golf championship tournament over the Skokie club course today.

The tournament is 12 holes medal play and will last today and tomorrow, 36 holes being played each day. The work of George Sargent, the national champion, in the team match yesterday, has led local enthusiasts to believe he has an excellent chance of annexing the title of western champion.

PRES. TAFT

PLAY TODAY

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—With President Taft as non-official umpire, the New York and Chicago baseball clubs of the National League will play ball at the West Side park today with Christy Mathewson and "Jack" Pfeister pitching. With the nation's executive as the added attraction, everything indicates a record attendance when the struggle is set in motion at 3 o'clock.

Political and baseball chiefs, clubmen, bankers and plain everyday "fans" will gather round to assist the president in celebrating the occasion. Announcement was made yesterday that every reserved seat had been taken but arrangements have been made for the accommodation of thousands of spectators in other parts of the immense park. Five hundred uniformed police, to say nothing of plainclothes men, will be on hand to maintain order and keep the ground clear for the combatants.

President Heydler of the National League, President Johnson of the American League, August Herrmann, chairman of the national commission, and other baseball notables, will lend their presence to the occasion. Then there will be the musicians, forty-five leather-lunged artists, rounding out the general scheme.

The schedule completed by officers of the Hamilton club, which is to act as escort for the president, provides for a parade about the city following the arrival of Mr. Taft and at 3 o'clock the travelers will drive into the park.

Three thousand seats in that portion of the stand back of the Chicago bench have been reserved for the club members and the president.

On Union Pacific Executive Committee

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—One of the surprises of the Union Pacific election following the death of Edward H. Harriman was the placing of William Rockefeller on the executive committee.

tee. Jacob H. Schiff's election to this board also was something of a surprise. The Union Pacific's executive committee is composed of R. S. Lovett, William Rockefeller, Jacob H. Schiff, Marvin Huggitt, Frank Vanderlip, and Henry C. Frick.

A NEW DISEASE

Pellagra Troubles the Doctors in Tenn.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—So widespread has interest in the strange malady, pellagra, become among the medical authorities and others throughout the country, that Surg. Gen. Wyman of the public health and marine hospital service has decided to issue a weekly bulletin dealing exclusively with the developments of that disease.

This step has been decided upon as a result of requests from practically all the state boards of health, which are watching the progress of the disease, particularly in the south, with much concern.

The proposed report will show not only the prevalence of pellagra, but will indicate the distribution of the disease. The statistical data for the publication will be furnished by the medical authorities of the various states and territories. This information, it is believed, will be of great aid in determining the cause of pellagra and help materially in the efforts of the government to check its progress.

Dr. Wyman was greatly interested to learn of the action of the Tennessee state board of health in quarantining against the disease, it being held that the malady is communicable. While declining to go on record that pellagra is not communicable, Surg. Gen. Wyman declared that he had observed nothing in the disease that it is a contagious one.

The consensus of opinion among the medical authorities in Italy, where the disease has existed for a long time, Dr. Wyman said, is that it is non-contagious. This view also is entertained by C. H. Lavinder, past assistant surgeon of the public health and marine hospital service, who is devoting his entire time to a study of the disease.

WORLD'S SERIES

Planned by the National Commission

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—The National commission met here today in the office of President Ben Johnson of the American League to discuss tentative schedules and plans for the world's championship series between the winners of the pennants in the National and American leagues. In making up the tentative schedules for the big series four clubs were considered—Pittsburgh and Chicago in the National League and Detroit and Philadelphia in the American League. The schedules were drawn up, but the right one only will be announced and that after the winner in each league is determined.

The question of a successor to President John A. Heydler of the National League in handling the world's series was also considered. When Harry Pulliam was president of the league, Heydler and Robert M. Row, secretary of the American League, took charge of the business details of the series. Secretary Charles D. Williams of the Chicago National club will probably succeed Heydler in that capacity.

LARGE SUGAR CROP

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Cuba will harvest 1,000,000 tons of sugar this year—the largest crop in the history of the island—according to the predictions of Marcelino Diaz de Villegas, Cuban minister of finance, in an interview yesterday in Las Novelas, a Spanish newspaper of this city. Last year's crop amounted to 400,000 tons.

COMMANDER PEARY

Planted Delta Kappa Epsilon Flag at the Pole

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity congratulates the discoverer of the pole, thanking him for the honor to its flag and offers "welcoming banquet any date you may select."

This message sent by cable and wireless to Robert E. Peary at Battle Harbor, Lab., resulted from Commander Peary's recent announcement that the ensign of his college fraternity was one of the flags he raised at the North pole. James A. Hawes, secretary of the society, who signed the message on behalf of the fraternity, said that shortly before Mr. Peary left for his last trip north he was tendered a banquet here by the New York association. At that occasion a small silk flag of the fraternity was presented to him and he promised to carry it on his expedition and nail it to the pole, just below the national standards if his quest proved successful. Mr. Hawes says that the discovered on all his expeditions carried the Delta Kappa Epsilon badge which he received when he joined the fraternity at Bowdoin college, Me.

LEANS TO COOK IN THE POLAR CONTROVERSY

HAMBURG, Sept. 16.—Commenting on the latest interview by Commander Peary sent out from Battle Harbor, Lab., the Hamburger Nachrichten says: "The high sounding words have made an extremely unpleasant impression and they will scarcely draw new friends to Commander Peary."

This exemplifies the general tone of the North German press which leans in this polar controversy strongly to Dr.

Over a Thousand Ladies

Got souvenirs of Crawford Day yesterday, and the young men who came from the Crawford foundry to demonstrate the name and who go all over the country doing that work, said it was the last behaved, best dressed and most intelligent crowd of ladies they had ever seen in any city they had visited.

Send out for Lowell's fair sex. We have no doubt that the demonstration will result in the sale of hundreds of Crawford names. It was a revelation to many that there could be so much difference in names. Of course, we could not take time to explain all of the points of superiority of the Crawford name in such a rush, so come in again when we can take time to explain it more thoroughly.

PRES. SEELEE

TO RETIRE FROM HEAD OF SMITH COLLEGE

NORTHAMPTON, Sept. 16.—President L. Clarke Seelee in welcoming to Smith college for the opening of the new college year the largest number of students in the history of the institution alluded to the fact that this was the last time he would officiate at this ceremony. On July 1 next President Seelee will retire from his service of 24 years and the president-elect, Rev. Dr. Marion L. Burton, will assume his duties. The enrollment of the four classes this year is about 1700, the freshman class numbering 499. President Seelee, in his address, said that the growth of the college had been so great that it had become necessary to limit the number in the entering class to 500 and an effort would be made to keep it down to 450.

During the summer a new library building costing $140,000 has been practically completed and work has been begun on a new assembly hall which will be erected at a cost of over $150,000 and which will be completed by the next commencement. Two of the college buildings have been moved to new sites and extensive grading has been done on the campus.

DIAMOND THIEF

Was Arrested in Boston at the Point of Gun

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—A daring daylight attempt at a wholesale diamond robbery followed by a sensational chase through the banking district yesterday afternoon resulted in the arrest at the point of a gun of George E. Ryan, 38, of 416 North Thirteenth street, Philadelphia, Pa., who is charged with the theft of two rings valued at $2050 from Hodgson, Kennard & Co., of 21 State street.

When arrested Ryan threw the rings into the street in Congress square, and a diamond ring valued at $1700 was not yet recovered.

Ryan entered the diamond store shortly before 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and his well-groomed appearance removed all suspicions of the clerk when he asked to be shown some diamond rings. Not satisfied with those shown he asked for larger ones and as the clerk left him to speak with Mr. Hodgson of the firm, Ryan was seen to reach over the counter and open the catch lock of the show case, and before he could be prevented he had grabbed two rings, one an opal valued at $350 and the other a three stone diamond valued at $1700. With these in his grasp he made a dash for the door and out onto State street with Mr. Hodgson and the clerk in hot pursuit.

Tall of stature and an excellent runner, he was fast distancing his pursuers when Inspector Robinson of the banking squad, who was standing near the Worthington building noticed the proprietor of one of the richest diamond houses in the city running hatless and coatless down Devonshire street, and at once surmised that something was wrong.

Drawing his revolver he started in pursuit, also but found that the trio was fast leaving him behind. He resorted to a strategic move and dashed into Congress square, from the State street side just as Ryan, who had doubled on his tracks, dashed in from Devonshire street side.

Leveling his gun on the fugitive he called on him to halt, and Ryan, seeing capture inevitable, tossed into the air the two rings after which he submitted to arrest.

At once the square was crowded by those who had joined in the chase, and after placing the handcuffs on his prisoner, Inspector Robinson made a short search for the missing rings. The opal ring, valued at $350, was found by an honest person, who at once returned it to Mr. Hodgson, but a careful and diligent search of the square by the crowd failed to reveal the missing diamond ring, valued at $1700.

When taken to headquarters by Robinson and Inspector Harris Ryan refused to make any statement about himself or of the attempted robbery. The police are of the belief that he is a member of some well-to-do family, and that this was his first attempt at crookery. Inspector Robinson may be acted the part of the novice criminal.

WHIST PARTY

FOR BENEFIT OF FRENCH-AMERICAN ORPHANAGE

A very pleasant whist party was given last night by Miss Schiller at her home in Merrimack street for the benefit of the French-American orphanage in Pawtucket street. The whist playing was in charge of Dr. A. G. Fayette and the prize winners were Miss Louise Bernier, Miss Alice Faner, Miss Anna Ouellette and Mr. O. Pierre Desjardins, with the booby going to Mr. Carous Portier. Dr. George E. Caisse, Mr. John H. Beau, Mr. Geo. E. Mongeau, Mr. A. Draville, and Mr. G. E. Ledoux served as judges. After the whist, Miss Eugenie Gessier, the blind singer, charmed the guests with her delightful rendering of several operatic hits, among them being the "Song of Salome" from Massenet's "Herodade," the "Habanera" from "Carmen," and "La Petite Tonkinoise."

Refreshments were served in the dining-room, where the table was tastefully decorated with cut flowers and trailing vines. A large corps of young ladies assisted Miss Schiller with the score cards and in the dining-room.

WANTS HER LETTER PUBLISHED

For Benefit of Women who Suffer from Female Ills

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I was a great sufferer from female troubles which caused a weakness and broken down condition of the system. I read so much of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and had done for other suffering women. I felt sure it would help me, and I must say it did help me wonderfully. My pains all left me. I grew stronger, and within three months I was a perfectly well woman."

"I want this letter made public to show the benefit women may derive from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. JOHN G. MOLEMAN, 2115 Second St., North, Minneapolis, Minn.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials like the above prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made exclusively from roots and herbs.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

We never publish a testimonial letter without the special permission of the writer, and then only when we are sure it is genuine. Surely such valuable testimony, therefore, should create confidence in the minds of suffering women.

WAUKEGAN, Ill., Sept. 16.—Rev. The girl, originally a brunette but now a blonde, also is in custody. She will be returned to her parents and be used as a witness against the accused preacher.

The accused preacher, who had been pastor of the Williamsburg church for six months, disappeared from Williamsburg on July 12 last deserting his wife and four children.

STUD POKER

PLAYED IN COURT FOR BENEFIT OF JURY

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 16.—That he had lost $1000 by gambling in the Central saloon, originally owned by the republican boss, George B. Cox, between April 1908 and April, 1909, was the testimony of Isaac M. Asher, a prominent lumber dealer, who testified yesterday in the trial of Charles Hudson and Joseph Bauer on indictments charging that they suffered a game of chance on their premises.

Asher testified that in his schedule in bankruptcy he had stated that he had lost $1000 to $10,000 in the saloon, and said that the game he had played was a stud poker. He was asked to describe the game. Prosecuting Attorney Hunt making the request.

"I guess you know how it is played," answered the witness.

But, probably there may be some one points that other gentlemen—the jury, the judge, and the attorney for the defendants—may not quite understand," replied the prosecutor.

"I doubt it," responded the witness who then gave a description of the game and told how bets were registered as the dealer distributed the cards.

it is a fact that he was not in good fighting trim, and though he scored a knockout in seven rounds he was severely jarred himself before he turned the trick. On that occasion Harris weighed more than 200 pounds, and being a six-footer he towered over Langford like a giant. Ketchel occupied a seat within a few feet of the ropes and watched Langford closely. It was the first time that Ketchel had ever seen the Boston negro in action, and after the bout, the Michigan man quickly reached the conclusion that he could beat Langford under any conditions.

NATIONAL LEAGUE RESULTS

At Philadelphia—Philadelphia 2, Brooklyn 0.
At Cincinnati—Pittsburgh 7, Cincinnati 2.

DIAMOND NOTES

Enemies of P. T. Powers are planning to oust him from the presidency of the Eastern league in spite of the fact that he organized the present circuit and has spent much time and money to keep it intact. Because of outside business ventures Powers is charged with having neglected the affairs of the Eastern league, but this is believed to be an excuse to ring in a new government of his affairs. Howard Griffiths, a Jersey City lawyer, is working tooth and nail to land the job, and behind him is Edward Hannon, president and owner of the Baltimore club. Griffiths is the man who was read out of organized baseball several years ago by the National commission for the part he played in conjunction with George Tebeau and others in trying to form an outlaw league. But Hannon and several other Eastern league owners have stuck to Griffiths ever since. Powers refused to discuss the situation, but his friends say his troubles are due to an unwillingness to play favorites.

Followers of the Athletics in Philadelphia are hailing the shot at Manager McMeekin of the St. Louis Browns for "not trying to beat Detroit." The Browns' game with the Tigers, Monday night at Cripple Creek, Detroit, Killefer and Ross, all new and inexperienced players, with the result that the Browns were very easy victims. Manager Mack of the Athletics may refer this matter to President Johnson of the American league.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

The Y. M. C. A. Indians were defeated by the Richmonds last Saturday by a score of 25 to 7 in a one-sided game.

The managers of the Mt. Groves and Y. M. C. A. have decided to play their match talk of game on Saturday. The game will likely be played at Washington park if the grounds are secured, and it's a sure bet that it will be of some class.

The Umpires and the Y. M. C. A. Indians will clash Saturday afternoon on the South common. Great victory is expected between the two teams, and a hot game is expected. The battery for the Indians will be Marcotte and Edwards for the Umpires, Donnelly and Deane.

BOXING GOSSIP.

For the first time in more than a year Sam Langford is training in Lowell. He is now in the hands of a trainer named John, who is somewhat skeptical as to the report that they will have a fight. Langford has been in hard at work for six weeks in a quiet little New England town, and has shown more activity than ever before.

Langford is a fighter who has absolute confidence in himself and who has tackled some of the toughest fighters in the past when half fit. For such men as Jeanette, Frankson, Barry, Moran, Kibick and Klondike he did not over-exert himself in preparation while for Ian Hague, the English heavyweight. Langford did not train more than ten days or two weeks. When he tackled Morris Harris in Brooklyn last spring he was a heavy weight, and he says he will be much stronger than when he beat O'Brien. Both men are somewhat skeptical as to the report that they will have a fight. They say they have too much at stake. Each man is anxious to win because of a chance to fight for a prize of $10,000. But Ketchel insisted upon other conditions, as he desired a quick fight. He says that he would not take of weight again. As a result this will be Ketchel's first battle as a heavy weight, and he says he will be much stronger than when he beat O'Brien. WOMEN FOUGHT DUEL

Both of Them Are Dead as Result of the Quarrel

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Mrs. Julia Tripp and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Louis Silvers, were killed as the result of a pistol and knife duel between the two women in Mrs. Tripp's apartment in 56th street and Prairie avenue, a fashionable residence district of this city. It is said Mrs. Silvers' husband left her about three months ago because of her peculiar actions. Mrs. Tripp was the wife of a superintendent of a manufacturing firm of this city. There were ten bullet wounds and one cut on the body of Mrs. Tripp. Mrs. Silvers is suffering from a bullet wound in the chest and several knife slashes. Only one revolver was found in the apartments but eight empty shells and two cartridges were found, indicating that the revolver was emptied and reloaded during the struggle. The furnishings of the apartments were in disorder and in every room there was evidence of a desperate struggle. Mrs. Tripp was fully dressed but Mrs. Silvers was in her underclothing. Mrs. Silvers had been staying at the Tripp home for about a month and the women are said to have had frequent quarrels, principally over the division of household duties. They had gone out at 1 o'clock in the afternoon and had returned shortly after. It had been Mrs. Silvers' custom to take a nap in the afternoon and it is evident she had prepared for this as usual. The almost simultaneous appearance of the women at different entrances to the apartment, each woman screaming for help and the fact that knife wounds were suffered by both led the police to advance the theory that there may have been a third person in the tragedy instead of its being simply a fight between the two women. The theory that one woman attempted to commit suicide and that the other tried to prevent it has also been advanced. One strange feature of the case is that no one heard any shots.

RIZZO IS HELD ESCUDERO FREE

In Connection With the Panama Jury Found Him Not Guilty

UTICA, N. Y., Sept. 15.—Yesterday brought forth several important developments in Sunday night's Italian murder case in this city, culminating last night in the arrest of a man suspected of the crime. The arrest was made on Bleeker street, not far from the house where the two murdered children lived, by Police Sergeant Barry and Officer Grande, an Italian patrolman. The man in custody is Michele Rizzo and it is said that some time ago he boarded at the Proccio home. The authorities had been seeking him throughout the day, working upon the first definite clue which they have had since the crime was discovered early Monday morning. The clue was secured yesterday morning from little Fanny Infantino, the surviving victim of the tragedy, at the hospital where she is confined.

lie in jail suffering and bleeding for more than an hour without medical attention.

Panama already has paid the indemnity of $5000 to the relatives of Rand and has agreed to dismiss all the police who were present at the time of the disturbances in the Buffalo case.

GRAY ARRESTED

Charged With Murder in First Degree

KINGSTON, N. Y., Sept. 15.—Aaron Cashdollar is dead, his brother James is in the hospital at Kingston with bullet wounds in his abdomen, which may prove fatal, and Harry Gray is in jail here, charged with murder in the first degree, as the result of a shooting affray Tuesday night which marked the culmination of an old feud between the Cashdollar and Gray families. The families occupy adjoining properties along the Hudson river, and the feud started over the ownership of a plank. When Gray came home Tuesday night the Cashdollars set their dog on him, it is alleged, and when he kicked the animal off a fight ensued. He shot to protect himself, he says, and then surrendered to the police.

KILLED BY GAS

While on His Honey-moon Trip

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 15.—Married but a few days, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tetrault, registered from Boston, enjoyed but a brief honeymoon, the young husband being dead and Mrs. Tetrault dying as a result of gas asphyxiation in their room at a local hotel. Medical Examiner Jay Perkins stated his belief that the case was one of accident. A bellboy smell gas coming from the couple's room yesterday. The door was forced and the two found in bed, the husband dead and the wife unconscious. One gas cock was wide open. It is supposed that the gas was turned on accidentally when the electric lights, on the same fixture, were being turned off.

On Tuesday evening the young husband shyly asked the hotel clerk for a room. He stated that he and his wife had just been married. It is believed the ceremony took place in Boston, as the time of arrival here followed closely that of the arrival of the Boston train. Among the effects of Mr. and Mrs. Tetrault was a birth certificate which showed the husband to be but 19 years old, and papers indicating that the couple had come originally from Milton, Que. Mrs. Tetrault appears to be a few years older than her deceased husband.

At the Rhode Island hospital where the unconscious young woman was taken, it was said last night that her condition was serious.

WOMAN MAY DIE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 15.—Mrs. Arthur Tetrault, the young bride who is believed to be dying at the Rhode Island hospital from the effects of inhaling illuminating gas which caused the death of her husband yesterday, showed no signs of returning consciousness at a late hour this morning and her death was expected. Tetrault and his young wife came here on their honeymoon and yesterday morning the odor of gas led to the discovery of the husband dead with Mrs. Tetrault in an unconscious condition. The couple are believed to have been married in Boston.

WU TING FANG

HAS RETURNED FROM TRIP TO PERU

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Wu Ting Fang who has been recalled as the Chinese minister to this country reached New York last night on the Royal Mail packet liner Oruba from Colon. He returns after a three months' visit in Peru to which he was accredited as minister as well as to this country, Cuba and Mexico. This, however, is the first visit of a Chinese minister to Peru in ten years. Mr. Wu summed up his opinion of the Panama canal which he inspected on his trip, in the one word "wonderful."

Colonel Goethals took me over the ground," he said, "and I had a splendid opportunity to see what is being done. The canal will be a great boon to the world. It will change trade conditions, so far as relations with the East are concerned, in a wonderful manner."

Concerning the North pole controversy, Mr. Wu made a particularly happy remark. When given some of the details of the Peary-Cook dispute, he listened very seriously and then, with a look of bewilderment on his face, said:

"Each man is an American."

"Ah," with a shrug of the shoulders, "then why should they quarrel?"

PATHETIC STORY

WOMAN STOLE BREAD FOR HER CHILDREN

BOSTON, Sept. 15.—When Mrs. Polly Lashen appeared before Judge Ely in the municipal court yesterday on the charge of stealing bread, she told such a pathetic story of want that her case was promptly dismissed.

It was learned that Mrs. Lashen with her husband and five children live at 14 Poplar street. The husband and father, who is a tailor, has been ill for some time, and with no income the mother has found it impossible to supply food for the crying children.

She was finally tempted to steal some loaves of bread from a store of Philip Swartz, but was caught in the act. The patrolman who made the arrest spoke for the woman in court and Mrs. Tuttle, the probation officer, also asked for leniency.

The FALL MODELS

College Brand Clothes

As shown at the Clothes Show,
are in town this week

Did you read or hear of the International Wearing Apparel Show held last month in Madison Square Garden, New York City?

It was a big show of men's wear—and the first of the kind ever held in the country.

Well, one of the greatest features of the show was the exhibit of College Brand Clothes, made by E. L. Blimline & Co., New York City. Among the many clever exhibits the College Brand outfit stood out like a North Pole discoverer.

And not for any freakishness of fabric or design—the best tendencies are toward saner lines in men's clothes—frills and furbelows are past history with the good makers—but for richness of fabrics and smartness of tailoring, College Brand Clothes stopped them all.

The Smart Clothes Shop was represented at the Clothes Show, and we thought the style lovers among the men of Lowell would like to see what we saw. We couldn't show them all we saw, but we arranged to give them the cream.

And so, this week is COLLEGE CLOTHES week at the SMART CLOTHES SHOP. Four models of Suits and six models of Winter Overcoats are displayed, and many different fabrics are shown in each model.

A few are shown in the windows, but don't hesitate to come inside if you're a clothes lover. There'll be no urging to buy, though with a couple of exceptions we will sell anything we show.

Take the College Brand course this week.

CHIEF HOSMER SEEKS DIVORCE

Spoke on the Firemen's Relief Fund

PLYMOUTH, Sept. 15.—The 30th annual convention of the Massachusetts State Firemen's association opened its three days session here yesterday. Visiting firemen came from all over the state by special train and automobiles and the town was decorated in gay attire.

At the opening meeting, held at 2:30 in Stanish hall, the address of welcome was made by Chief Ephraim D. Bartlett of Plymouth and was responded to by Chief Burton Steere of Springfield and Capt. McKinnon of Taunton. Then followed President Steere's introductory address.

At the evening session, which assembled at 7:30, Chief E. S. Hosmer of Lowell spoke interestingly on the firemen's $15,000 relief fund.

The address of the evening was given by Charles H. Donohue of Boston. The Hon. Walter S. Watson of Lowell spoke on the benefits of the modern sprinkling system in manufacturing plants. Chief E. F. Cahill of New Bedford made an address on "Summer months' drill in the departments composed of call and permanent men." Chief George L. Johnson of Waltham spoke on the best methods of exercising fire horses.

Wealthy Widow Married a Shoemaker

BRISTOL, N. H., Sept. 15.—Society circles of Grafton county are stirred, just as they were stirred seven years ago, when the wealthiest widow the county boasted married a blacksmith's son, by learning yesterday that she is seeking a divorce and that he is eking out a livelihood by pegging shoes.

Mrs. William J. Decato, 37 years old, is the woman who has applied for a decree. She charges cruel and abusive treatment. She was formerly Mrs. Katherine Mason, when—of the head of the Mason-Perkins Paper company, and by her first husband's death in 1900 held the income of property valued at over $250,000.

Seven years ago, the present husband, Decato, was pegging shoes in a local factory and pitching for the local baseball team.

He has gone back to his old employment, after a sheriff ejected him from the palatial home that the couple occupied on Main street.

Decato, up to six weeks ago, had been a millionaire and his wife had been a social belle. They were looked upon as a happy couple.

The storm broke when Decato took his wife to a dance and she became the partner there of another man. This caused Decato to call the fellow down publicly and his wife felt disgraced. After they got home, it is alleged, that the quarrel was renewed and the wife alleged that her husband struck her. She left him to go on a vacation to the beach, but came back with the sheriff and Decato had to seek the street.

Decato is 28 years old. This year his pitching ability won the championship of Grafton county for the local team.

The divorce case is to come up in the court at Westville within a week or so, and former Senator Ira Chase will look after Mrs. Decato's interests. The husband will be represented by Martin & Hall of Concord.

KILLED BY FALL

MANCHESTER, N. H., Sept. 15.—Joseph Pratte, aged 24, fell three stories from the veranda at 20 Amory street late yesterday afternoon and died in a short time as a result of a fractured skull. He was the child of Mr. and Mrs. Donat Pratte, the father being employed by the street department.

SENATOR GRADY

NAMED AS HEAD OF THE EAGLES

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 15.—The nomination of grand officers was the principal business of yesterday's session of the National convention of the Fraternal Order of Eagles. Senator Thomas F. Grady of New York was unanimously nominated for grand worthy vice president.

Frank E. Herring, retiring vice president, succeeds to the office of president, by precedent.

THE POLICE

LOOKING FOR GIRL WHO MET FLORENCE WEBER

CANAL FOWER, O., Sept. 15.—Police are searching for an unidentified girl who met Miss Florence Weber, 20 years old, whose body was found in the Tascara river yesterday, shortly after she left the home of her uncle, Samuel Weber, Monday night in response to a mysterious telephone message. Relatives say the message came from a woman. Miss Weber is supposed to have met her death Monday night.

Until last night, relatives of the girl believed she left the vicinity of her uncle's home alone. Mrs. Catherine Keuerleber, however, informed the police that she saw the girl's most recent after Miss Weber left the house. Mrs. Keuerleber who is well acquainted here, says the girl, Miss Weber met, was a stranger. She gave the police a good description of her.

Mrs. Keuerleber told the police that she believes the Weber girl has been morose for many days.

The theory that Miss Weber committed suicide was strengthened last night when Coroner Remig reported that there were no bruises on the girl's body.

Miss Weber was employed here as a telephone operator.

ULTIMATUM TO BOLIVIA

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Sept. 15.—The rumor was current here yesterday that Peru had sent an ultimatum to Bolivia, demanding that the latter country should either accept or reject the recent arbitral award by Argentina with reference to the frontier dispute. This could not be confirmed but it is known that there are serious complications between the two countries. Peru has rejected Bolivia's latest propositions and the Peruvian minister has recommended the Peruvian merchants here to place their business interests in the hands of persons of another nationality and prepare for any emergency.

HEROISM OF A WIRELESS OPERATOR.

Telegraph operators have been proverbially heroic in emergencies that required the exercise of courage, in cases of fire or accident, but seldom has greater heroism been shown by any operator than by George E. Eccles of Seattle who went down with the Alaskan steamer, Ohio, after she struck a rock. His calls for help by the wireless appeal "C. Q. D." brought the steamers Kingsfisher, Rupert City and Humboldt to the rock of Steep Point, Hishik Narrows, British Columbia, and all but himself and four others were saved.

The Ohio went down in thirteen minutes after it struck, but all the passengers were taken off in boats, and it is said that Eccles remained at his post hammering away at the call for help, the name of the vessel and the location of the ship until the water was pouring in upon him. His last message indicates that he stuck to his instrument after everybody else had gone. As related by a wireless operator who was in communication with him at the last moment it read thus:—

"Passengers all off and adrift in small boats, captain and crew going off in the last boat; waiting for me now—Good bye."

The operator who received that message tried in vain after that to get any answer from Eccles. He had gone down with the steamer as a result of staying too long at his post. His act of heroism was even greater than that of Jack Binns who by remaining at his post saved the Republic and her passengers without, however, sacrificing his own life. This was another instance in which the great value of the wireless as a life saver at sea was illustrated. It shows that the company that allows its vessels to go unequipped with the wireless is neglecting one of the greatest safeguards of human life that is known to science.

DRIVE OUT THE OLD TANNERY.

For many years past the people residing in the vicinity of the Howe street tannery of the American Hide and Leather Co. have been wishing that something would come to bring about its removal. They cared not whether it was a fire, an earthquake or some other calamity that would rid them of a nuisance which had become intolerable.

The property owners in the vicinity have protested that the foul odors emanating from the tannery had greatly reduced the value of their property, had affected the health of their families and made it almost impossible to get tenants to remain for any considerable length of time. Thus it has entailed a heavy financial loss to the owners of property in the vicinity.

Indeed, so intolerable are the conditions in the neighborhood of the tannery, especially in the summer time, that nobody can be found to occupy some of the tenements, while those that are occupied are let at a reduced rental far below what they would bring but for the foul odors from the tannery.

We understand that it is in the Howe street building that the hides are put through the first process of treatment preparatory to being converted into leather. It is the most malodorous part of the business and one that should not be tolerated in any thickly settled district.

The fact that the front part of the old building fell into the street late Tuesday afternoon has brought more forcibly to public attention the conditions that existed there. Fortunately nobody was killed, but the question now arises as to whether the American Hide and Leather Co. will be allowed to repair or rebuild the part of the structure that has fallen. Under the new building laws it is forbidden to build or rebuild any structure of wood within what is known as the fire district. No doubt the American Hide and Leather Co. will want to rebuild the part that has fallen and the company may ask the permission to remodel and rebuild the whole structure.

No such permission should be granted. This seems to be a favorable time to move the business outward where it will injure nobody either in his property or his health.

The sentiment of the people in that locality is strongly opposed to the continuance of the business that has been carried on there. They believe it should be taken to the outskirts of the city where it would not annoy any great number of people. They believe the business should long ago have been condemned as a public nuisance by the board of health, and in this we agree with them. Hence we are opposed to rebuilding any part of the structure and on the contrary we favor having the business driven out of that district and out of the city in the interests of public health to which it has been for years such a menace and detriment.

The board of health in our opinion has not done its duty to the public in having failed to condemn the Howe street tannery as a nuisance and a menace to public health. The nauseating odors emanating from the tannery have been the cause of complaint for many years. Even the people who have passed along East Merrimack street on the electric cars have often got such a strong whiff of the odor that they had to hold their noses. The odors have been particularly offensive in the hot weather but even in cold weather they are too strong for the neighbors. How could it be otherwise where $250,000 worth of fresh hides are being treated?

The people in the vicinity have borne patiently with the evil for years in spite of its serious character; but now they intend to make a combined effort to have it either abolished entirely or so mitigated that it will not damage property or injure the health of those who reside in the vicinity.

The best remedy is to have the factory vacated and the business done where it will not be a public nuisance. It will not do to transfer the work done on Howe street to the Perry street factory. The residents in that section will not stand it. They have had occasion to complain of odors that seemed to come from the smoke of leather shavings, but that has been stopped of late and there has been little or no cause for complaint on account of bad odors from the Perry street tannery. If the people refuse to tolerate the smoke from leather shavings or floor sweepings, they are not likely to tolerate a nuisance in any other way. The work must be done somewhere and there are plenty of suitable places but a short distance outwards where houses are few and land is cheap.

The interests of the public, it seems to us, are paramount in this matter and should be so considered by the health board, the building department, the state inspectors and even by the American Hide and Leather Co.

SEEN AND HEARD

Yes, the fall is the sad season if you want to make it so.

Wasn't you told that at about this time you would begin to wonder what you had done with your summer's wages?

The dog that stands by his master through the storming process of a Turkish bath is a faithful brute.

I met a pair of big gray horses on the sidewalk in Merrimack street yesterday. The horses were being used in the street work going on there and as the side of the street they were on was all torn up it was necessary for them to take to the sidewalk. They looked a bit out of place just the same.

Soon we will be commenting on the temporary passing of the open car.

Little Johnny—"I know what I would have done if I was Dr. Cook."

His Mother—"What would you have done?"

Little Johnny—"I have a hunch that he discovered the pole, and if I'd been him I would have brought a piece of the pole home with me. I guess that would make Perry look like 30 cents."

Perry and Cook will both bring up on the lecture platform.

A SUMMER EXPERIMENT

They rented a cottage together, the Joneses and Skaggses and said: "We'll share in the cost and we'll split up the work and each one shall make his own bed."

Twice as easy to do, and I'm sure we will find that housework will seem just like play."

So with this understanding they packed up their trunks and together they journeyed away.

At first things went smoothly, a week or two passed, then, clouds in the distance appeared.

Mrs. Jones told her hubby, that mean Mrs. Skaggs used to sneak when the table was cleared.

Though it wasn't her night to wipe dishes of course, she might have helped him then away.

As she always did when "twas Mrs. Skaggs' turn, a fact she could truthfully say.

Then Mrs. Skaggs said she was sick of her job, because Mrs. Jones seemed to think

She had nothing to do but look pretty and smile and play the summer away at the sink;

And Jones disliked Skaggs because he wouldn't clean his share of the fish that they caught,

And Skaggs had a notion that Jones wouldn't go for water the times that he ought.

Ere a month had gone by Mrs. Jones started in to tell Mrs. Skaggs a few things.

And Mrs. Skaggs straightaway unburdened her mind of a few disagreeable things.

Now the Joneses and Skaggses are home once again, their vacation was from a treat.

And good Mrs. Skaggs doesn't see Mrs. Jones whenever they pass on the street.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Professor Percival Lowell has discovered oxygen in the atmosphere of Mars. This announcement comes almost on the moment of the confirmation of Dr. Lowell's declaration of last year of water vapor in the atmosphere of Mars. The original announcement was made a year ago, in consequence of observations made some time before, while the confirmation is in consequence of a special expedition to the summit of Mt. Whitney made by Dr.

W. W. Campbell, director of Lick observatory. The first step in Dr. Lowell's process was to secure a site for his observatory of exceptional atmospheric conditions, and how successful the choice has been may be judged in part from the fact that it required observations from the summit of Mount Whitney, above the perpetual snow line, to corroborate the observatory results. The second point of attack was the good fortune of extended manipulations of photographic plates, so that by the combination of skill on the part of the optician and of the photographer the measurable spectrum has been greatly extended. Thus the water vapor lines, which are at the extremity of the ordinary spectrum, or, in other words, are beyond the range of convenient view, Especial credit is given to Assistant Lampland and Sypher for their portion of the work.

Dr. Lowell has been greatly pleased by the acquisition of Professor F. A. Very to the force of the observatory. Dr. Very, who was for a long time at Allegheny observatory and who, with Langley, made the famous investigations and extensions of the spectrum on which Langley's fame was based, has in the past year or two been at work on the difficult problems afforded by the conditions of spectrum. Dr. Very, in the decade ended with 1899, was probably no one in the country more skilled in this particular kind of work, and Dr. Very by means of new and ingenious comparators devised by himself, has been able to entice from the complex of lines a portion of their story. A year ago it was water vapor that the lines gave for their most extended word; just now the word has been extended by new and more delicate devices to include oxygen. It marks another and distinct step in advance in the knowledge of the planet.

By the will of Col. Stephen M. Crosby of Boston several public bequests are made. The testator left $50,000 to the trustees of Dartmouth college, to be expended in the erection of the memorial building, the cornerstone of which was laid at the time of the Webster centennial, or, if the building is abandoned, then to such general uses as shall in their opinion best express the satisfaction of the testator for his alma mater and his desire to enlarge and increase its influence. He gives $500 to the Mary Hitchcock Memorial hospital at Hanover, N. H., to endow a bed in memory of his father, Nathan Crosby, preference to be given if possible to students of Dartmouth college. He gives $1000 to John McKinley, in appreciation of his long and faithful service, and to the heirs of the matriarch in his house he gives $100.

It has just become known that James N. Jarvis of Montclair, N. J., on the occasion of his marriage recently to Miss Helen E. Conover, celebrated the event by giving $100,000 to educational interests and charities. He gave as a wedding gift to the Westminster Presbyterian church of Bloomfield, N. J., $25,000; to the Mountain Side hospital at Montclair, $25,000; to the John Hain Home for the Aged, $25,000; and the German Theological school, $25,000. Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis are now traveling abroad.

William J. Dawson, D. D., recently returned to this country from a three months' mission tour through England, Scotland and Wales, with an estimated value of $100,000 in value, and he was not until 1840 that the value of iron and steel manufactures exported crossed the million-dollar line. By 1850 they reached about 2 millions; 1860, nearly 6 millions; 1870, 13½ millions; 1880, 14½ millions; 1890, 25½ millions; 1900, 122 millions, and 1908, 184 millions to which may properly be added about 2 million dollars worth sent to Alaska, Porto Rico, and Hawaii, and not included in the statement of our foreign commerce, making the grand total for 1908 nearly 200 million dollars.

EXPORT TRADE

SHOWED A GREAT INCREASE IN RECENT YEARS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Twelve billion dollars' worth of manufactures have been exported from the United States in the last 120 years, 8 billions, or two-thirds, of this enormous total within the last 20 years, and 6 billions, or one-half, in the last 11 years. This is the summary of a statement just prepared by the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor. The first year's record of the foreign commerce of the United States under the present form of government covers, of course, the fiscal year 1909 completes 120 years of commerce. The bureau of statistics has just completed its record of the commerce of the fiscal year 1909, and, combining it with the accumulated records of foreign commerce from 1789 down to date, finds that the total exports of domestic merchandise of all kinds during the 120 years have aggregated 46 billion dollars, of which 12 billions, or 26 per cent, were sent abroad in the more than one-half of this enormous total of 12 billion dollars went out of the country during the 11 years ending with 1909; and that two-thirds of this total went out during the 20 years ending with 1909. In other words, the value of the manufactures exported since 1889 is as great as all that exported in the 100 years prior to that date, while the total for the last 20 years is twice as great as the total of the immediately preceding 100 years.

The share which manufactures form of our exports has steadily advanced as the years have passed. In the decade 1789-1799 manufactures formed 25 per cent of the domestic merchandise exported; in the decade ended with 1839, 63 per cent; in the decade ended with 1859, 85 per cent; in the decade ended with 1879, 90 per cent; in the decade ended with 1899, 93 per cent; and in the decade ended with 1909, 94 per cent. The share which manufactures form of the total exports thus steadily advanced.

In response to inquiries about our new department of Annals, stockings, handkerchiefs, towels, bed and bath linen are ironed in first class shape; but skirts, wrappers, night gowns, drawers, chemises and such articles, are only roughly ironed. The rate is very low and the results are very satisfactory. Telephone 2165, or 679.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

In David Belasco's "Girl of the Golden West," which comes to the Opera House tonight, Mr. Belasco is said to have succeeded in shaping a beautiful artistic picture from a rough story of life in California in the days of '49. The girl is the proprietor of the Palia saloon. Here the rough crowd gathers to dance, drink and gamble, but all respect the girl. The stranger, too, is drawn to the saloon to rob it. He had met the girl on the road to Monterey and both had fallen in love. Their second meeting is at the saloon and the spark fires into a flame.

An examination of the records of manufactures exported in the earlier periods shows some marked contrasts when compared with the records of the present commerce. The total value of manufactures exported in 1790 was $1,243,547 and forms 6 per cent of the total domestic merchandise exported. The largest item, while classed as "Chemicals, drugs, etc.," was in fact chiefly potash, pearl ash and other products of this character, and amounted to $841,000 in value. Distilled spirits amounted to $335,000 in value; pig iron, $108,000; candles, $45,000; carriages, $28,000; boots and shoes, $11,000 and bricks, $11,000 in value. Iron and steel products of all kinds recorded in the exports of 1790 amounted to but $17,000 in value, and it was not until 1840 that the value of iron and steel manufactures exported crossed the million-dollar line. By 1850 they reached about 2 millions; 1860, nearly 6 millions; 1870, 13½ millions; 1880, 14½ millions; 1890, 25½ millions; 1900, 122 millions, and 1908, 184 millions to which may properly be added about 2 million dollars worth sent to Alaska, Porto Rico, and Hawaii, and not included in the statement of our foreign commerce, making the grand total for 1908 nearly 200 million dollars.

Every part of the world, every grand division, every country, every great city has contributed to this growth in the exports of American manufactures. The value of manufactures sent to Europe in 1908 was 368 million dollars, or practically one-half of the 750 million dollars worth exported in that year; to North America, 118 million dollars; to South America, 21½ million dollars; to Asia, also, 71½ million dollars; to Oceania, 49 million dollars; and to Africa, 19 million dollars worth.

Of the 288 million dollars' worth of manufactures sent to Europe in 1908, 87 million dollars were copper, 55 million dollars were oil, 47 million dollars were iron and steel, 39 million dollars were of wood, 17 million dollars were of agricultural implements.

SEC. BALLINGER

IS EXONERATED BY THE PRESIDENT

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 16.—A statement in which President Taft announces his findings upon the charges against the conduct of the interior department of the government by L. B. Glavis, chief of the field division of the general land office, in connection with the Cunningham case and claims in Alaska, exonerating Secretary Ballinger of the interior department and observing that Mr. Glavis' case embraced only "shreds of suspicion without substantial evidence" was made public here last night.

The president's grant of amnesty to Ballinger's request for amnesty, to discontinue his request for the service of the government "for unjustly impeaching the official integrity of his superior officer," and taking occasion to review evidence in the so-called "Cunningham case," and other cases, to refute the charges that the secretary of the interior is out of sympathy with the policy of the administration in favor of the conservation of natural resources.

The statement is in the form of a letter to Secretary Ballinger written before President Taft left his summer home at Beverly, Mass.

AT SPALDING PARK

The Demarest horse show at Spalding Park this week is one of the most interesting of its kind in the country. Headed by an expert equestrian, Madeline Schaefer, and carrying some wonderful horsemen, the show is one that pleases from start to finish. The terrible Barnie, a little mule very offensive in appearance, but without a doubt the most strenuous animal in the horse kingdom today, is the fun maker of the show.

Barnie has a pair of well trained hoofs also a set of teeth that make deep impression occasionally, and so skilled is he in the use of these weapons, that the show people offer $5 to any man who will remain on Barnie's back 20 seconds. Other horses that perform are Clifton Roy, the bucking broncho; Major McKinley, the champion hunter; Cupid, the dancing horse; Band, contribute to make the show interesting. Admission is free.

DAVID BELASCO

She invites him to her cabin, where they have supper. The storm compels him to stay there for the night. While he is hidden away behind the curtains of the bed, the sheriff's posse enters and tells the girl that the stranger is the road agent they are after. After the posse is gone she orders the stranger to enter into the storm. He returns, wounded by the sheriff, who follows. The stranger is hidden in a loft. His blood betrays him. The sheriff plays the game of poker, the stake being whether she shall marry him or shall have the life of the road agent. The sheriff wins, but she leaves a hand for her stocking and wins out. There are some of the strong features of "The Girl of the Golden West."

THE WORLD AND A WOMAN

"The World and a Woman" will be presented at the Opera House, Sept. 16 and 18. This play is a society "problem play" of present day American life; but unlike so many of those so called problem plays which have been produced during the past two seasons, "The World and a Woman" is said to have in addition to a wealth of bright dialogue, a strong and interesting foundation of the most intense heart interest and reality. In a word, this play not only appeals to one's intellect and powers of reasoning, but it goes farther and deeper than that to the root of all real sensation—the heart.

DEADWOOD DICK'S LAST SHOW

An original and up to date western melodrama is "Deadwood Dick's Last Show," by Owen Davis, which will be seen at the Opera House, Sept. 20 and 21. It is a tale of the wildlands, valleys and canyons of the Golden West.

LOUIS MANN

Sings for the Louis Mann engagement in "The Man Who Stood Still" at the Opera House on Sept. 22. will be ready Saturday. Mr. Mann has just concluded a very successful engagement at the Tremont theatre, Boston. The play comes here direct from Boston.

"A BROKEN IDOL"

There will be plenty of lively fun, catchy music, pretty girls and all those other essential necessities which go to make success in musical comedy at the Opera House on Sept. 25, when "A Broken Idol," with the original company headed by Otis Harlan, will be the attraction. This production is said to be one containing many innovations and distinct surprises.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

Gus Edwards, who has turned out many song hits which have netted him many good cash in the past few years, is author of the abbreviated comic opera called "School Boys and Girls," which is headlined at Hathaway's theatre, this week. The songs are all by him, several of them very new, and they are sung with evident naivete.

TO INSPECT CANAL WORK

NEW BEDFORD, Sept. 15.—The U. S. engineer steamer Cora arrived here from Newport yesterday afternoon to await the arrival of a party of United States senators and congressmen from Washington. The Cora will take the party under the direction of Lieut. Col. Sanford, chief engineer of this district, to inspect the work being done at the Buzzards Bay end of the Cape Cod canal.

STAR THEATRE

The most eminent playwrights and the world's best actors are rapidly forsaking the big theatrical productions to command large salaries from moving picture film manufacturers to stage and enact the classic dramas and refined comedies. Film manufacturers can afford to pay the world's best actors to present a piece because from one presentation several films can be made.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

Some class to that "Amateur show" was the verdict of the audience at the Academy of Music last night. The acts were all so far above the average that it was almost impossible to pick the winners. The first prize was won by a little girl, Evelyn Sawyer, with a sweet voice, that charmed her audience. Geo. Martin took second with a difficult back dance. Handicap Dancematt was another favorite for third prize, in a recitation. Today, Thursday, brings the entire change of vaudeville and moving pictures. Heading the program are Beltrah and Beltrah in the "Musical Dairy." This act alone is worth the price of admission. Rich and Hart appear in a character sketch "Absurdity," and Miss Claudia Bessette in illustrated songs. Travellers of the City of Lawrence and three reels of the latest moving pictures are shown.

The most eminent playwrights and the world's best actors are rapidly forsaking the big theatrical productions to command large salaries from moving picture film manufacturers to stage and enact the classic dramas and refined comedies. Film manufacturers can afford to pay the world's best actors to present a piece because from one presentation several films can be made.

At the Star theatre, the admission to see these high class pieces in motion pictures is five cents and includes a seat. A new talking picture and two new illustrated songs were the features of today's offering. New pictures tomorrow.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

Some class to that "Amateur show" was the verdict of the audience at the Academy of Music last night. The acts were all so far above the average that it was almost impossible to pick the winners. The first prize was won by a little girl, Evelyn Sawyer, with a sweet voice, that charmed her audience. Geo. Martin took second with a difficult back dance. Handicap Dancematt was another favorite for third prize, in a recitation. Today, Thursday, brings the entire change of vaudeville and moving pictures. Heading the program are Beltrah and Beltrah in the "Musical Dairy." This act alone is worth the price of admission. Rich and Hart appear in a character sketch "Absurdity," and Miss Claudia Bessette in illustrated songs. Travellers of the City of Lawrence and three reels of the latest moving pictures are shown.

THEATRE VOYONS

The Theatre Voyons is always on the lookout for novelties, and today it shows one that is very timely and interesting. The first picture shows vaudeville hunting in the Arctic, the same region in which Cook and Peary had many adventures and about which there is so much talk. Following it in way of a contrast, leopard hunting in Java will be shown. This jump from the frozen north to the Indian Archipelago is a long one, and the contrast is most remarkable. There are several other subjects, dramatic and comedy, on the bill, and the usual novel and up-to-date illustrated songs.

NOT KILLED BY BLOWS

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 15.—Dilation of the heart, and not blows, was the cause of the death of Frank Leonard of Scarborough, according to the report of the coroner's jury late yesterday. Leonard died at a suburban casino Friday night and his companion, Robert Lawson of South Portland, was later arrested charged with manslaughter. It being alleged that during the course of a quarrel with Leonard, Lawson struck the blow that caused Leonard's death. Lawson is now being held for the grand jury which will report for the regular term of the court today.

NEW BEDFORD, Sept. 15.—The U. S. engineer steamer Cora arrived here from Newport yesterday afternoon to await the arrival of a party of United States senators and congressmen from Washington. The Cora will take the party under the direction of Lieut. Col. Sanford, chief engineer of this district, to inspect the work being done at the Buzzards Bay end of the Cape Cod canal.

SUPREME COURT

Decides in Favor of Old Dominion Copper Company

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—Late yesterday afternoon the full bench of the supreme judicial court, by a decision of 4 to 3, sent down a majority opinion sustaining a decree in favor of the Old Dominion Copper Mining and Smelting Company against Albert S. Bigelow. The majority opinion was written by Judge Rogers and Justices Worling, Brainerd and Sheldon concur. The dissenters are Chief Justice Knowlton and Associate Justices Hammond and Norton. The case will now be taken to the supreme court of the United States. Leonard Lewisohn and Bigelow were jointly interested in the sale of the Old Dominion Copper company of Baltimore in the Old Dominion Copper Mining and Smelting Company. At the time of the sale the rights of the Baltimore company were worth $1,000,000 and its real estate worth $500,000. The price paid to Lewisohn and Bigelow was $2,500,000 for rights and $750,000 for land. The Old Dominion Copper Mining and Smelting Company, claiming that the transaction was fraudulent, brought suits against Lewisohn and Bigelow to recover damages or to have the sale voided. As Lewisohn could not be made on Bigelow when the case was entered in the federal court of New York against Lewisohn, an independent action against Bigelow was begun in the supreme court of Massachusetts. While the case against Lewisohn was pending in the supreme court of the United States, it had been taken by the plaintiff company on an appeal from the circuit court of New York sustaining the demurrer of Lewisohn, the Massachusetts action against Bigelow was heard by Judge Sheldon, who entered a decree ordering Bigelow

FIVE BUILDINGS

At East Wakefield Destroyed by Fire

EAST WAKEFIELD, N. H., Sept. 16.—Five buildings in the central part of this town were destroyed by fire at an early hour today. They were the Boston & Maine railroad station, the Davis house, a summer hotel owned by W. L. Whitling with a stable, a dwelling house occupied by John Harmon and the large stable of Chidden Brothers. All were moderately sized frame buildings and the loss is not expected to exceed $150,000. The guests at the Davis house and the members of Mr. Whitling's family all escaped without injury although eight horses were burned in the stable, but the horses in the delivery stable were taken out before the fire reached the building.

"SANDY" FERGUSON WAS KNOCKED OUT BY A FISH-ERMAN YESTERDAY

GLoucester, Sept. 16.—"Sandy" Ferguson, the Chelsea "strong boy" pugilist, one-time fisherman and possessor of numerous other titles, blew into Gloucester and during the afternoon became possessed of a desire to start something, but the skirmish ended in less than a round, in which Ferguson received a knockout. The rather usual tranquility of the upper end of Duncan street was suddenly broken about 4 o'clock, when the invincible "Sandy" and a companion walked down the street and bid up two fishermen nearly opposite the Gloucester fishermen's institute. Just what was said or how the trouble started could not be ascertained, although eye witnesses of the affair alleged that "Sandy" and his companion "got a little too fresh," as they put it, and in an instant one of the fishermen, a little fellow, not over 5 ft. 4 in. in length, it is said, landed on "Sandy's" jaw with his right with such a force that it put the ample six-footer away for a few seconds. "Sandy's" companion persisted in getting into the fray also, and the brawny fisherman let his left fall on him, which put a quietus to the belligerent pair.

The fisherman in striking the first blow dislocated two fingers on the right hand, and with his companion went to the Emergency hospital on Short street for treatment, but while waiting for the doctor left the place and went elsewhere.

Made Another Balloon Trip From Fitchburg

Woman Says Husband Kicked Her

SOUTH LYNDENBORO, N. H., Sept. 16.—Hovering over a sea of clouds 1500 feet deep, in which denser clouds floated like bergs in an Arctic sea, 5400 feet above the earth, Charles J. Glidden, the balloon pilot of Boston, and P. Chester Thompson, a civil engineer of Salt Lake City, made a balloon trip from Fitchburg to this town, an air-line distance of 22 miles. The start was made from Fitchburg at 3:20 p.m. and there being little wind, the ascent was gradual. The first set of clouds which it had to penetrate were found to be 1000 feet deep. A sudden change in temperature sent the balloon down over the village of Baldwinville. Shortly after the balloon again ascended and this time the clouds were found higher up, at 3200 feet, being fully 1500 feet in thickness. After passing through the clouds the balloon reached an equilibrium at 6100 feet, and for half an hour floated in the sea of mist. The earth was completely shut out. The balloon, which was the Boston, landed at 6:01 on the farm of Harry J. Richardson, who conveyed the aeronauts to Wilton, where they remained last night. Mr. Glidden stated the balloon had travelled fully 60 miles during the afternoon before reaching South Lyndeboro.

216 CENTRAL ST.

LAWRENCE, Sept. 16.—Judge Harry R. Dow, in the probate court yesterday, issued a decree for separate support in the case of Lillian E. Weeks vs. James Weeks, both of North Andover. Mrs. Weeks is to have custody of the child. Mrs. Alexander Lundenhoven of Haverhill, in a suit for separate maintenance, testified that her husband's abuse of her consisted in kicking her while she was asleep in bed, also that he ran the blade of a saw across her neck, and at another time split her hand with a stick. She added that he would not allow her to sing in the house. She admitted throwing a chair and teapot at her husband, but claimed it was in self defence. Judge Dow issued a decree ordering the husband to pay $50 forthwith to his wife and $1 per week.

BURGLAR SCARED WHEN HE HEARD WOMAN CALL FOR GUN. ONSET BAY, Sept. 16.—Mrs. Chas. S. Sprague of Boston and Miss Sprague were alone in their bungalow on Fifth street, Shell Point, when at 3 o'clock in the morning a sound awakened both, coming from the direction of the kitchen. Mrs. Sprague had no firearms in the house, but her first thought, she says, was of her gun, and she shouted: "Give me the gun, Jack!" "Jack" was cool, too, for she said: "Don't point the gun this way!" The burglar jumped to the side door out of the kitchen, unlocked it and jumped over the rail and ran away through the trees. The two women could see him, and the marks of his shoes, deep in the dirt, remained to corroborate the story. When the man had gone the women's shrieks aroused the cottagers in the neighborhood, and J. H. Hinter, next door, insisted upon both women coming to his house for the rest of the night. The burglar got nothing.

GETS FOUR YEARS FOR SWEARING FALSELY OF BRIDE'S AGE. BALTIMORE, Sept. 16.—For swearing falsely to the age of his sweetheart to get a marriage license, William Moore was sentenced to four years in the penitentiary by Judge William H. Forsyth, Jr., at Elkton City. Mr. Moore obtained a license to marry Elizabeth Saylor of this city, representing that she was 18 years old, when in fact she was scarcely 15. The pair were married August 9 and later went to the home of the girl's mother. The latter, instead of receiving the youthful couple with a parental blessing, had the bridegroom arrested. His trial and conviction followed. The bride's mother is endeavoring to have the marriage annulled.

NEWS FROM SPORTING AND THEATRICAL CIRCLES

By TOMMY CLARKE.

Now that the important lawn tennis tournaments, east, west, north and south, have been decided the wipers of the racket are focusing their eyes on the coming Davis cup ties to be held on the Germantown cricket grounds, Philadelphia, Sept. 11 and 13. The matches are for the purpose of seeing which players are better fitted to go to Australia in an endeavor to bring back the international challenge cup.

When it was first announced that England would send A. W. Gore, the present champion; M. J. Ritchie, former holder of the title, and J. C. Parke, Ireland's premier tennis crack, it was figured that the Americans would have their hands full trying to defeat the trio. But the recent change in the makeup of the team has caused considerable disappointment in this country, the two men who appeared to lead strength to the visiting delegation, Gore and Ritchie, having announced their inability to make the trip. Americans were anxious to see Gore on the courts, for he has been the title holder in Great Britain during the past two years and is considered the best player in Europe today.

As at present constituted the Britishers are represented by James C. Parke, the Irish champion, who played in this country last year; W. C. Crawley, and C. P. Dixon. The latter two are unknown on this side and, according to their records this year in English tournaments, do not appear to be dangerous. Both have suffered several defeats.

Parke, the Irish champion, proved a disappointment in America last year. He was dashing and erratic, but since then he has sobered down a lot. His service in particular shows increased certainty, while his speed in the court has also to be reckoned with. Parke was so anxious to play in America again that he replied to his invitation by return of post. He wants his revenge on the men who beat him. He is one of the finest tennis players in the British Isles and has played for Ireland against England, Scotland and Wales.

As the team now lines up, the United States should experience no trouble in winning the elimination tournament, in spite of the fact that tennis this year is in a rather chaotic state as to the ranking players. It is likely that William J. Clothier and William Larned will play the Englishmen in the singles and that Hackett and Alexander will again take care of the doubles.

It is hardly likely, however, that if the Americans win any of them will go to Australia from present indications excepting possibly Clothier. Larned, Hackett and Alexander have all said they cannot make the long journey owing to business engagements. It means at least three months of the winter season. With any other representatives this country would stand but little chance against the Australians.

In the negotiations made with England this country agreed to send a strong combination to Australia before securing the elimination struggle. It behooves the Davis cup committee, therefore, to get busy, or there may be a howl from the Englishmen in case we win against them and do not send the topnotchers.

Football Schedules for 1903.

Called Game to Get Tobacco.

Umpire Cleary of the Kansas State league, who called the game at McPherson, Kan., recently in the eighteenth inning of a twenty-one inning game in order that he might send for some more chewing tobacco, is one of the most popular indicator handlers in the Sunflower State.

The McPherson incident is merely one of the numerous acts that have gone to convince the Kansas leaguers that Cleary is "cock of the walk" when it comes to the psychological moment stunt.

"No position is so trying," said Cleary recently, "as the duties of an umpire in a small league. Although I have never handled an indicator in what the sporting writers would term 'fast company,' I believe it would be dead easy to the game I am up against down here."

Needs No Legislation.

"Legislate the spitball out?" asked Manager Fred Lake of the Boston Americans. "What's the use? The Americans are putting it out of business themselves. Where there were thirty spitball pitchers a year ago there are scarcely ten today. A lot of them bluff about it, but the real 'spitters' they throw are few and far between."

"Cy Morgan would be with us today if he had only consented to pass up the spitter. He refused, though, and became so wild that we finally traded him to Philadelphia. Now, I understand, he has practically stopped using the spitter and depends upon his curve ball, and I want to tell you that no pitcher in the league has a better curve ball than Morgan. A few years from now few pitchers will bother with the spitball at all."

Frederick Triggles

"Is Matrimony a Failure?"

"Is Matrimony a Failure?" a farce adapted by Leo Dietrichstein from the German, has had its first presentation at the Savoy theater at Atlantic City. The play deals with the troubles that beset the burghers of Rosedale when a young lawyer discovered that every marriage recorded by the town clerk was illegal. Remarriage was the order of the day, but new marriages meant new marital bargains, and thus the humorous complications started. In the end most of Mr. Dietrichstein's characters decide that matrimony is not a failure.

Among the songs which met with especial favor were "Any Old Port in a Storm," an old fashioned song about the sea for a man with a big voice, which was sung by John P. Rogers; near east, included a sword play dance to national airs, which found great favor in the eyes of the audience. There was a negro woman with an irreproachable figure, Arthur Alexander by name, who made a great deal of fun by sweeping off his wig and all of bow thanks to a curtain call. Joe Boganny, in a huge baker's suit of white duck, led a company of acrobats, who were well received.

does not perform as Salome, she dresses the part to a large extent and sings some verses which supply what the dance lacks.

"The Gay Hussars."

"The Gay Hussars," at the Knickerbocker theater, has settled down for a long run. The attractive songs and dances and the color ensemble give it a resemblance to "The Merry Widow," which its managers claim it equals.

Bobby North, who has established himself as a comedian of the first rank by his portrayal of Sub-Lieutenant Wallerstein, the barber soldier in "The Gay Hussars," has been blessed self musician by injecting into the score of "The Gay Hussars" a comic song, called "My Friend Lebel," which has proved the laughing song success of the season on Broadway.

A New Minstrel Show.

The Cohen & Harris minstrels have opened the New York theater with a new and breezy production. George Evans, the "Honey Boy," appeared in a characteristic "black face" role and received hearty applause.

There was dancing without end in every conceivable degree of eccentricity. "Manila," a marching piece, which burned enough gunpowder to effect half a dozen revolutions in the

"The Hat My Father Wore," by Earl Behman, and "The Wedding Bells," by John Comfort.

The performance closed with "The Firemen's Picnic," a George M. Cohan sketch, which provoked an immense amount of laughter at some immensely broad humor.

"Dollar Mark" Pleases.

A large audience witnessed and frequently applauded the first performance of George Broadhurst's play, "The Dollar Mark," at Wallace's theater very recently. The cast includes Robert Warwick, Cuyler Hastings, Clay Clement, Hassard Short, George Backus, Pauline Fredericks, Selma Johnson, Diva Marolda and Brinsley

Bill Campbell, one of the Cincinnati Nationals' promising young pitchers.

Clarke Griffith, manager of the Cincinnati Nationals, is under the impression that in another season Bill Campbell, one of the Reds' young twirlers, will class with the best in the country. Campbell has a good control and a splendid assortment of twisters.

Called Game to Get Tobacco.

Umpire Cleary of the Kansas State league, who called the game at McPherson, Kan., recently in the eighteenth inning of a twenty-one inning game in order that he might send for some more chewing tobacco, is one of the most popular indicator handlers in the Sunflower State.

The McPherson incident is merely one of the numerous acts that have gone to convince the Kansas leaguers that Cleary is "cock of the walk" when it comes to the psychological moment stunt.

"No position is so trying," said Cleary recently, "as the duties of an umpire in a small league. Although I have never handled an indicator in what the sporting writers would term 'fast company,' I believe it would be dead easy to the game I am up against down here."

Needs No Legislation.

"Legislate the spitball out?" asked Manager Fred Lake of the Boston Americans. "What's the use? The Americans are putting it out of business themselves. Where there were thirty spitball pitchers a year ago there are scarcely ten today. A lot of them bluff about it, but the real 'spitters' they throw are few and far between."

"Cy Morgan would be with us today if he had only consented to pass up the spitter. He refused, though, and became so wild that we finally traded him to Philadelphia. Now, I understand, he has practically stopped using the spitter and depends upon his curve ball, and I want to tell you that no pitcher in the league has a better curve ball than Morgan. A few years from now few pitchers will bother with the spitball at all."

MATRIMONIAL

The marriage of Mr. George Emile French and Miss Bernice Mary Walker took place yesterday at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. S. A. Walker, 105 Chestnut street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Selwyn W. Cunniff, pastor of the First Baptist church, in the presence of only immediate relatives and friends of the bridegroom and bride. The double ring service was used.

At 3 o'clock Miss Blanche E. Martin played the "Tobin" bridal chorus. The ceremony took place in a room of potted plants and autumnal flowers. The couple were unattended. The bride wore a dress of white Lanesdowne with Spanish lace and medallions. She carried bride roses.

A wedding dinner was served to the assembled by Dr. L. Page C. Mr. and Mrs. French received many handsome gifts in silver, cut glass, china and linen. Shortly after 4 o'clock they left the city in an automobile, with showers of confetti pouring down on them. Their destination was Boston. From there they will go to New York and Washington. They will be at home at 105 Chestnut street after Oct. 1st.

STAIR BRUSH

For people who are particular about the carnish and paint on stairs and banisters, this is a most excellent brush. As will be seen from the cut the bristles curve at the head of the brush, making it more convenient to get into crevices and mouldings. Birch wood handle, finished in cherry.

FARMERS ARMED

To Meet the Kentucky Riders

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 16.—Fearing that attempts would be made to burn their homes, farmers living between Lexington and Covington were last night armed and guarding their premises. Bloodhounds in charge of Captain V. G. Mulliken, of this city, are on the trail of the "Fire Riders," who last night set fire to the fine country home of John Ransler, a rich farmer. Ransler and his family escaped from the burning house with difficulty, as the flames had been set in a dozen different places.

Mrs. Edith McAvoy, a widow, whose farm is adjacent to the Ransler home, found a notice pinned on her front door which read:

"Warning—Prepare in five days to take what you get unless you leave this vicinity."

Beneath this inscription was a crude drawing of a man with a gun. Notices in the same handwriting were pinned on the homes of two other neighbors of the Ranslers. The lettering apparently had been done with an old brush and shoe blacking. An attempt was made during the night to burn the school house nearby.

As a result of this outbreak the tobacco growers fear the "Night Riders" are preparing to resume operations.

THE ANNUAL FAIR

Of Middlesex North is Proving a Great Success

The annual fair of the Middlesex Agricultural society which is being held at Chelmsford Center is attracting large attendances.

The first day yesterday, the first day of the fair was quite successful and as was stated in The Sun, last evening, a very pretty feature was the driving contest on the highway in front of the town hall.

The judges were D. Hartford, Robert Mulino and B. F. Perry. The winners in the several classes were: Gents' driving horse: B. W. Johnson, Lowell, first; Ralph P. Adams, Chelmsford, second; Levi W. Howard, Chelmsford, third, $1.

Farmers' matched pair: Charles O. Robbins, first; Dr. J. H. Sparks, Lowell, first; A. B. Humphrey, Lowell, second; George L. Hutton, East Chelmsford, third.

Ladies' driving team: Mrs. A. E. Sperry, Tewksbury, first; L. M. Upton, North Chelmsford, second; Florence A. Akey, Lowell, third, $1.

Family wagon, single horse: Joel L. Phelps, Tewksbury, first; $3. Stallion, best single horse: Wm. Clinton, Chelmsford, first; $3. A. Gladly, Lowell, second, $2.

The bean contest for children was a very interesting feature. Last spring Supt. Chase distributed among 200 school children in Draught, Tewksbury, and North Reading, beans for planting, 25 to each child. These were to be grown and harvested, and the result exhibited at the fair, $5 being awarded to the school making the best show, $1 to the child in each town having the largest number of beans, and so on, with other prizes.

When the judges got around to issue the awards on the bean contest they found a supply that would last Boston for at least one week.

Against Continuance of Old Tannery in Howe St.

Property Owners Loud in Their Protests Against the Foul Odors—Petitions in Circulation to the Board of Health Which Has Jurisdiction in the Matter—Property Owners Tell of the Damage to Their Property

The American Hide and Leather company is removing the hides from the ruins of its Howe street building preparatory to tearing down the old building and constructing a new one for the purpose of continuing its tanning at that place.

But before the company continues its tanning in Howe street the public will have something to say in the matter, while the proper health authorities, either local or state, will have previously gone on record as deciding that the place is not a nuisance, a decision which none believes they will ever make.

A meeting of the board of health to which Dr. Simpson, the state health inspector of factories of this district, has been invited, has been called for tomorrow afternoon when the tannery matter will be discussed.

Before that meeting is held there will be filed with the board of health two or more formidable petitions from property owners and tenants in lower Belvidere, praying that they be heard in remonstrance to the continuance of the nuisance and in the event of a failure to receive satisfaction at the hands of the local authorities the aid of the state board of health will be sought through a petition.

Early this morning Mr. Harry W. Orin, a heavy taxpayer in the vicinity, residing in Nesmith street, started through the locality with a petition to the board of health for a discontinuance of the nuisance, and in an hour he had 12 signatures to his petition representing nearly $100,000 in tenement property in the immediate vicinity. Mr. Orin continued to page two.

FARMERS' DINNER

Was Big Feature of the Fair at Chelmsford Today

This, the second day of the Middlesex North Agricultural fair, in conjunction with the Chelmsford grange at Chelmsford Centre, opened auspiciously so far as weather conditions were concerned, and while the early morning crowd was hardly big enough to spell success, it swelled considerably before the noon hour, and when dinner was announced it was a case of set the tables three times. Just for that some came away with a good impression of the "farmers' dinner," while others will allow that it wasn't quite up to the standard. The first table "set" will say that it was all right, but the tail-enders are liable to spring the "never again" sign.

The police had little to do. A railroad line got into trouble through the little tool grip which carried at the railroad station. It was fashioned so ingeniously to contain a bomb and the police were told to examine it. It was found to be harmless but the line was closed for some time.

At 1.45 the president reached his hotel and retired for a moment's rest before taking the seat of honor at the Commercial club's luncheon.

This message is presumed here to mean that the Canadian government cruiser Arctic, Captain Bernier, of the schooner Jeanne, Captain Samuel Bartlett, has arrived at Indian Harbor, as otherwise there is no reasonable way to account for the receipt of this information on the Labrador coast.

BACK FROM QUEBEC

Lowell Police Officers Had to Return Without Feron

Deputy Supt. Redmond Welch and which had been sworn out in the Inspector Charles Laframme of the local police department, who went to the Province of Quebec to arrest Henri Feron, the alleged murderer of Mrs. East River, in this city several weeks ago, have returned to Lowell, and though they did not bring their prisoner back with them they know that the man they want is now locked up in jail in Quebec and that it will be a question of but a few weeks before he will be lodged in either the Lowell jail or the house of correction at Cambridge.

Deputy Welch is not very enthusiastic over the good time that he had, for he says that if a person calls it fun to ride hour after hour on a train, take a mile across country rides in the middle of the night and other similar things, he cannot agree with him.

When Deputy Welch and Inspector Laframme left Lowell they headed for St. Sebastien, P. Q., instead of Montreal, for they had a positive clue that their man was in St. Sebastien. After they had left Lowell Supt. Brown received a telegram from Montreal that Feron was located there and Patrolman Giroux was then detailed to go to Montreal and get the man and then report to the other officers.

When Deputy Welch reached St. Sebastien he was told that the warrant

TO STOP FIGHT VETS WILL WALK

Between Stanley Ketchell and Langford O'Leary and Selig on the Warpath

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Gov. Hughes stepped into the controversy over the proposed Ketchell-Langford bout today with a message directing District Attorney Jerome to enforce the state law against prize fighting. A telegram from Albany received at the district attorney's offices today reads as follows:

"In view of the reports made to him, Gov. Hughes directs me to request you to take proper steps to enforce within the county of New York, section 2710 of the penal laws, with regard to prize fighting. It is desired that the authorities should co-operate to compel obedience to the law and secure the apprehension and conviction of any person violating it."

"Robert R. Fuller."

Similar telegrams, it is understood, were sent to Sheriff Foley and Commissioner Baker.

The bout between Stanley Ketchell and Sam Langford is scheduled to occur at the Fairmont A. C. here tomorrow night, was declared off by the fact that the club has a permanent injunction restraining the police from entering its premises. He appealed to the district attorney who last night made public an opinion that the admission fee which the club proposed to charge brought the exhibition under the prohibition of the law.

The law provides that in such a case as this, if the authorities are convinced that it is the intention of a club to violate the law, the officials of the club may be arrested and taken before a magistrate and may be placed under bond to prevent such a violation.

For Boston Men Found Picking Pockets Here

Several Other Cases Disposed of—Larceny Case Tried and Put Over Pending Investigation

Martin McDonough and John McGlinchey, two young men, who claim Boston as their home, were arraigned before Judge Hadley in police court this morning on complaints charging them with the larceny of a pocketbook containing $2 and some small change, the property of Stewart C. Gulline. Through their counsel, J. Joseph Hennessy, pleas of not guilty were entered.

During the course of the testimony Israel Warshawsky, a junk dealer and peddler, who was a witness for the government testified that yesterday while he was out peddling a man who claimed to belong in Boston approached him and offered to give him $5 if he would not appear in court this morning to testify against the young men.

The alleged larceny was committed about four o'clock on the afternoon of Labor Day in School street near the Pawtucket bridge while thousands of people were returning from the automobile races.

The first witness called for the government was the complainant, Mr. Gulline, who testified that he and his family had been witnessing the races from a private house in Varnum avenue during the day and after the races were over he walked through Varnum avenue and over the Pawtucket bridge in order to get an electric car. There were several cars near the bridge and people were rushing for them.

As he boarded one of the cars Mr. McDonough got on his left and McGlinchey got on the right side of him. After he had been sitting in the car for a few moments he put his hand into the pocket where he carries his watch to learn if it were there. The watch was all right. He then placed his hand in his trouser pocket and found that his pocketbook was missing. He then grew suspicious of the young men who had been sitting on either side of him and who had left the car for no apparent reason.

He saw the two men walking through School street towards Pawtucket street and noticed that one was showing something to the other, but what it was that they were looking at he could not make out.

Mr. Gulline jumped off the car and grabbed McGlinchey by the collar and McGlinchey of robbing him. They denied the allegation and McDonough, breaking away from Mr. Gulline, started to run. McGlinchey following. The two young men cut through a spare lot near the Spaulding house, crossed through Pawtucket street, ran up Varnum street to West Bowery where McDonough was caught. McGlinchey was captured in Lombard street.

Israel Warshawsky testified that he saw McDonough place his hand in Mr. Gulline's pocket and saw him take a pocketbook. The witness was positive that McDonough was the man and knew that McGlinchey was also present. It was during the cross examination of this witness that he stated he had been offered $5 not to come into court and testify in the case.

Harry W. J. Howe, member of the board of charities, was driving through School street when he saw Mr. McGlinchey and the two young men in earnest conversation and later saw the young men run away. As a result of what Mr. Gulline told him he invited Mr. Gulline to enter his carriage and he gave chase to the two men. McDonough stopped in West Bowery street and Mr. Howe jumping from his carriage grabbed him and turned him over to Mr. Gulline and another man while he continued through School

Ordway will file his petition with the board of health today in order that it may come before the meeting tomorrow afternoon. Another petition was also started and was rapidly filled with names of the property owners and tenants in the vicinity.

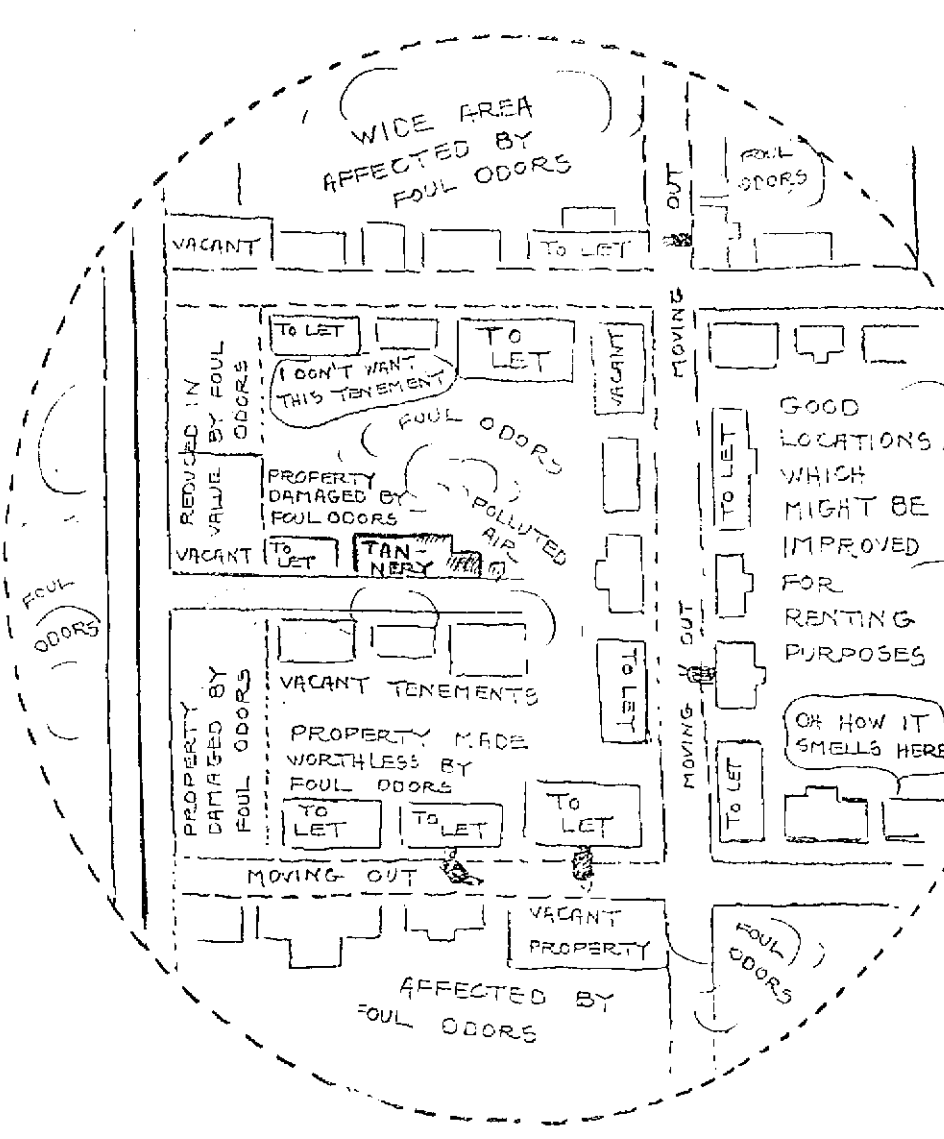

Here are the petitions:

Petitions Being Signed

To the Lowell Board of Health:

Gentlemen: We, the undersigned, owners or occupants of tenements and other real estate in the vicinity of the Howe street tannery of the American

UNLESS THE TANNERY NUISANCE IS ABATED ON HOWE STREET, CONDITIONS IN THE VICINITY MAY SOON BE AS REPRESENTED ABOVE

Hide and Leather company, hereby certify that the odors from the tannery have made residence in the vicinity almost unendurable, that it has injured real estate by rendering it undesirable either for tenement or business purposes, and that it has also prevented proprietors from improving old buildings or erecting new. We further assert that the foul odors from this tannery are injurious to the health of the people who reside in the vicinity.

Therefore, we appeal to your honorable body to relieve us from this intolerable nuisance, that we may enjoy the pure air that is our right and that as owners we may be permitted to improve our property or as tenants we may not be obliged to move to another locality.

And your petitioners would further represent that if this nuisance be removed real estate owners will at once begin to build new blocks and improve the old so that the taxable real estate in that locality will soon bring an increase in revenue to the city far greater than the amount of taxes paid by the American Hide and Leather company on its Howe street plant. Therefore, your petitioners in the interests of the public health, the interests of the property owners, tenants and business men, schools, the hospital and the churches in the vicinity, appeal to your honorable body for protection against this evil from the tannery.

The case was continued till Monday morning, in order that the defendant's reputation may be looked into.

Yeggmen Gave People From Window of Elevated Train Quite a Scare

SAYBROOK, Conn., Sept. 16.—A party of yeggmen made a dash down the west bank of the Connecticut river last night, cracking a safe in W. L. Prann's store at Cheshire where the proprietor was shot at three times and breaking two railroad stations at Hadley, Mass., Goudsboro, Dec. River, Essex and Cheshire. They averaged about $3 at each place, taking from ticket offices, the telephone pay booths and slot machines. The safe blowing gave them nothing as Mr. Prann having had many visits of the kind does not have valuables in the safe over night.

BENGAL TIGRESS

That Escaped From a Steamer Was Drowned

MARSEILLES, Sept. 15.—The hunt along the waterfront of Marseilles for the royal Bengal tigress that escaped from a steamer in the harbor on Tuesday came to a dramatic end today when the animal, mortally wounded and with blood streaming from her flanks, fled from her mob of pursuers and with enormous bounds gained the waterfront. Then as it still determined to foil her enemies she sprang into the sea and was drowned.

Further the hunt this morning the beast suddenly leaped out from its hiding place among the rocks and charged a group of workmen on one of the stone docks. The men fled. The animal then took refuge against a pile of merchandise. Her pursuers assembled and with the opening shot she was driven from this last shelter. As she ran she was on easy target for a hail of bullets, several of which carried mortal injuries. The body of the tigress was recovered later.

A STRONG GUARD

To be Furnished Famous Ty Cobb

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 16.—Rain may interfere with the opening game of the season in the important series between Detroit and the Philadelphia Americans, which lead the American league fight for the pennant. The weather is cloudy and rain is predicted. The two clubs have four scheduled games to play in four days and the series may go a long way toward deciding the contest for league supremacy. Philadelphia must win all four games from Detroit to tie the leaders for first place.

Cornie Mack, manager of the home team, announced that he will pitch Plunk this afternoon. Kauff tomorrow. Summers is scheduled to pitch the opening game for the visitors.

Because of the feeling stirred up over the spiking of Third Base manager Baker of the Philadelphia team at Detroit some weeks ago by Ty Cobb an extra force of policemen have been detailed to Shibe park to maintain order. As crowds are expected to gather in the park a strong police guard will be kept near Cobb in right field.

PREMIER KATSURA

TOKIO, Sept. 15.—Premier Juataro Katsura, in his speech before the Bankers' club, of this city, expressed the belief that the financial condition of the country was encouraging. He promised that for the ensuing year a sum considerably in excess of $25,000,000 would be devoted to the redemption of bonds.

He thanked the bankers for their support and asked for the confidence and continued unity of the people in the government's policy, aimed toward the upbuilding of the country through peaceful development.

The premier said that the foreign relations of Japan were universally good; the Anglo-Japanese alliance would be continued, based on the bulwark of firmest friendship.

He spoke of the warm relations between Japan and America, where the Japanese business men are now entertained so lavishly as the honored guests of a friendly nation.

Premier Katsura deprecated any fear of trouble between his country and China by declaring that all outstanding questions between them would be settled by an exchange of concessions which would contribute to the assurance of peace to the entire world.

Odor Still Exists

While work in the doomed building has ceased and the hides are being removed, the nauseating odor like "the vase in which roses have once been distilled" clings tenaciously to the neighborhood even as the scent of a skunk clings to the unfortunate dog who has been a rabid and the odor remains in evidence to the passer-by in East Merrimack street. The prevalence of this foul condition of the atmosphere has made it difficult for property owners to rent their tenements on a paying basis.

The fact that a new and modern building will be erected by the company, while it might modify the nuisance slightly will not eliminate it for it is not the building but the nature of the business itself that causes the nuisance. The hides and the ingredients used in their preparation is what causes the trouble and hence it would appear that the only way to rid the locality of the nuisance is to remove the business itself. It is common report in the vicinity that in the past the company has paid property owners rental for empty tenements which could not be rented on account of the odors in the vicinity.

Strike at Borden's Mills in Fall River is Ended

FALL RIVER, Sept. 16.—The first general strike in the history of the Fall River iron works cotton mills owned by M. C. D. Borden of New York was ended when the seven mills of the plant resumed operations after a shutdown of three days. The strike was inaugurated Monday morning when the 1000 workers of the mills did not report for work in accordance with their vote of the previous Friday. Two hours later the entire 1000 operatives were thrown out of work when the seven mills were closed down.

The strikers return to work on a compromise. They went out to enforce their demand for a ten per cent. increase in wages, but at a mass meeting yesterday half this amount was accepted. With the other 1000 operatives of the mills asked for no advance it was generally believed here today that the five per cent. increase allowed by Mr. Borden would be given them as well as the strikers, but this will not be known until the operatives are paid off the last of the week.

GOLF TOURNAMENT

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—A field which included practically all of the best professionals in the west and several eastern stars started in the western open golf championship tournament over the Sholex club course today.

The tournament is 72 holes, medal play and will last today and tomorrow, 36 holes being played each day. The work of George Sargent, the national champion, in the team match yesterday, has led local enthusiasts to believe that he has an excellent chance of annexing the title of western champion.

PRES. TAFT

TO SEE NEW YORK AND CHICAGO PLAY TODAY

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—With President Taft as a special guest, the New York and Chicago baseball clubs of the National League will play ball at the West Side park today with Christy Mathewson and "Jack" Pfeister pitching. With the nation's executive as the added attraction, everything indicates a record attendance when the struggle is set in motion at 3 o'clock.

Political and baseball chiefs, clubmen, bankers and plain, everyday "fans" will gather round to assist the president in watching the occasion. Announcement was made yesterday that every second seat had been taken but arrangements have been made for the accommodation of thousands of spectators in other parts of the immense park. Five hundred uniformed police, to say nothing of plainclothes men, will be on hand to maintain order and keep the crowd clear for the combatants.

President Taft, of the National League, President Johnson of the American League, August Herrmann, chairman of the national commission, and other baseball notables, will lend their presence to the occasion. Then there will be the musicians, forty-five leather-lunged artists, rounding out the general scheme.

The schedule completed by officers of the Hamilton club, which is to act as escort for the president, provides for a parade about the city following the arrival of Mr. Taft and at 3 o'clock the travelers will drive into the park. Three thousand seats in that portion of the stand back of the Chicago bench have been reserved for the club members and the president.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—One of the surprises of the Union Pacific election following the death of Edward H. Harriman was the placing of William Rockefeller on the executive committee.

A NEW DISEASE

Pellagra Troubles the Doctors in Tenn.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—So widespread has interest in the strange malady, pellagra, become among the medical authorities and others throughout the country, that Surgeon General Wyman of the public health and marine hospital service has decided to issue a weekly bulletin dealing exclusively with the developments of that disease.

This step has been decided upon as a result of requests from practically all the state boards of health, which are watching the progress of the disease, particularly in the south, with much concern.

The proposed report will show not only the prevalence of pellagra, but will indicate the distribution of the disease. The statistical data for the publication will be furnished by the medical authorities of the various states and territories. This information, it is believed, will be of great aid in determining the cause of pellagra and help materially in the efforts of the government to check its progress.

Dr. Wyman was greatly interested to learn of the action of the Tennessee state board of health in quarantining against the disease, it being held that the malady is communicable. While declining to go on record that pellagra is not communicable, Surgeon General Wyman declared that he had observed nothing in the disease that it is a contagious one.

The consensus of opinion among the medical authorities in Italy, where the disease has existed for a long time, Dr. Wyman said, is that it is non-contagious. This view also is entertained by C. H. Lavinier, assistant surgeon of the public health and marine hospital service, who is devoting his entire time to a study of the disease.

WORLD'S SERIES

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—The National commission met here today in the office of President Dan Johnson of the American League to discuss tentative schedules and plans for the world's championship series between the winners of the pennants in the National and American leagues. In making up the tentative schedules for the two series, four clubs were considered—Pittsburgh and Chicago in the National League and Detroit and Philadelphia in the American League. The schedules were drawn up by the right one only will be announced and that after the winner in each game is determined.

The question of a successor to President John A. Heydler of the National League in handling the world's series was also considered. When Harry Pulliam was president of the league, Heydler and Robert McRoy, secretary of the American League, took charge of the business details of the series. Secretary Charles C. Williams of the Chicago National club will probably succeed Heydler in that capacity.

COMMANDER PEARY

Planted Delta Kappa Epsilon Flag at the Pole

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity congratulates the discoverer of the pole, thanking him for the honor to its flag and offers "welcoming banquet any date you may select."

This message sent by cable and wireless to Robert E. Peary at Battle Harbor, Lab., resulted from Commander Peary's recent announcement that the ensign of his college fraternity was one of the flags he raised at the North pole. James A. Hawes, secretary of the society, who signed the message on behalf of the fraternity, said that shortly before Mr. Peary left for his last trip north he was tendered a banquet here by the New York association. At that occasion a small silk flag of the fraternity was presented to him and he promised to carry it on his expedition and sail it to the pole, just below the national standards if his quest proved successful. Mr. Hawes says that the discovered on all his expeditions carried the Delta Kappa Epsilon badge which he received when he joined the fraternity at Bowdoin college, Me.

PRES. SEELEE

NORTHAMPTON, Sept. 16.—President L. Clarke Seelee in welcoming to Smith college for the opening of the new college year the largest number of students in the history of the institution alluded to the fact that this was the last time he would officiate at this ceremony. On July 1 next President Seelee will retire from his service of 34 years and the president-elect, Rev. Dr. Marion J. Burton, will assume his duties. The enrollment of the four classes this year is about 1700, the freshman class numbering 499. President Seelee, in his address, said that the growth of the college had been so great that it had become necessary to limit the number in the entering class to 500 and an effort would be made to keep it down to 450.

During the summer a new library building costing $140,000 has been practically completed and work has been begun on a new assembly hall which will be erected at a cost of over $150,000 and which will be completed by the next commencement. Two of the college buildings have been moved to new sites and extensive grading has been done on the campus.

MARYLAND AMENDMENT WILL DISFRANCHISE MANY

BALTIMORE, Sept. 16.—An act was passed by a democratic legislature last year providing for the submission to the voters at the election next November of an amendment to the state constitution which it is admitted by leaders of the democratic party will have the effect of disfranchising a large number of negro voters.

It provides for ownership of property valued at not less than $500, or giving direct answers to questions in a formal examination. The amendment contains the so-called "grandfather clause" which will keep off the registration books the names of any negro who cannot comply with the property ownership or educational qualifications.

NIGHT EDITION

FURTHER DETAILS

Of His Trip to North Pole Given Out by Peary

BATTLE HARBOR, Lab., Sept. 16.—Via Marconi wireless to Cape Ray, N. P.—Commander Robert E. Peary, who today to talk further concerning his successful dash to the North pole. He dwelt particularly upon the observations taken at the apex of the world and the movements of Harry Whitney, the sportsman of New Haven, Conn., who has been described as the bearer of records substantiating Dr. Frederick A. Cook's claim to have reached the pole April 21, 1908.

"We took five observations prior to reaching the pole," Commander Peary said. "Two of them were made and worked out by the late Professor Marvin, who prepared duplicate records in each case and duly signed the duplicate certificates. To guard against accident I took one set of these papers and Prof. Marvin took the other.

"When at a distance of 125 miles from the pole the third observation was made by Captain Bartlett, who also signed the records and certificates in duplicate, he retaining one set and I the other. The fourth and fifth observations were made by myself, the last being taken five miles from the pole proper."

"Was there more than one observation taken at the pole and by whom the explorer was asked.

"There were several observations," he replied.

"And I took them all myself. They all agreed. You must understand that the pole is a theoretical point without length, breadth or thickness. Its actual location depends on the accuracy of the instruments employed and the conditions under which the observations are taken."

"You have stated, Commander Peary, that a copy of your records and polar observations was wrapped in a piece of a silk American flag and deposited in an ice cavity at the pole; did any person witness this act?"

"To this question Commander Peary refused to make any answer at present."

Continuing, Peary said that Dr. Cook was expected by the world to submit to an impartial tribunal or board of arbitration a revised and authentic signed statement of his alleged discovery of the pole. Dr. Cook soon would reach the United States, Commander Peary said, and he was glad at the prospect of the matter being submitted for consideration at an early date. It should be done inside of a couple of weeks and when it was done, the commander declared, he was prepared to turn over to the board of arbitration to the public and to scientific bodies an array of testimony which would disprove Dr. Cook's claims for all time.

The explorer said that he had stated in a private message to a friend that Dr. Cook had given the world a "gold brick." This message, he said, allowed to leak out and while he would have preferred a more elegant expression he was willing now to let these words stand because they are at least emphatic. The explorer said also that he would turn over to a competent tribunal and the public certificate copies of his own observations made on his trip to the pole with all other information bearing thereon. Peary does not care to exhibit these records at the present time for the reason that if the information contained therein is divulged in advance of the placing on file of Dr. Cook's authorized and

To be Made to Harbor Forts

When Children Set Fire to a Gasoline Wagon

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—Major Robert F. Rolfe, U. S. A., constructing army quartermaster in Boston, yesterday received orders from Washington to make ready for the erection of 15 new buildings for cost $150,000 at Fort Andrews and seven new buildings at Fort Strong, the estimated cost to be $75,000.

While nothing more definite was received from Washington the orders are considered indicative of a plan to change the headquarters of the artillery district of Boston from Fort Banks at Winthrop to Fort Andrews on Peabody Island.

The new structures at Fort Andrews will include one company barracks, one hand barracks, four captains' quarters, two lieutenants' quarters, four non-commissioned officers' quarters, one quartermaster's storehouse, one ordnance storehouse, one advance repair shop and one fire apparatus house. The officers' houses will be of brick and practically fireproof, while the storehouses, which will be of large size, may be built of wood. They now are building at Fort Andrews a company barracks, a gunhouse, four non-commissioned officers' quarters and one set of four officers' quarters. These improvements, including those about to be advertised for bids and which will be started this fall, will afford accommodations for two more companies, and the new company barracks, probably will be authorized later, so as to bring the total number of companies at the future headquarters up to six.

At Fort Strong, which is near Fort Andrews, and which undoubtedly is being strengthened because of this fact, the new buildings ordered are to be two non-commissioned officers' quarters, one quartermaster's storehouse, one ordnance storehouse, one signal corps storehouse, one commissary storehouse and one coal pocket. The guardhouse is to be enlarged also. They are now building at this fortification one double barracks, two non-commissioned officers' quarters, one fire quarters and one set of four officers' quarters. The improvements at Fort Strong will make it possible to double the strength of the two companies now stationed there.

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—On their last appearance here this season, Washington defeated Boston yesterday in a poor game, by a score of 7 to 4. Errors by French with men on bases were the principal cause of the team's loss. All three pitchers were hit hard, but Gray was the most effective in tight places. The score:

WON LAST GAME PRICE OF BEEF

Washington Left Boston Has Reached its Highest Point

That the price of meat in Lowell is at its highest cost for the year at the present time, is the declaration of leading men in this city who have followed the course of supply and demand with a keen sight for the future.

This is the season when all corn-fed cattle are bringing the highest prices in the markets, and the advance in the scale of prices announced in the past few weeks is believed to be the extreme high point of the year.

Talk of a shortage of cattle and the necessity of importing is not taken seriously, for it is known that the Argentine Republic and other large cattle raising countries in South America are casting covetous glances in the direction of North America for an output of the product of their immense and fertile grazing lands.

Should the prices in meat, controlled by the western packers and ranchmen, continue to soar, there is every reason to believe that the eastern wholesalers would sever their ties with the large packers and turn to the new field for their supply.

In the customary course of events, fatted cattle will begin to come into the markets by the first of October with a rush, and the reign of high prices will be over for another year. Should the prices remain at their high point after this time, it will be evidence according to the meat dealers, of a shortage of cattle, which will mean a continuous rise in price until foreign shipments could be received. The likelihood, however, of this extreme course is considered improbable in local circles.

MORE VIOLENCE

In Connection With the Strike at McKees Rocks

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 16.—Violence and disorder such as characterized the last trouble marked the new strike today at the plant of the Pressed Steel Car company, McKees Rocks. A large number of men were roughly handled, street cars were compelled to stop running between McKees Rocks and Schenckville and within a few hours after daylight everything was at a standstill. The strikers to the number of several thousand were stationed at the O'Donovan bridge and along Ninth avenue and George street, the scene of the fatal riot August 22.

The present strike had its inception yesterday when the foreign workmen quit their positions alleging that men imported during the last strike were being retained as hostages. The striking employees claim the company agreed to discharge the men.

Since the settlement of the strike a week ago, a majority of the foreigners have affiliated themselves with the Industrial Workers of the World. Leaders of this opposition say that men will return to work when assured that they will be given fair treatment.

WENT TO MONTREAL

"TOM" HOBAN AND GEORGE W. CASEY HAD FINE TRIP

Thomas F. Hoban, proprietor of the Lowell Inn, and George W. Casey, manager of that hostelry, returned to Lowell this morning after having spent a few days at Montreal taking in the old home week celebration in that city.

Mr. Hoban went to North Troy, Vt., for the purpose of inspecting some speedy horses, and after he had transacted his business made a little trip to Montreal.

Mr. Hoban says that the city is ablaze with hunting, flags and electric decorations and that there is something going on every minute of the day.

Among the attractions visited Tuesday at the parade of the fire brigade, inspection of the harbor, the races at Blue Bonnets, shooting matches, baseball game, while in the evening a grand fireworks display was taken in.

Yesterday was the civil holiday and the observance started off with a parade in the morning, followed by fireworks in the afternoon. In the afternoon there was a big canoe and swimming regatta at Dominion park and there was a fine list of sports carried out.

Tommy says that the people on the other side of the boundary line are "it" when it comes to entertaining in a royal manner.

TAYLOR'S GRAVE

Located in an East Baltimore Cemetery

The grave of Charles A. Taylor, the first to fall at Baltimore, has been located by General Edward F. Jones of Binghamton, N. Y., who in announcing his intention of attending the reunion of the old 23d Mass. regiment writes as follows:

I expect to attend the reunion of the 24th Massachusetts at Lowell on Saturday, the 18th, and am desirous of meeting as many of my old comrades and friends as possible.

It will be very gratifying to every old soldier of the Union army to learn that the grave of Charles A. Taylor, the first martyr who gave his life in defense of the Union, has been found in an old cemetery in East Baltimore, and that measures will be taken at an early date to transfer whatever remains there may be to Massachusetts. Meanwhile it is very desirable that all information possible be gathered relating to his death, which possibly might be found in letters written by his comrade at about the time of his death to their families at home. I would most respectfully ask survivors and families to look over their old letters to see if some notice of his death may not be contained therein.

This is really very desirable that the history of his death may be correctly written. Thanking you for the many courtesies extended to myself and surviving comrades, I am,

Very truly,
Edward F. Jones.

GIRL KIDNAPPED

JUST THE SAME AS WAS BOY NEIGHBOR

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Angelina Senna, the four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rocco Senna, who disappeared Monday morning, is still missing, and her parents have exhausted every means within their power to find her. Last night they heard of the disappearance in April of a neighbor's boy and came to the conclusion that Angelina was kidnapped.

The Senna family, poor and hard working vegetable dealers, who reside at No. 202 Elizabeth street, say no threatening letters have been received but the mother said yesterday that Monday morning Angelina was worried because she was too young to go to school. Her mother insisted that she remain at home and she answered that a man around the corner had often said he would let her do as she wished if she'd go to his home, and since she could not go to school she would tell him that.

Mrs. Senna thought no more of the matter until the child was missing when she returned home from a shopping tour.

The other child who disappeared similarly is Antonio Quattrone, six years old, of No. 9 Spring street. Several months ago he disappeared from his home, saying he was going to see a man near by who had told him he would take him to the country some time.

KILLED HIMSELF

New York Man Took a Dose of Poison

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—A rollicking party of young men and women, just in from Coney Island, left their automobile at the door of the Prince George hotel on E. Twenty-eighth street yesterday and rushed, laughing, into the restaurant. When the girls were seated the men went to the cafe.

A man of about sixty years sat at one of the tables, with glasses of whiskey and seltzer before him. The young fellows danced gayly about him, showering him with confetti. He took it in good part and smiled faintly.

"They're happy but I'm not," he said to George McKeever, the bartender, who stood near.

Then he drank the whiskey, and, taking a small bottle from his pocket, poured part of its contents into the glass of seltzer.

As he placed it to his lips, the merry-makers again swooped down upon him, throwing confetti and blinding colored paper ribbons all about him. He drained the glass, still smiling, and suddenly the revelers drew back. They hurried out, called the young women, and sped away in the automobiles.

The man in the cafe was dead. He was David W. Clark, until a few years ago a man of wealth and a prosperous manufacturer of varnish. Policeman Norton found this note in his pocket:

To the Coroner of New York: Have taken cyanide of potassium. Reason, business failure and total failure of health. Please notify my brother, Mr. A. M. Clark, Alder Creek, Oneida County, New York. If he is not at home address, he can be found at his home in Youngstown, Ohio.

Please have my body prepared for cremation. David W. Clark.

P. S.—Reference. Second National bank, Fifth avenue and Twenty-eighth street.

Mr. Clark had been living for the last four months in a suite at No. 117 E. Twenty-sixth street. He was well known at the Prince George.

SHARING PROFITS

PLAN HAS BEEN ADOPTED BY MRS. PELL

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Mrs. Mary Hutton Pell of New York and Newport, who obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce two years ago from Alexander Mercer Pell, and has been the manager since of the Bureau of Social Requirements, No. 6 East 43rd street, has taken up profit sharing ideas and is the first member of the B.S.R. to adopt them.

Her plan works so well, she said yesterday, that she thinks it will mean that in about one more year she will have enough money to give up active work. There are so many social demands for her time that she will welcome this change, she says, and will make only occasional visits to her headquarters.

From now on the heads of departments in her business are to get a certain per cent of what is made instead of salary. The plan has been in operation for several days and is bringing very good results, for the different branches have improved materially.

"There is such a demand among the wealthy for good employees," she said, in commenting on the work of the bureau, "that I find it very hard to attend to each detail of the work. We supply not only servants, but governesses and tutors as well, and so must meet many kinds of people. Then we have the entertainments and the furnishing of houses to attend to, and I have found that salaried employees, though very good, get better results when they become interested in the building up of the work, and this is why I adopt the 'partnership' method."

RAILROAD TAXATION

CONCORD, N. H., Sept. 16.—In reply to questions submitted to him by the state board of taxation on the subject of railroad taxation, Attorney General Edwin G. Eastman today informed the board that railroad property must be assessed for taxation at the same per cent of its actual value as other taxable property is assessed; that credits and guarantees under laws may be considered as evidence of the value of such taxed property but cannot be considered conclusive evidence; that all property owned by a railroad should be taxed as it would be taxed if owned by an individual; and that the board has no authority to employ experts to make a physical examination and appraisal of railroad and other corporation property but must do the work itself if it is done.

FREE FROM CHLERA

BAR HARBOR, Me., Sept. 16.—The minister from the Netherlands, Dr. J. J. Louden, who is sojourning here today, officially informed the government authorities at Washington that the city of Rotterdam is free from cholera. Cable reports early in September showed that some apprehension was aroused by the appearance of cholera cases aboard liners in the harbor of Rotterdam, but later cable advices have shown that the disease was promptly stamped out by the measures adopted by the authorities. The announcement made by the minister gives official assurance of the entire eradication of the disease from that port.

WANTS HER LETTER PUBLISHED

For Benefit of Women who Suffer from Female Ills

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I was a great sufferer from female troubles which caused a weakness and broken down condition of the system. I read so much of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other suffering women I felt sure it would help me, and must say it did help me wonderfully. My rains all left me. I grew stronger, and within three months I was a perfectly well woman."

"I want this letter made public to show the benefit women may derive from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. JOHN G. MORDAN, 215 Second St., North, Minneapolis, Minn.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials like the above prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made exclusively from roots and herbs.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

Residents of West Centerville are Kicking

The residents of West Centerville are finding fault with the delay over the equipping and opening of the fire house in that locality and the fire department committee on its tour of inspection this afternoon made its first stop at the new firehouse where it had a heart to heart talk with Inspector Shaw relative to getting the place in shape to turn over to the fire department. The members of the committee claim that the inspector was to have the building ready for use by this time but has not done so. The building itself is finished but the approach to it needs paving and other attention which has not been given it.

In regard to the equipment of the building the members of the committee state that the responsibility lies not with them but with the mayor, superintendent, and the date of the department, who have been holding back on the work of equipping the place. The committee on fire department intended to have the building in operation by November 1 but claim that this cannot be done as the new apparatus to be provided was not ordered in time.

Meanwhile the residents of West Centerville are strenuously finding fault.

An oil stove went out of commission in the tenement building owned by Joseph Fay at the corner of Adams and Salem streets this afternoon, causing an alarm from box 9. There was more excitement than damage.

WOMEN FOUGHT DUEL

Both of Them Are Dead as Result of the Quarrel

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Mrs. Julia Tripp and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Louis Silvers of New York are dead as the result of a pistol and knife duel between the two women in Mrs. Tripp's apartment in 50th street and Prairie avenue. There were ten bullet wounds and one cut on the body of Mrs. Tripp. Mrs. Silvers is suffering from a bullet wound in the chest and several knife slashes. Only one revolver was found in the apartments but eight empty shells and two cartridges were found, indicating that the revolver was emptied and reloaded during the struggle. The furnishings of the apartments were in disorder and in every room there was evidence of a desperate struggle. Mrs. Tripp was fully dressed but Mrs. Silvers was in her underclothing. Mrs. Silvers had been staying at the Tripp home for about a month and the two women were said to have had frequent quarrels, principally over the division of household duties. They had gone out at 1 o'clock in the afternoon and had returned shortly after. It had been Mrs. Silvers' custom to take a nap in the afternoon and it is evident she had prepared for this as usual. The almost simultaneous appearance of the women at different entrances to the apartment, each woman screaming for help and the fact that knife wounds were suffered by both led the police to advance the theory that there may have been a third person in the tragedy instead of its being simply a fight between the two women. The theory that one woman attempted to commit suicide and that the other tried to prevent it has also been advanced. One strange feature of the case is that no one heard any shots.

GRAY ARRESTED

Charged With Murder in First Degree

KINGSTON, N. Y., Sept. 15.—Aaron Cashdollar is dead, his brother James is in the hospital at Kingston with bullet wounds in his abdomen, which may prove fatal, and Harry Gray is in jail here, charged with murder in the first degree as the result of a shooting attack Tuesday night which marked the culmination of an old feud between the Cashdollar and Gray families. The families occupy adjoining properties along the Hudson river, and a feud started over the ownership of a plank. When Gray came home Tuesday night the Cashdollar dogs set their dog on him, it is alleged, and when he kicked the animal off a fight ensued. He shot to protect himself, he says, and then surrendered to the police.

KILLED BY GAS

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 15.—Married but a few days, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tetrault, registered at the Boston hotel, enjoyed but a brief honeymoon, the young husband being dead and Mrs. Tetrault dying as a result of gas poisoning in their room at a local hotel. Medical Examiner Jay Perkins stated his belief that the case was one of accident. A bellboy smelt gas coming from the couple's room yesterday. The door was forced and the two found in bed, the husband dead and the wife unconscious. One gas cock was which open. It is supposed that the gas was turned on accidentally when the electric lights, on the same fixture, were being turned off.

On Tuesday evening the young husband shyly asked the hotel clerk for a room. He stated that he and his wife had just been married. It is believed the ceremony took place in Boston, as the time of arrival here followed closely that of the arrival of the Boston train. Among the effects of Mr. and Mrs. Tetrault was a birth certificate which showed the husband to be but 19 years old, and papers indicating that the couple had come originally from Milton, Que. Mrs. Tetrault appears to be a few years older than her deceased husband.

At the Rhode Island hospital where the unconscious young woman was taken, it was said last night that her condition was serious.

WOMAN MAY DIE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 15.—Mrs. Arthur Tetrault, the young bride who is believed to be dying at the Rhode Island hospital from the effects of inhaling illuminating gas which caused the death of her husband yesterday, showed no signs of returning consciousness at a late hour this morning and her death was expected. Tetrault and his young wife came here on their honeymoon and yesterday morning the odor of gas led to the discovery of the husband dead with Mrs. Tetrault in an unconscious condition. The couple are believed to have been married in Boston.

WU TING FANG

HAS RETURNED FROM TRIP TO PERU

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Wu Ting Fang who has been recalled as the Chinese minister to this country reached New York last night on the Royal Mail packet liner Orelia from Colon. His return after a three months' visit in Peru, to which he was accredited as minister as well as to this country, Cuba and Mexico. This, however, is the first visit of a Chinese minister to Peru in ten years. Mr. Wu summed up his opinion of the Panama canal which he inspected on his trip, in the one word "wonderful."

"Colonel Goethals took me over the ground," he said, "and I had a splendid opportunity to see what is being done. The canal will be a great boon to the world. It will change trade conditions, so far as relations with the East are concerned, in a wonderful manner."

Concerning the North pole controversy, Mr. Wu made a particularly happy remark. When given some of the details of the Peary-Cook dispute, he listened very seriously and then with a look of bewilderment on his face, said:

"Each man is an American. 'Ah' with a shrug of the shoulders, 'then why should they quarrel?'"

PATHETIC STORY

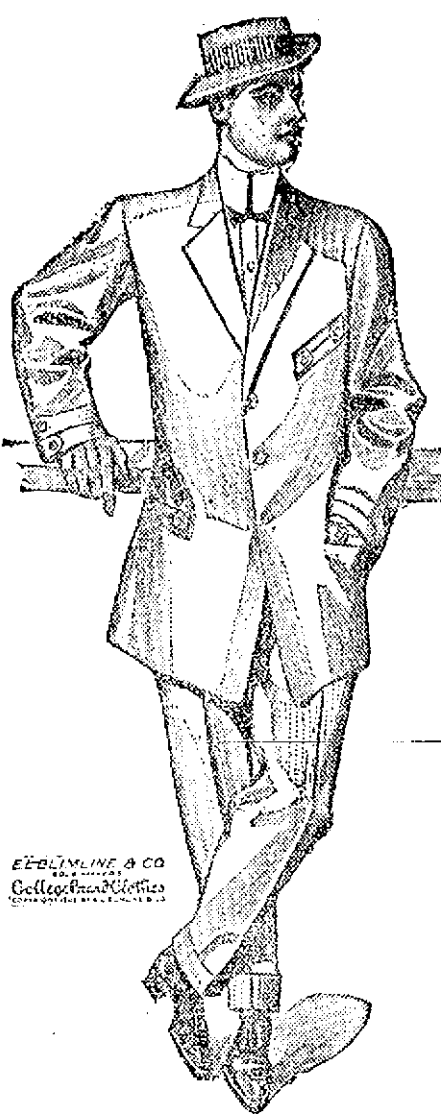

WOMAN STOLE BREAD FOR HER CHILDREN

BOSTON, Sept. 15.—When Mrs. Polly Lashen appeared before Judge Day in the municipal court yesterday on the charge of stealing bread, she told such a pathetic story of want that her case was promptly dismissed. Lashen, with her husband and five children live at 11 Poplar street. The husband and children who is a tailor, has been ill for some time and with no income the mother has found it impossible to supply food for the crying children.

She was finally tempted to steal some loaves of bread from the store of Patrick Swartz, but was caught in the act. The patrolman who made the arrest spoke for the woman in court and Mrs. Lashen, the probation officer, also asked for leniency.

The FALL MODELS

As shown at the Clothes Show,
are in town this week

Did you read or hear of the International Wearing Apparel Show held last month in Madison Square Garden, New York City?

It was a big show of men's wear—and the first of the kind ever held in the country.

Well, one of the greatest features of the show was the exhibit of College Brand Clothes, made by E. L. Blimline & Co., New York City. Among the many clever exhibits the College Brand outfit stood out like a North Pole discoverer.

And not for any freakishness of fabric or design—the best tendencies are toward saner lines in men's clothes—frills and furbelows are past history with the good makers—but for richness of fabrics and smartness of tailoring, College Brand Clothes stopped them all.

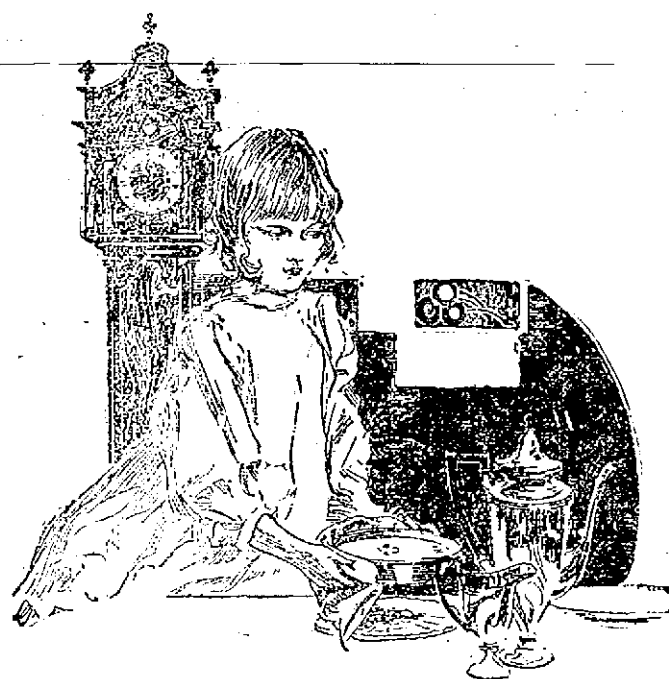

The Smart Clothes Shop was represented at the Clothes Show, and we thought the style lovers among the men of Lowell would like to see what we saw. We couldn't show them all we saw, but we arranged to give them the cream.

And so, this week is COLLEGE CLOTHES week at the SMART CLOTHES SHOP. Four models of Suits and six models of Winter Overcoats are displayed, and many different fabrics are shown in each model.

A few are shown in the windows, but don't hesitate to come inside if you're a clothes lover. There'll be no urging to buy, though with a couple of exceptions we will sell anything we show.

Take the College Brand course this week.

ERISSTOL, N. H., Sept. 15.—Society circles of Graton county are stirred, just as they were stirred seven years ago, when the wealthiest widow the county boasted married a blacksmith's son, by learning yesterday that she is seeking a divorce and that he is asking out a livelihood by pegging shoes.

Mrs. William J. Deaton, 37 years old, is the woman who has applied for a decree. She charges cruel and abusive treatment. She was formerly Mrs. Katherine Mason, widow of the head of the Mason-Perkins Paper company, and by her first husband's death in 1900 held the income of property valued at over $250,000.

Seven years ago, the present husband, Deaton, was pegging shoes in a local factory and pitching for the local baseball team.

He has gone back to his old employment, after a sheriff deeded him from the paternal home that the couple occupied on Main street.

Deaton, up to six weeks ago, had automobiles and every luxury. His wife seemed very proud of him and they were looked upon as a happy couple.

The storm broke when Deaton took his wife to a dance and she became the partner of another man. The couple left to call the fellow down publicly and his wife felt disgraced. After they got home it is alleged, that the quarrel was renewed and the wife alleges that her husband struck her. She left him to go on a vacation to the South, but came back with the same story and Deaton had to seek the street.

Deaton is 28 years old. This year his pining ability won the championship of Graton county for the local team.

The divorce case is to come up in 1910, and will be heard within a week or so, and former Senator Ira Chase will be asked to call the fellow down publicly and his wife felt disgraced. After they got home it is alleged, that the quarrel was renewed and the wife alleges that her husband struck her. She left him to go on a vacation to the South, but came back with the same story and Deaton had to seek the street.

KILLED BY FALL

MANCHESTER, N. H., Sept. 15.—Joseph Pratte, aged 73, fell three stories from the west end of 29 Amory street yesterday afternoon and died in a short time as a result of a fractured skull. He was the father of Mr. and Mrs. Donat Pratte, the father being employed by the street department.

SENATOR GRADY

NAMED AS HEAD OF THE EAGLES

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 15.—The nomination of grand officers was the principal business of yesterday's session of the National convention of the Fraternal Order of Eagles. Senator Thomas F. Grady of New York was unanimously nominated for grand worthy vice president.

Frank E. Herring, retiring vice president, succeeds to the office of president, by precedent.

THE POLICE

LOOKING FOR GIRL WHO MET FLORENCE WEBER

CANAL DOVER, O., Sept. 15.—Police are searching for an unidentified girl who met Miss Florence Weber, 29 years old, whose body was found in the Tuscarawas river yesterday, shortly after she left the home of her uncle, Samuel Weber, Monday night in response to a mysterious telephone message. Relatives say the message came from a woman Miss Weber is supposed to have met her death Monday night.

Until last night, relatives of the girl believed she left the vicinity of her uncle's home alone. Mrs. Catherine Keueleber, however, informed the police that she saw the girl meet soon after Miss Weber left the house. Mrs. Keueleber who is well acquainted here, says the girl Miss Weber met, was a stranger. She gave the police a good description of her.

Mrs. Keueleber told the police that she believes the Weber girl has been morose for many days.

The theory that Miss Weber committed suicide was strengthened last night when Coroner Remig reported that there were no bruises on the girl's body.

Miss Weber was employed here as a telephone operator.

ULTIMATUM TO BOLIVIA

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Sept. 15.—The rumor was current here yesterday that Peru had sent an ultimatum to Bolivia, demanding that the latter country should either accept or reject the recent arbitral award by Argentina with reference to the frontier dispute. This could not be confirmed but it is known that there are serious complications between the two countries. Peru has rejected Bolivia's latest propositions and the Peruvian minister has recommended the Peruvian merchants here to place their business interests in the hands of persons of another nationality and prepare for any emergency.

HEROISM OF A WIRELESS OPERATOR.

Telegraph operators have been proverbially heroic in emergencies that required the exercise of courage, in cases of fire or accident, but seldom has greater heroism been shown by any operator than by George E. Eccles of Seattle who went down with the Alaskan steamer, Ohio, after she struck a rock. His calls for help by the wireless appeal "C Q D" brought the steamers Kingfisher, Rupert City and Humboldt to the rock of Steep Point, Hiskish Narrows, British Columbia, and all but himself and four others were saved.

The Ohio went down in thirteen minutes after it struck, but all the passengers were taken off in boats, and it is said that Eccles remained at his post hammering away at the call for help, the name of the vessel and the location of the ship until the water was pouring in upon him. His last message indicates that he stuck to his instrument after everybody else had gone. As related by a wireless operator who was in communication with him at the last moment it read thus:

"Passengers all off and adrift in small boats, captain and crew going off in the last boat; waiting for me now—Good bye."

The operator who received that message tried in vain after that to get any answer from Eccles. He had gone down with the steamer as a result of staying too long at his post. His act of heroism was even greater than that of Jack Bians who by remaining at his post saved the Republic and her passengers without, however, sacrificing his own life. This was another instance in which the great value of the wireless as a life saver at sea was illustrated. It shows that the company that allows its vessels to go unequipped with the wireless is neglecting one of the greatest safeguards of human life that is known to science.

DRIVE OUT THE OLD TANNERY.

For many years past the people residing in the vicinity of the Howe street tannery of the American Hide and Leather Co. have been wishing that something would come to bring about its removal. They cared not whether it was a fire, an earthquake or some other calamity that would rid them of a nuisance which had become intolerable.

The property owners in the vicinity have protested that the foul odors emanating from the tannery had greatly reduced the value of their property, had affected the health of their families and made it almost impossible to get tenants to remain for any considerable length of time. Thus it has entailed a heavy financial loss to the owners of property in the vicinity.

Indeed, so intolerable are the conditions in the neighborhood of the tannery, especially in the summer time, that nobody can be found to occupy some of the tenements, while those that are occupied are let at a reduced rental far below what they would bring but for the foul odors from the tannery.

We understand that it is in the Howe street building that the hides are put through the first process of treatment preparatory to being converted into leather. It is the most malodorous part of the business and one that should not be tolerated in any thickly settled district.

The fact that the front part of the old building fell into the street late Tuesday afternoon has brought more forcibly to public attention the conditions that existed there. Fortunately nobody was killed, but the question now arises as to whether the American Hide and Leather Co. will be allowed to repair or rebuild the part of the structure that has fallen. Under the new building laws it is forbidden to build or rebuild any structure of wood within what is known as the fire district. No doubt the American Hide and Leather Co. will want to rebuild the part that has fallen and the company may ask the permission to remodel and rebuild the whole structure.

No such permission should be granted. This seems to be a favorable time to move the business outward where it will injure nobody either in his property or his health.

The sentiment of the people in that locality is strongly opposed to the continuance of the business that has been carried on there. They believe it should be taken to the outskirts of the city where it would not annoy any great number of people. They believe the business should long ago have been condemned as a public nuisance by the board of health, and in this we agree with them. Hence we are opposed to rebuilding any part of the structure and on the contrary we favor having the business driven out of that district and out of the city in the interests of public health to which it has been for years such a menace and detriment.

The board of health in our opinion has not done its duty to the public in having failed to condemn the Howe street tannery as a nuisance and a menace to public health. The nauseating odors emanating from the tannery have been the cause of complaint for many years. Even the people who have passed along East Merrimack street on the electric cars have often got such a strong whiff of the odor that they had to hold their noses. The odors have been particularly offensive in the hot weather; but even in cold weather they are too strong for the neighbors. How could it be otherwise where $250,000 worth of fresh hides are being treated?

The people in the vicinity have been patiently with the evil for years in spite of its serious character; but now they intend to make a combined effort to have it either abolished entirely or so situated that it will not damage property or injure the health of those who reside in the vicinity.

The best remedy is to have the factory vacated and the business driven where it will not be a public nuisance. It will not do to transfer the work done on Howe street to the Perry street factory. The residents in that section will not stand it. They have had occasion to complain of odors that seemed to come from the smoke of leather shavings, but that has been stopped of late and there has been little or no cause for complaint on account of bad odors from the Perry street factory. If the people intend to tolerate the smoke from leather shavings or from sawdust, they are not likely to tolerate a nuisance immeasurably worse. The work must be done somewhere and there are plenty of suitable places but a short distance outwards where houses are few and land is cheap.

The interests of the public, it seems to us, are paramount in this matter and should be so considered by the health board, the building department, the state inspectors and even by the American Hide and Leather Co.

SEEN AND HEARD

Yes, the fall is the sad season if you want to make it so.

Weren't you told that at about this time you would begin to wonder what you had done with your summer's wages?

The dog that stands by his master through the steaming process of a Turkish bath is a faithful brute.

I met a pair of big gray horses on the sidewalk in Merrimack street, yesterday. The horses were being used in the street work going on there and as the side of the street they were on was all torn up it was necessary for them to take to the sidewalk. They looked a bit out of place just the same.

Soon we will be commenting on the temporary passing of the open car.

Little Johnnie—I know what I would have done if I was Dr. Cook. His Mamma—What would you have done?

Little Johnnie—I have a hunch that he discovered the pole, and if I had him I would have brought a piece of the pole home with me. I guess that would make Perry look like a gaffer.

Perry and Cook will both bring up on the lecture platform.

A SUMMER EXPERIMENT

They rented a cottage together, the Joneses and Skaggs, and said: "Well, share in the rent and we'll split up the work and each one shall make his own bed."

"Well, be easy to do, and I'm sure we will find that housework will seem just like play."

So with this understanding they packed up their trunks and together they journeyed away.

At first things went smoothly, a week or two passed, then clouds in the distance appeared.

Mrs. Jones told her hubby, that mean Mrs. Skaggs used to sneeze when the table was cleared.

Though it wasn't her night to wipe dishes of course, she might have helped put them away.

As she always did when 'twas Mrs. Skaggs' turn, a fact she could truthfully say.

Then Mrs. Skaggs said she was sick of her job because Mrs. Jones seemed to think

She had nothing to do but look pretty while she shaved the summer away at the sink!

And Jones disliked Skaggs because he wouldn't clean his share of the fish that they caught.

And Skaggs had a notion that Jones wouldn't go for water the times that he ought.

Ere a month had gone by Mrs. Jones started in to tell Mrs. Skaggs a few things.

Now the Joneses and Skaggs are home once again, their vacation was from a treat.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Professor Percival Lowell has discovered oxygen in the atmosphere of Mars. This announcement comes almost on the moment of the confirmation of Dr. Lowell's declaration of last year of water vapor in the atmosphere of Mars. The original announcement was made a year ago at a conference of observations made some time before, while the confirmation is in consequence of a special expedition to the summit of Mt. Whitney made by Dr.

W. W. Campbell, director of Lick observatory. The first step in Dr. Lowell's process was to secure a site for his observatory of exceptional atmospheric conditions, and how successful the choice has been may be judged in part from the fact that it required observations from the summit of Mount Whitney, above the perpetual snow line, to corroborate the observatory results. The second point of attack was the good fortune of splendid manipulators of photographic plates, so that by the combination of skill on the part of the optician and of the photographer the measurable spectrum has been greatly extended. Thus the water vapor lines, which are at the extreme of the ordinary spectrum, or a little beyond, are brought into convenient view. Especial credit is given to Assistant astronomer, Mr. Sipher, for their portion of the work.

Dr. Lowell has been greatly pleased by the acquisition of Professor E. A. Very to the force of the observatory. Dr. Very, who was for a long time at Allegheny observatory and who, with Langley, made the famous investigations on which Langley's fame was based, has in the past year or two been at Lowell and has been a most valuable addition to the force. There is probably no one in the country more skilled in this particular kind of work, and Dr. Very is anxious to devote himself to the study of the complex of lines a portion of their story. A year ago it was water vapor that the lines gave for their most extended word; just now the word has been extended by new and more delicate devices to include hydrogen, and the distinct step in advance in the knowledge of the planet.

By the will of Col. Stephen M. Crosby of Boston several public trusts are made. The estate of $50,000 to the trustees of Dartmouth college, to be expended in the erection of the memorial building, the cornerstone of which was laid at the time of the Webster centennial, or, if the building is abandoned, then to such general uses as shall be determined by the trustees. The satisfaction of the testator for his alma mater and his desire to enlarge and increase its influence. He gives $5000 to the Mary Hitchcock Memorial hospital at Hanover, N. H., to endow a bed in memory of his father, Nathan Crosby, president of the college, and $2500 to the Mount Side hospital at Montclair, N. J. He gives $1000 to John McKinley, in appreciation of his long and faithful service, and to each of the maids in his house he gives $100.

It has just become known that James N. Jarvis of Montclair, N. J., on the occasion of his marriage recently to Miss Helen Newton, celebrated the event by giving $100,000 to educational interests and charities. He gave as a wedding gift to the Westminster Presbyterian church in Montclair, N. J., $25,000 to the Mountain Side hospital at Montclair, N. J., $25,000, and the German Theological school $25,000. Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis are now traveling abroad.

William J. Dawson, D. D., recently returned to this country from a three months' mission tour through England, Scotland and Wales, will on Sept. 26 occupy the pulpit of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church in New York.

EXPORT TRADE

SHOWED A GREAT INCREASE IN RECENT YEARS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Twelve billion dollars' worth of manufactures have been exported from the United States in the last 120 years, 5 billions, or two-thirds, of this enormous total within the last 20 years, and 6 billions, or one-half, in the last 11 years.

This is the summarization of a statement just prepared by the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor. The first years' record of the foreign commerce of the United States under the present form of government covers, of course, the fiscal year 1909 completes 120 years of commerce. The bureau of statistics has just completed its record of the commerce of the fiscal year 1909, and, combining it with the accumulated records of foreign commerce since 1789, has come to date, find that the total exports of domestic merchandise of all kinds during the 120 years have aggregated 46 billion dollars, of which 12 billions, or 26 per cent., were manufactures; that more than one-half of this enormous total of 12 billion dollars went out of the country during the 11 years ending with 1909, and that two-thirds of the total went out during the 20 years ending with 1909. In other words, the value of the manufactures exported since 1898 is as great as all that exported in the 109 years prior to that date, while the total for the last 20 years is twice as great as the total of the immediately preceding 109 years.

The share which manufactures form of our exports has steadily advanced as the years have passed. In the decade 1790-1799 manufactures formed 4.5 per cent. of the domestic merchandise exported; in the decade ended with 1819, 6.5 per cent.; in the decade ended with 1829, 8.4 per cent.; in the decade ended with 1839, 10.5 per cent.; in the decade ended with 1849, 20.3 per cent.; in the decade ended with 1859, 25.3 per cent.; and in the decade ended with 1909, 37.5 per cent. The share which manufactures form of the total exports thus steadily advanced.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

In David Belasco's "Girl of the Golden West," which comes to the Opera House tonight, Mr. Belasco is said to have succeeded in shaping a beautiful artistic picture from a rough story of life in California in the days of the gold fever. Here the rough crowd gathers to dance, drink and gamble, but all respect the girl. The stranger, a road agent, comes to the saloon to rob it. He had met the girl on the road to Monterey and both had fallen in love. Their second meeting is at the saloon and the spark fires into a flame.

DAVID BELASCO

She invites him to her cabin, where they have supper. The storm compels him to stay there for the night. While he is hidden away behind the curtains of the bed, the sheriff's men enter and tell the girl that the stranger is the road agent they are after. After the posse is gone she orders the stranger out into the storm. He returns, wounded by the sheriff, who follows. The stranger is hidden in a loft. His blood betrays him. The sheriff plays the riddle game of poker, the stake being whether she shall marry him or shall have the life of the road agent. The sheriff wins, but she draws a hand from her stocking and wins out. These are some of the strong features of "The Girl of the Golden West."

THE WORLD AND A WOMAN

"The World and a Woman" will be presented at the Opera House, Sept. 17 and 18. This play is a society "problem play" of present day American life; but unlike so many of those so called problem plays which have been produced during the past two seasons, "The World and a Woman" is said to have in addition to a wealth of bright dialogue and apt sayings a foundation of the most intense heart interest and reality. In a word, this play not only appeals to one's intellect and powers of reason, but it goes farther and deeper than that to the root of all real sensation—the heart.

DEADWOOD DICK'S LAST SHOT

An original and up to date western melodrama in "Deadwood Dick's Last Shot" by Owen Davis, which will be seen at the Opera House Sept. 20 and 21. It is a tale of the lowlands, valleys and canyons of the Golden West.

LOUIS MANN

Seats for the Louis Mann engagement in "The Man Who Stood Still" at the Opera House on Sept. 22 will be ready Saturday. Mr. Mann has just concluded a very successful engagement at the Tremont theatre, Boston. The play comes here direct from Boston.

"A BROKEN IDOL"

There will be plenty of lively fun, catchy music, pretty girls and all those other essential necessities which go to make success in musical comedy at the Opera House on Sept. 25, when "A Broken Idol," with the original company headed by Otis Harlan, will be the attraction. This production is said to be one containing many innovations and distinct surprises.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

Gus Edwards, who has turned out many songs which have netted him much good cash in the past, for years is author of the celebrated Washington comic opera called "School Boys and Girls," which is headlined at Hathaway's theatre, this week. The songs are all by him, several of them very wonderful horsemen, the show is one that pleases from start to finish. The terrible Ramin, a little more very impressive in appearance, but without doubt the most serious means in the horse kingdom today, is the fun maker of the show.

Barnie has a pair of well trained heels, also a set of teeth that make a deep impression occasionally, and so skilled is he in the use of these weapons, that the show people give 25 to 30 cents for a ride on Barnie's back 20 seconds. Other horses that perform are Clifton Boy, the bucking broncho; Major McKinley, the champion hurdler; Cupid, the dancing horse. Rand concerts, afternoon and evening, contribute to make the show interesting. Admission is free.

gusto by the four boys and five girls, Lillian Guba, the comedienne of the show, is very funny. Abe Frank and Frank Alvin help on the humorous side and a little while the Gordon brothers also were with Eddie Leonard's masterful, sing and dance "By the Silvery Moon." The baseball game near the close of the act is a sure fire hit, with the nine boys and girls officiating as pitchers and catchers and the audience as the outfielders. The whole act is decidedly catchy.

Leon Barry in the travesty on "Nick Carter" of dime novel fame, purveys a first class sketch and one replete with amusing lines, characteristic of the thousand and one hot stories which have excited messenger boys and others for many years past. Mr. Barry is well supported. Other good acts on the bill are Parsley, instrumentalist; Thos. Jones, in acrobatic Riskey act; Hilda Hawthorne, singer and ventriloquist; Hashimoto, water juggler and Rockway and Conway, singers and repositors. Motion pictures close the performances.

The above listed galaxy of acts will be given every afternoon and evening during the remainder of the week, with special seats for women at the matinees.

STAR THEATRE

The most eminent playwrights and the world's best actors are rapidly forsaking the big theatrical productions to command large salaries from moving picture film manufacturers to stage and enact the classic dramas and refined comedies. Film manufacturers can afford to pay the world's best actors to present a piece because from one presentation several films can be made.

At the Star theatre, the admission to see these high class pieces in motion pictures is five cents and includes a seat. A new talking picture and two new illustrated songs were the features of today's offering. New pictures tomorrow.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

Some class to that "Amateur show" was the verdict of the audience at the Academy of Music last night. The acts were all so far above the average that it was almost impossible to pick the winners. The first prize was won by a little girl, Evelyn Sawyer, with a sweet voice, that charmed her audience. Geo. Martin took second with a difficult bull dance. Randolph Daugnault was another favorite for third prize, in a recitation. Today, Thursday, brings the entire change of vaudeville and moving pictures. Heading the program is "Boltrah and Boltrah in the Musical Dairy." This act alone is worth the price of admission. Roach and Hart appear in a character sketch, "Absurdity," and Miss Claudia Desette in illustrated songs. Travellers of the City of Lawrence and three reels of the latest moving pictures are shown.

KITTREDGE, LAKEVIEW, THURSDAY AND SATURDAY.

THEATRE VOYONS

The Theatre Voyons is always on the lookout for novelties, and today it shows one that is very timely and interesting. The first picture shows walrus hunting in the Arctic, the same region in which Cook and Peary had many adventures and about which there is so much talk. Following it in way of a contrast, leopard hunting in Java will be shown. This jump from the frozen north to the Indian ocean is a long one, and the contrast is most remarkable. There are several other subjects, dramatic and comedy, on the bill, and the usual novel and up-to-date illustrated songs.

NOT KILLED BY BLOWS

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 15.—Dilation of the heart, and not blows, was the cause of the death of Frank Leonard of Scarborough, according to the report of the coroner's jury last yesterday. Leonard died at a suburban casino Friday night and his companion, Robert Lawson of South Portland, was later arrested, charged with manslaughter, it being alleged that during the course of a quarrel with Leonard, Lawson struck the blow that caused Leonard's death. Lawson is now being held for the grand jury which will report for the regular term of the court today.

SUPREME COURT

Decides in Favor of Old Dominion Copper Company

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—Late yesterday afternoon the full bench of the supreme judicial court, by a decision of 4 to 2, sent down a majority opinion sustaining a decree in favor of the Old Dominion Copper Mining and Smelting Company against Albert S. Bigelow.

The majority opinion was written by Judge Rugg, and Justices Loring, Bradley and Sheldon concurred. The dissenters are Chief Justice Knowlton and Associate Justices Hammond and Norton. The case will now be taken to the supreme court of the United States.

Leonard Lewisohn and Bigelow were jointly interested in the sale of the Old Dominion Copper Mining and Smelting Company. At the time of the sale the rights of the Baltimore company were worth $1,000,000, and its real estate worth $500,000. The price paid to Lewisohn and Bigelow was $2,500,000 for rights and $150,000 for land.

The Old Dominion Copper Mining and Smelting Company claiming that the transaction was fraudulent, brought suits against Lewisohn and Bigelow to recover damages or to have the sale rescinded. As service could not be made on Bigelow when the case was entered in the federal court of New York against Lewisohn, an independent action was begun in the supreme court of Massachusetts.

While the case against Lewisohn was pending in the supreme court of the United States, to which it had been taken by the plaintiff company on an appeal from the circuit court of New York sustaining the demand of Lewisohn, the Massachusetts action against Bigelow was heard by Judge Sheldon, who entered a decree ordering Bigelow

At East Wakefield Destroyed by Fire

EAST WAKEFIELD, N. H., Sept. 16.—Five buildings in the central part of this town were destroyed by fire at an early hour today. They were the Boston & Maine railroad station, the Davis house, a summer hotel owned by W. L. Whiting with a stable, a dwelling house occupied by John Harmon and the large livery stable of Glidden brothers. All were moderately sized frame buildings and the loss is not expected to exceed $15,000. The guests of the Davis house and the members of Mr. Whiting's family all escaped without injury although without personal belongings. About eight horses were burned in the stable, but the horses in the delivery stable were taken out before the fire reached the building.

"SANDY" FERGUSON WAS KNOCKED OUT BY A FISH-ERMAN YESTERDAY

GLoucester, Sept. 16.—"Sandy" Ferguson, the Chelsea "strong boy" pugilist, one-time fisherman and possessor of numerous other titles, blew into Gloucester and during the afternoon became possessed of a desire to start something, but the skirmish ended in less than a round, in which Ferguson received a knockout.

The rather usual tranquility of the upper end of Duncan street was suddenly broken about 4 o'clock, when the invincible "Sandy" and a companion walked down the street and bid up two fishermen nearly opposite the Gloucester fishermen's institute.

Just what was said or how the trouble started could not be ascertained, although eye witnesses of the affair allege that "Sandy" and his companion "got a little too fresh," as they put it, and in an instant one of the fishermen, a little fellow, not over 5 ft. 3 in. in length, it is said, landed on "Sandy's" jaw with his right with such a force that it put the ample six-footer away for a few seconds.

getting into the fray also, and the brawny fisherman let his left fall on him, which put a quietus to the belligerent pair.

CHAS. J. GLIDDEN GRANTED DECREE

Made Another Balloon Trip From Fitchburg

SOUTH LYNDENBORO, N. H., Sept. 16.—Hovering over a sea of clouds 1500 feet deep, in which denser clouds floated like herds in an Arctic sea, 6100 feet above the earth, Charles J. Glidden, the balloon pilot of Boston, and P. Chester Thompson, a civil engineer of Salt Lake City, made a balloon trip from Fitchburg to this town, an air line distance of 22 miles.

The start was made from Fitchburg at 2:30 p.m. and there being a little wind, the ascent was gradual. The first set of clouds were met at 2500 feet and were found to be 1000 feet deep. A sudden change in temperature sent the balloon down over the village of Baldwinsville. Shortly after the balloon again ascended and this time the clouds were found higher up, at 4200 feet, being fully 1500 feet in thickness.

After passing through the clouds the balloon reached an equilibrium at 5400 feet, and for half an hour floated in the sea of mist. The earth was completely shut out.

The balloon, which was the Boston, landed at 8:01 on the farm of Harry J. Richardson, who conveyed the aeronauts to Wilton, where they remained last night. Mr. Glidden stated the balloon had travelled fully 50 miles during the afternoon before reaching South Lyndeboro.

Yesterday's ascension marked the second anniversary of Mr. Glidden's first ascension and his 30th balloon journey.

WOMAN SAYS HUSBAND KICKED HER

LAWRENCE, Sept. 16.—Judge Harry R. Dow, in the probate court yesterday, issued a decree for separate support in the case of Lillian E. Weeks vs. James Weeks, both of North Andover. Mrs. Weeks is to have custody of a child.

Mrs. Alexander Lindenhoven of Haverhill, in a suit for separate maintenance, testified that her husband's abuse of her consisted in kicking her while she was asleep in bed, also that he ran the blade of a saw across her neck, and at another time split her hand with a stick. She added that he would not allow her to sing in the house. She admitted throwing a chair and teapot at her husband, but claimed it was in self defence. Judge Dow issued a decree, ordering the husband to pay $30 forthwith to his wife and $4 per week.

BURGLAR SCARED

WHEN HE HEARD WOMAN CALL FOR GUN

ONSET BAY, Sept. 16.—Mrs. Chas. S. Sprague of Boston and Miss Sprague were alone in their bungalow on Fifth street, Shell Point, when at 2 o'clock in the morning they were awakened both, coming from the direction of the kitchen. Mrs. Sprague had no firearms in the house, but her first thought, she says, was of burglars, and she shouted: "Give me the gun, Jack!"

"Jack" was cool, too, for she said: "Don't point the gun this way."

The burglar jumped to the side door out of the kitchen, unlocked it, and jumped over the rail and ran away through the trees. The two women could see him, and the marks of his shoes, deep in the dirt, remained to corroborate the story.

When the burglar had gone the women's shrieks aroused the cottagers in the neighborhood, and J. H. Hiner, next door, insisted upon both women coming to his house for the rest of the night. The burglar got nothing.

GETS FOUR YEARS

FOR SWEARING FALSELY OF BRIDE'S AGE

RAYTOWN, Sept. 16.—For swearing falsely to the age of his sweetheart to get a marriage license, William Moore was sentenced to four years in the penitentiary by Judge William H. Forsyth, Jr., at Elliott City. Md. Moore obtained a license to marry Elizabeth Saylor of this city, representing that she was 18 years old, when in fact she was scarcely 15.

The pair were married August 2 and later went to the home of the girl's mother. The latter, instead of receiving the youthful couple with a parental blessing, had the bridegroom arrested. His trial and conviction followed. The bride's mother is endeavoring to have the marriage annulled.

HOLY NAME

ST. PETER'S SOCIETY TO RESUME MEETINGS TONIGHT

St. Peter's Holy Name society, as known as one of the largest and most progressive in the city, will resume activities tonight when a business meeting will be held in the Fair hall at which time several matters of importance will be discussed. The last meeting was held in June and since that time the members have at times discussed many plans for the benefit of the society which may be suggested at tonight's session. It is probable that arrangements for the construction of a new society in October will be discussed at the session tonight. There has also been a growing sentiment that the society should no longer be held in the Fair hall, more so than in recent years. Now the time has arrived when a ministerial show and other features are under consideration by the members. Pres. Wm. M. Daly will preside at tonight's meeting and it is quite likely that Rev. Daniel J. Kelleher, Ph. D., the new pastor of St. Peter's, and Rev. John Burns, spiritual director, will be present.

NEWS FROM SPORTING AND THEATRICAL CIRCLES

By TOMMY CLARKE.

NOW that the important lawn tennis tournaments, east, west, north and south, have been decided the widders of the racket are focusing their eyes on the coming Davis cup ties to be held on the Germantown cricket grounds, Philadelphia, Sept. 11 and 15. The matches are for the purpose of seeing which players are better fitted to go to Australia in an endeavor to bring back the international challenge cup.

When it was first announced that England would send A. W. Gore, the present champion; M. J. Ritchie, former holder of the title, and J. C. Parke, Ireland's premier tennis crack, it was figured that the Americans would have their hands full trying to defeat the trio. But the recent change in the makeup of the team has caused considerable disappointment in this country. The two men who appeared to lend strength to the visiting delegation, Gore and Ritchie, having announced their inability to make the trip. Americans were anxious to see Gore on the courts, for he has been the title holder in Great Britain during the past two years and is considered the best player in Europe today.

As at present constituted, the Brits are represented by James C. Parke, the Irish champion, who played in this country last year; W. C. Crawley, and C. P. Dixon. The latter two are unknown on this side and, according to the schedule for the year is as follows:

PITCHER CY YOUNG 2d.

Young Cy Young, the star pitcher of the Minneapolis team of the American association this season, is to have another trial in fast company. Young was formerly a member of the Boston and Pittsburg teams of the National league, but owing to lack of control he was sent to the minors. The change seems to have done him a world of good. Since the start this season he has twirled grand ball for Minneapolis. President Comiskey of the Chicago Americans has signed him to pitch for the White Sox next season.

ing to their records this year in English tours, do not appear to be dangerous. Both have suffered several defeats.

Parke, the Irish champion, proved a disappointment in America last year. He was dashing and erratic, but since then he has sobered down a lot. His service in particular shows increased certainty, while his speed in the court has also to be reckoned with. Parke was so anxious to play in America again that he replied to his invitation by return of post. He wants his revenge on the men who beat him. He is one of the finest rugby footballers in the British Isles and has played for Ireland against England, Scotland and Wales.

As the team now lines up, the United States should experience no trouble in winning the elimination tourney, in spite of the fact that tennis this year is in a rather chaotic state as to the ranking players. It is likely that William J. Clothier and William Larned will play the Englishmen in the singles and that Hackett and Alexander will again take care of the doubles.

It is hardly likely, however, that if the Americans win any of them will go to Australia from present indications excepting possibly Clothier. Larned, Hackett and Alexander have all said they cannot make the long journey owing to business engagements. It means at least three months of the winter season. With any other representatives this country would stand but little chance against the Australians.

In the negotiations made with England this country agreed to send a strong combination to Australia before securing the elimination struggle. It behooves the Davis cup committee, therefore, to get busy or there may be a howl from the Englishmen in case we win against them and do not send the topnotchers.

Football Schedules for 1930.

Schedules always furnish interesting reading for the fans. The latest bring up the picture of the coming sport, and so it is interesting to look over the fixtures for the football season of 1930. The year will start the second week in September. Carlisle, as usual, will be one of the contesting elements in the opening game of the year. The red men are down to play the East End Athletic club of St. John, Sept. 18. The first real college game will be played until the following Saturday. The big universities do not start play until October.

This season Yale visits Harvard at Princeton plays at New Haven. Of course the army and navy will meet in Philadelphia in the final game of the year, Thanksgiving day. Cornell and Pennsylvania will clash on Frank-

"A Broken Idol" and Other Plays of the New Season

(From Our New York Dramatic Correspondent.)

A BROKEN IDOL" at the Herald Square theater, an immigrant into the metropolis from Chicago, is a fairly attractive production. The play, a musical comedy, is by Hal Stephens, Harry Williams and Egbert Van Alstyne. Several of the songs were well recan, and David Andrada, appeared as Lord Dunby, the Englishman, while Carrie E. Perkins was Mrs. Lucretia Muddford, the ambitious aunt. One of the features of the play is a balloon ascension over the heads of the audience, and another is the appearance of Laura Guerite in the character of Mlle. A New Minstrel Show.

The Cohan & Harris minstrels have opened the New York theater with a new and breezy production. George Evans, the "Honey Boy," appeared in a characteristic "black face" role and received hearty applause.

The performance closed with "The Firemen's Picnic," a George M. Cohan sketch, which provoked an immense amount of laughter at some immensely broad humor.

"Dollar Mark" Pleases.

A large audience witnessed and frequently applauded the first performance of George Broadhurst's play, "The Dollar Mark," at Wallack's theater very recently. The cast includes Robert Warwick, Cuyler Hastings, Clay Clement, Hassard Short, George Backus, Pauline Fredericks, Selena Johnson, Diva Marolda and Brinsley near east, included a sword play dance to national airs, which found great favor in the eyes of the audience. There was a negro woman with an irreproachable figure, Arthur Alexander by name, who made a great deal of fun by sweeping off his wig and all to bow thanks to a certain call. Joe Bonanno, in a huge baker's suit of white duck, led a company of acrobats, who were well received.

Among the songs which met with especial favor were "Any Old Port In A Storm," an old fashioned song about the sea for a man with a big voice, which was sung by John P. Rogers;

Shaw. The play deals with the subject of predatory wealth in America.

"Is Matrimony a Failure?"

"Is Matrimony a Failure?" a farce adapted by Leo Ditrichstein from the German, has had its first presentation at the Savoy theater at Atlantic City. The play deals with the troubles that beset the burghers of Rosedale when a young lawyer discovered that every marriage recorded by the town clerk was illegal. Re-marriage was the order of the day, but new marriages meant new marital complications, and thus the humorous complications started. In the end most of Mr. Ditrichstein's characters decide that matrimony is not a failure.

CALLED GAME TO GET TOBACCO.

Umpire Cleary of the Kansas State league, who called the game at McPherson, Kan., recently in the eighth inning of a twenty-one inning game in order that he might send for some more chewing tobacco, is one of the most popular indicator handlers in the Sunflower State.

The McPherson incident is merely one of the numerous acts that have gone to convince the Kansas leaguers that Cleary is "cock of the walk" when it comes to the psychological moment stunts.

"No position is so trying," said Cleary recently, "as the duties of an umpire in a small league. Although I have never handled an indicator in what the sporting writers would term 'fast company,' I believe it would be dead easy to the game I am up against down here."

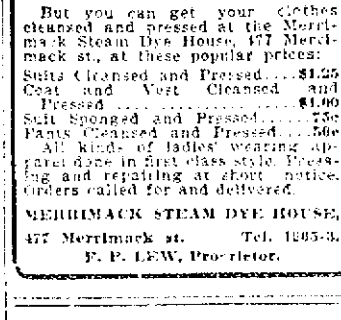

NEEDS NO LEGISLATION.

"Legislate the spitball out?" asked Manager Fred Lake of the Boston Americans. "What's the use? The pitchers are putting it out of business themselves. Where there were thirty spitball pitchers a year ago there are scarcely ten today. A lot of them bluff about it, but the real 'spitters' they throw are few and far between."

"Cy Morgan would be with us today if he had only consented to pass up the spitter. He refused, though, and became so wild that we finally traded him to Philadelphia. Now, I understand, he has practically stopped using the spitter and depends upon his curve ball, and I want to tell you that no pitcher in the league has a better curve ball than Morgan. A few years from now few pitchers will bother with the spitball at all."
